100% boost in post office subsidy proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar called on Congress today to double the postal subsidy and said a new mail-delivery system resented bitterly by the nation's letter carriers will be put into effect in one city.

Speaking to the National Postal Forum, Bailar urged Congress to double the $920 million taxpayer's subsidy to help keep postage rates "at a level that both business and the individual can afford."

Bailar also announced that the Postal Service will implement the controversial Kokomo Plan, which redraws letter carriers' routes according to computerized measurements of the number of letters delivered and miles walked, in Portland, Ore.

The plan is being implemented only in Portland at this time, Bailar said, in order to give the letter carriers time to file a grievance and take the matter to arbitraton before the system becomes national.

The system involves restructuring of routes to equalize work and was first tested in Kokomo, Ind. Bailer said it will result in substantial cost-cutting.

He said a letter announcing the inauguration of the plan in Portland was being sent to the letter carriers today and he emphasized that the Postal Service will exercise its right to transfer employes if necessary.

In asking for the increased subsidy, Bailar said "it is no secret that to date the Postal Service has been unable to balance its costs and revenues despite increases in postage rates."

Referring to the next anticipated increase in first class mail, Bailar added: "A thirteen-cent stamp may enable us to catch up on our expenses but whether it will enable us to keep up in the face of continued inflation is a question yet to be answered."

He also said a public service study commission should be created to determine which services the taxpayers should be asked to support in the future.

Bailar said the increased subsidy would serve as "a bridge from an inflation-wracked, deficit-ridden postal service to a financially solvent institution."

He said the proposed commission study was necessary to provide "a clarification and expansion of the definition of those services provided by the Postal Service which the users of the mails cannot rightly be asked to support."

He said that slow rate-making was partially to blame for a deficit that will reach nearly $2.5 billion by the close of the year.

James S. Rademacher, president of the letter carriers, has opposed the use of the so-called Kokomo Plan.

Kissinger asks quick okay of Sinai plan

Says only 75 Yanks on job at one time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger declared today that no more than 75 American technicians would be on duty at any one time monitoring the new Sinai peace agreement, which he said directly affects the security and well-being of every American.

The Palestine Liberation Organization is calling for the killing of American technicians who may be stationed in the Sinai. See story on page 3.

Appealing for quick approval of the Israeli-Egyptian accord, Kissinger told the House International Relations Committee that the maximum 200 Americans doing the monitoring would be working at early-warning stations in shifts of 75.

He gave no figure for total aid costs for the agreement, but said the amount in excess of the $3.3 billion already requested for Israel and the $250 million for Egypt "will be nothing like" some of the figures that have been speculated upon.

"I hope the committee will consider that progress for peace is not something that occurs thousands of miles away, but something that affects every American," Kissinger said.

The committee's senior Republican, Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, has said he believes the committee can approve a resolution for stationing U.S. technicians in the Sinai before the end of this week.

Kissinger said the Americans in the Sinai will be civilians and volunteers.

"They are not there in contrast to Vietnam on either side," Kissinger said. "They are not there to bring victory to either side."

He said he did not easily agree to the stationing of Americans in the Sinai.

"It is something to which we reluctantly agreed at the urgent request of both parties," Kissinger said.

He also said he agreed at the "special request of one of the parties," apparently referring to Israel. But he did not elaborate.

Kissinger noted he was asked in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week if the administration would be willing to accept a requirement that all Americans be removed in the event hostilities resumed in the Sinai.

He told the House committee he'd replied. "We would have no difficulty accepting that."

He said the 1973 Mideast war brought home to Americans both the risk of U.S.-Soviet nuclear confrontation and the danger of losing access to oil.

Kissinger made the comments in an opening statement. The committee went into closed session to hear him give details of the accord he helped negotiate.

President Ford and Kissinger asked congressional leaders last week to approve stationing U.S. technicians in the Sinai within the next two weeks.

ESTIMATING THE DAMAGE

Pomona school fire ruins classroom but not classes

Pomona firemen are investigating the possibility of arson in a $40,000 fire at a Pomona school Sunday.

Except for a few inconveniences school will open as scheduled Wednesday at Yorba School despite the fire that destroyed one classroom and damaged others.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business, reported this morning that a portable already at the school on La Verne Avenue west of Garey Avenue will be substituted for the burned classroom.

The school suffered approximately $40,000 loss. A fifth grade classroom was lost and adjacent classrooms and a storeroom suffered extensive smoke, heat and water damage.

Firemen received the call at 4:43 a.m. after a neighbor's daughter was awakened by what she thought was a large explosion. Glancing out their windows, the residents saw the interior of the classroom totally in flames.

When firemen arrived, the flames were shooting through the roof. Three engine companies, a truck company and rescue unit controlled the blaze within 14 minutes, but firemen spent an additional 4½ hours totally extinguishing and controlling the flames.

Battalion Chief Don Skews was in charge of the crew.

In another weekend fire mishap in Pomona, two men received second and third degree burns when lacquer thinner they were painting with was ignited by a pilot light.

Jim Rogers of Norwalk and Jim Weaver of Covina were painting kitchen cabinets at 642 N. East End Ave. Saturday. The thinner was ignited by a nearby pilot on the kitchen stove.

Rogers received second and third degree burns to his feet, both arms and the side of his face. Weaver received similar burns to his arms.

Both men were taken by ambulance to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Rogers was listed in good condition at the hospital this morning. Weaver was treated and released.

100 arrested as school busing begins in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Police made over 100 arrests as U.S. Marshals backed by National Guard troops helped get the buses rolling today as a new and extensive busing program came to the nation's oldest public school system.

Police riflemen were stationed on rooftops and U.S. marshals guarded bus routes as National Guard troops stood by to help implement the court-ordered desegregation program.

At South Boston High School, police and state troopers lined the corridors and officers stood at the entrances to other schools as black pupils arrived in buses for the first day of classes under a new desegregation program.

National Guardsmen were standing by, and 100 U.S. marshals helped patrol school grounds. Police riflemen were stationed on rooftops at Charlestown High School, which is being integrated for the first time this year.

A group of about 200 whites gathered on Bunker Hill Street and burned a human in effigy with a racial ephitet printed on it while black children entered the high school one block away.

Police said a .22-caliber bullet was fired through the side of a police van in Charlestown, but the officer driving the van was not injured.

Police reported some 100 arrests, mostly for disorderly conduct. Many of those taken into custody were said to be members of the probusing Committee Against Racism.

Police spokesman Steven Dunleavy said a group of 40 was arrested in South Boston before school opened this morning, and about 60 persons who gathered at the police station to protest the arrests were also taken into custody.

Scattered arrests were also reported in Hyde Park, the South End near Roxbury and in other parts of South Boston.

"In general, schools are doing fine, and the educational process is going on," said Robert Donahue, director of the office of implementation under the desegregation program.

School attendance figures were not immediately available, but Donahue said attendance generally appeared to be about one-fourth to one-half of projected enrollment.

$30,000 taken

Pomonan, armored car driver, held in theft

A Pomona man faced arraignment today in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles on charges that he stole $30,000 in cash while working as a driver for an armored car company.

The suspect, LeRoy Purscelley, 31, was arrested by FBI agents and an Orange city detective Friday night in his apartment at 1067½ S. Reservoir St. Arresting officers held a complaint issued by the U.S. attorney's office charging Purscelley with embezzling funds from a federally insured bank.

Acting chief of the Los Angeles FBI office Elmer F. Linberg said today that Purscelley is suspected of stealing $30,000 in $100 bills while transporting currency from the Security Pacific Bank in Huntington Beach to a Federal Reserve Bank in Los Angeles on June 11. Linberg did not reveal how the actual theft occurred. At the time, Purscelley was a driver for the Armored Transport Co. of Los Angeles.

The armored car company was employed to transfer a large but unspecified amount of cash from the bank in Huntington Beach to the federal bank in Los Angeles. Upon arrival there, the loss was discovered.

At the time of Purscelley's arrest in Pomona, Linberg said, agents recovered $11,700 in $100 bills in his apartment. The cash is suspected of being the remains of the stolen $30,000.

After his arrest, the suspect was taken to the Orange County Jail where he was confined during the weekend pending his appearance before a U.S. magistrate in Santa Ana today.

Reagan to test appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan will enter the race for the GOP presidential nomination "before Thanksgiving" and mount an aggressive challenge to President Ford in the primaries, a key supporter said today.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's a candidate and we've moved from the question of 'if,' to 'when and where,'" said Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., who heads a citizen's committee for Reagan.

Laxalt said there is "no way" the Reagan drive for the presidency would involve a conservative third party.

The senator commented during a breakfast meeting with reporters at the National Press Club.

Laxalt said he would have no problem backing President Ford should Reagan fail to win the GOP nomination.

"It's absolutely essential that he develop momentum in the early primaries," Laxalt said of Reagan.

He said Reagan will concentrate his efforts on his political base in the West and South but probably will enter other primaries.

Laxalt said efforts to beat Ford would involve such early primaries as those in New Hampshire, Georgia, Florida and North Carolina and South Carolina.

Arraignment set Thursday

Manson may dominate 'Squeaky's' case

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The name of Charles Manson may dominate the case of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, although prosecutors say they find no evidence of a conspiracy in the attempted assassination of President Ford.

Manson, convicted of murder in the deaths of nine persons, is reputed by some authorities to still have a strong influence over some of his communal "family," despite the fact he is in prison.

Among the most loyal is Miss Fromme, 27, charged with attempted murder of the President after pointing a loaded .45 caliber pistol at Ford from an arm's length away as the President shook hands with wellwishers near the State Capitol on Friday.

She once said of the Manson family: "They're my life."

FBI agents who interviewed Manson in his San Quentin jail cell over the weekend say he denied any role in a conspiracy to kill Ford but refused to answer specific questions.

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes and Sacramento Police Chief William Kinney both said during the weekend they had no evidence of any Manson involvement. And Miss Fromme's roommate, Sandra Good, another loyal Manson follower, said Manson had nothing to do with the incident.

FBI spokesman Tom Griffin said Manson was interviewed at San Quentin Prison by two agents. "In one and a half hours we came up with absolutely nothing of any evidentiary value or any lead value either," he said. "We got no answers to specific questions as to the actual event or any conspiracy or plan."

Griffin said Manson, 40, was cooperative but only "to the standpoint of giving out his theory on how he thinks the world should be. He's willing to talk about that."

Ford, meanwhile, relaxed on the golf course both Saturday and Sunday. White House officials said the President will not change any travel plans because of the gun incident. He flies to New Hampshire and Missouri this week.

In recent months, Miss Fromme and Miss Good have launched new efforts to promote Manson's philosophy. They visited newspaper offices and drafted "press releases" quoting Manson.

In July, they contacted an Associated Press reporter who had covered Manson's trial. Miss Fromme said in a statement joined by Miss Good: "If Nixon's reality wearing a new Ford face continues to run the country against the law, your homes will be bloodier than the Tate-LaBianca houses and My Lai put togther."

The FBI's Griffin said, "I think our Los Angeles office indicated it had clipped the story and it was part of our files. I don't know if it was disseminated beyond those files."

Miss Fromme, being held under $1 million bail, has not entered a plea. Her arraignment was continued until Thursday. By then, prosecutors hope to have a federal grand jury indictment charging her under the new federal law covering assassination attempts on presidents.

Miss Good, 31, insisted at a Saturday news conference that Manson did not order Miss Fromme to kill Ford. "Squeaky acted totally of her own volition," she said. "Manson didn't order her to do this. Squeaky is acting on the will of many people."

Stephen Kay, one of Manson's prosecutors, had said Friday: "The Manson girls just don't act on their own. They act at the behest of Charles Manson. I think Charles Manson had a hand in it."

At Manson's trial in 1970, his three women co-defendants confessed to murdering actress Sharon Tate and six others but insisted Manson wasn't there and didn't give the orders. Circumstantial evidence and a witness who placed him at the scene of two of the slayings led to his conviction and death sentence, which was subsequently reduced to life in prison. He was later convicted in other killings as well.

Manson has been locked up for five years. Followers, including Miss Fromme, are forbidden to visit him and they communicate only by letters. The women's recent "press releases" included statements from Manson's letters.

Keyes, who examined letters taken from Miss Fromme's apartment, said he saw no evidence of a conspiracy. Kinney said, "We have nothing in our files that indicates the Manson girls — she in particular — had ever threatened the President of the United States."

A letter purporting to be signed by Manson was received by several state legislators Friday, the day Miss Fromme was arrested. It said, "I've told you people over and over — I can release thoughts that will destroy you," and warned that "the other justice is gonna catch up with you."

"There's a wave of assassins moving throughout the world," Miss Good said after Miss Fromme's arrest. "Many people will be assassinated in the near future."

But hours later, relaxing barefoot in her living room, Miss Good said she was shocked at Miss Fromme's arrest and added: "You know, just because I say your house will burn down, it doesn't mean I'm going to light the fire. It doesn't mean I'm going to do it."

Commenting Sunday on the case, Pope Paul VI warned that declining spiritual values endanger modern life and said he was amazed and grieved at what he called the "homicidal attempt" on Ford's life.

In Moscow, the Soviet press said it was a symptom of "the cult of violence" in the United States. "It looks like attempted murders are becoming a permanent fixture of large political campaigns in the U.S.A.," said Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Communist youth movement.

In San Diego, Calif., a woman who identified herself as Miss Good's mother told the San Diego Union she wishes her daughter had died of respiratory ailments she suffered as a child. The woman declined to give her name and address because she said she is afraid of Sandra.

"Those times, the doctors told me she was dead," said the woman who said she hasn't seen Sandra for five years. "Once I even left the hospital after they told me she had died. They called me back.

"Why did she have to pull through?"

Utah plane crash kills California family

HURRICANE, Utah (AP) — A Southern California man, his wife and four children perished in the flaming wreckage of their light plane when it crashed after circling over the home of relatives, officials said.

Killed in the crash Sunday were Barton Spendlove, about 38, from the Los Angeles area, his wife Louise, three girls aged 6, 16 and 17 and a boy, about 10, local fire officials said.

Names of the children and Mrs. Spendlove's age weren't immediately available.

The family was leaving Hurricane for California Sunday at about 5:55 p.m., after attending church with Spendlove's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winferd Spendlove, said fire dispatcher Dell Stout.

The plane had circled over the Winferd Spendlove house after takeoff when the engine stopped, the plane turned 45 degrees and plunged into field one-half mile from the airport, authorities said.

The elder Spendlove helped remove the bodies from the charred wreckage of the single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza after the Hurricane Fire Department doused the craft with foam fire retardant.

"They had to restrain him to keep him away from the plane while it was still burning," Stout said of the elder Spendlove.

Washington County deputy sheriff Patrick Judd said the plane appeared to have lost power and was attempting to return to the airport when it crashed.

The crash took place about three miles southwest of this southern Utah town of 1,500.

Kansas City chosen for GOP Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans unanimously agreed today to hold their party's 1976 presidential convention in Kansas City beginning next Aug. 16.

The Republican National Committee approved as expected the choice of the Missouri city over Cleveland, Ohio, and four other cities that had bid for the convention.

Kansas City and Cleveland had been the finalists. The party's convention site selection committee chose Kansas City on Sunday night.

Edwin G. Middleton of Louisville, Ky., reporting for the site selection panel, said Cleveland did not have enough hotel space to accommodate the convention. He said Kansas City had agreed to make available 15,750 hotel rooms, although some of them were as far away as Topeka.

Paul Harle, the California Republican chairman, said "I love Topeka very much but I do have some problems" with the idea of housing convention delegates an hour's driving time away from the convention hall.

Middleton said there would be 2,000 to 2,500 rooms in communities 45 minutes to an hour away from Kansas City, but he said they would be used to house "visitors and whatnot" instead of delegates to the convention.

The national committee then approved a resolution declaring that the 1927 convention "shall be convened at the Kemper Arena in Kansas City, Mo., on Aug. 16, 1976."

The convention will wind up on Aug. 19 after nominating GOP candidates for president and vice president and approving a party platform.

The Kansas City Council has approved expenditures of up to $500,000 to prepare the convention hall and other facilities for use by the Republicans.

Cleveland had offered to bring in cruise ships and temporary modular housing to provide enough hotel space but still would have required sending some delegates to Akron, Ohio.

Housing was an unusually difficult problem for the Republicans because they will have their largest convention next year, at last count more than 2,200 delegates and an equal number of alternates.

It will be the first nominating convention for Kansas City since 1928, when the Republicans nominated Herbert Hoover.

The Republican convention is tentatively scheduled to start Aug. 16, the Democrats July 12 in New York. The party in the White House traditionally goes last.

Cleveland had the appeal of the largest city in the country with a Republican mayor, Ralph Perk, who led his city's delegation before the site committee.

Ohio also is the largest state with a Republican governor, James A. Rhodes.

But Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, appeared in support of Kansas City, promising adequate police protection during the convention. Mayor Pro Tem Richard Berkley led a 17-member Kansas City delegation to lobby the site committee.

Miami Beach, host for the last two Republican conventions and the 1972 Democratic convention, also had bid for next year's GOP meeting but had not come up with the financial promises made by Kansas City and Cleveland.

Los Angeles, which a week ago lost a serious effort to get the Democratic convention, also had expressed interest in the GOP affair. But the southern California city was too close for some Republicans to the San Clemente retreat of former President Richard M. Nixon.

The City Council has pledged $500,000 in services and facilities for the Kansas City convention, and Mayor Charles Wheeler, a Democrat, has offered to head a fund drive to raise another $300,000 from private sources.

Mayor Charles Wheeler of Kansas City said the city's central location was the top factor in winning the convention.

A Democrat and an announced candidate for his party's vice presidential nomination, Wheeler said he conducted a "low-key campaign intentionally" so he wouldn't scare the Republicans away.

Wheeler said the city's success last December in hosting the Democrats' first mid-term convention and the availability of new convention facilities also were obvious factors.

The convention will be held at Kemper Arena, home of the Kings of the National Basketball Association and Scouts of the National Hockey League. The arena is in the stockyards district west of the downtown area and near the American Royal Arena and Governor's Exposition Hall, which will be used for the press and auxiliary services. Municipal Auditorium in the downtown area will also be used.

The search continues in Turkey

Tremors panic shocked survivors

LICE, Turkey (AP) — Small tremors continue to panic survivors of the earthquake that devastated a section of eastern Turkey two days ago. Officials say the quake killed more than 1,800 persons, and they fear the total will rise as they hear from isolated mountain villages.

Necmettin Esenler, a municipal clerk who lost eight members of his family held out his bloody hands and tearfully said: "I dug out my two-yearold daughter Vedia from under a rock with these hands."

Women in dusty black shawls chanted mourning songs alongside the rag-covered bodies of their children.

The stench of death filled the air at Lice, capital of the province which suffered most from the quake at noon Saturday. The town of 8,000 was reduced to rubble. Officials said the burial grounds would not be large enough for the 840 persons believed to have died in Lice.

At least 1,000 more died in surrounding villages, officials said. The continuing tremors were small, but they interfered with the search for the injured and bodies buried in the debris.

Some survivors wandered around in a daze, trying to find relatives and possessions. Others fought over tents, blankets and clothing being distributed by rescue workers.

Military planes brought in 17 tons of food, blood, antibiotics and other relief supplies. Mobile hospitals and mobile kitchens were set up. About 2,000 troops worked alongside civilian rescue teams.

Premier Suleyman Demirel toured the area and pledged: "No one will be left starving or homeless."

The Turkish state radio played only classical music Sunday in mourning for the victims.

The Turkish quake measured 6.8 on the Richter scale and struck along the Anatolian Fault, which runs in a crescent shape from Turkey's Aegean coast northeast along the Black Sea and then south into the eastern mountains. A quake along the fault in 1939 killed 30,000 people, and 2,964 died in a quake in 1966 at Varto, not far from Lice.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion on which a reading of 6 indicates a severe quake while 7 means the possibility of widespread, heavy damage.

At midday Sunday, a relatively strong earthquake rumbled through northwestern Yugoslavia, more than 1,000 miles from the Turkish quake site, causing minor damage but no casualties, authorities in Zagreb reported. Building walls cracked and some plaster was knocked down in Zagreb, Varazdin, Cakovec and Krapina.

The Zagreb Seismological Institute registered the quake at 6-7 on the Mercalli scale, which has a maximum reading of 12. No Richter reading was reported.

U.S. technicians should be shot—PLO

By The Associated Press

The Palestine Liberation Organization has called on Arab nationalists to shoot American technicians who may be stationed in the Sinai Desert under the Israeli-Egyptian pact.

"The Palestinian revolution ... regards the U.S. military presence in Sinai as an enemy target that should be shot by every struggler and every nationalist in our Arab nation," the PLO newspaper Al Thawra said in Beirut on Sunday.

The newspaper called the proposed presence of the American civilian technicians at warning stations in the Gidi and Mitla passes "dual occupation" of Egyptian land by the United States and Israel.

"We are confident the first shot will be fired by an Egyptian soldier, because the Egyptians are known for their nationalism and will never allow an imperialist American flag to flutter over any spot of Arab territory," Al Thawra wrote.

Palestinian guerrillas are unlikely to constitute any threat to the Americans since they probably cannot get to the Sinai from their bases in Lebanon and Syria. Nor are any Egyptian soldiers likely to attack the Americans. But such talk from the PLO could make it harder for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to get the necessary approval from the U.S. Congress of the new American role.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in an interview Sunday on the ABC program "Issues and Answers" said without the American presence, "it is doubtful if the present terms of this agreement can be maintained."

But PLO chief Yasir Arafat in interviews with Time, Newsweek and the CBS program "Face the Nation" said the "United States is paying too much for too little"; the Palestinians "can stop most of the consequences of the new agreement," and the Palestinians "are looking for more escalation; we expect continual support of our cause from the Soviet Union."

N.Y. may get $2 billion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York State Legislature appears ready to allocate some $2 billion and put New York City into virtual receivership to prevent the city's imminent financial collapse.

As the lawmakers resumed their emergency session today, State Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson went to Washington to ask fellow Republicans in the Ford administration for some form of federal assistance to the city.

Many legislators fear that without federal assistance, the complex bailout plan put together by Gov. Hugh Carey might ultimately fail.

But the attitude of a majority in both houses appeared to be that even without federal aid, the plan would have to be approved because it was the only alternative to a default by the city on its debts. Default could come this week and appears inevitable by next Monday unless action is taken.

Such default, in the view of legislators of both major parties, would not only disrupt city government, but also wreck the credit of the state and make it impossible or unbearably expensive for local governments across New York to raise money.

Masked man with knife rapes an Ontario woman

A stocking masked man, armed with a foot-long butcher knife, raped an 18-year-old Ontario woman and robbed her of her purse Sunday night in the 1000 block of W. E Street in Ontario, police reported.

Police said the man approached the woman's car parked in front of her home and first asked her directions to "Marine" street. When the woman couldn't answer the man came around the other side of the car and pulled out the butcher knife.

Police said the man got into the car and forced the woman to drive a short distance and stop. The man after demanding the woman's money forced her into the back seat with knife, ordered her to disrobe and raped her.

Police said the man fled on foot with the woman's purse containing a small amount of cash.

The rapist-robber was described as a Caucasian, 20 to 25, 5 feet 7 to six feet tall, 140 pounds, with wavy black shoulder length hair and a mustache. He was wearing a brown long sleeved shirt and tan pants.

A man wearing a baseball cap and armed with a small handgun robbed the 7-11 Market at Orchard Street and Central Avenue in MONTCLAIR of an undetermined amount of cash Sunday night.

Police said the robber, wearing a blue-baseball hat and baggie pants, walked into the store about 11 p.m. and pulled a small derringer-type handgun on clerk Don Warren. The robber demanded the money from the register and fled.

The robber was further described as a Caucasian, 30 to 35, 150 pounds, and wearing a gray sweatshirt and white baggie pants.

A lone gunman with long, "dishwater blond hair" robbed the Straw Hat Pizza Palace at 1065 W. Foothill Blvd. in CLAREMONT early Sunday morning, police said.

The victim, Dave Downey, said the young man entered and gestured as if he had a pistol in his jacket pocket.. He fled in a station wagon.

The robber was described as a Caucasian, 5 feet 9, weighing 150 pounds. He wore a military fatigue jacket and wire-rimmed sunglasses.

Chester Olson of 533 N. Campus Ave., UPLAND, reported to police Sunday burglars broke into his home and made off with a .22 Colt pistol, a portable color television set, and three cameras valued at over $1,000.

Olson reported a number of collectors' coins missing from the home.

Four women warned at ordinations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four women who defied their church's hierarchy to take vows as Episcopal priests have been warned by one who preceded them: "You will suffer and you will hurt."

But, added the Rev. Alison Cheek Sunday in an ordination ceremony not recognized as valid by the bishop of Washington: "You will have joy and you will have peace."

The ordination ceremony at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation attended by some 1,000 persons also was marked by protest.

The Rt. Rev. William Creighton, bishop of Washington, had issued a pastoral letter read to Episcopalian congregations Sunday asking them to boycott the ceremony.

He also asked that the ordained women not be allowed to function as priests in churches of the Washington area.

And at a time in the ceremony allotted for voicing objections, two men came to the front of the church to do so. Speaking of resigned Bishop George Barrett of Rochester, N.Y., who performed the ordinations, Dr. Emile Oberholzer asserted: "This bishop is without jurisdiction over the candidates."

He added: "These ordinations will compound the difficulty of opening ordinations to women and will endanger the unity of this branch of Christ's church."

In a brief response, Bishop Barrett said those participating in the ceremony "do not take the order of the church lightly, but there are times when overriding considerations must supplant canons and rules."

Then he addressed the four women: "My sisters, do you believe that you are truly called by God and His church to this priesthood?"

"I believe I am so called," they answered in unison.

About 50 priests, more than half of them in clerical garb, joined in the traditional laying on of hands that marks initiation into the priesthood.

Colombian army general killed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Terrorist gunmen in a speeding car assassinated the inspector general of the Colombian army today, military authorities said.

They said Gen. Ramon Arturo Rincon Quinones was sprayed with bullets as he was being driven to the Defense Ministry in a limousine. The general's chauffeur was seriously wounded.

Rincon had conducted a strong campaign against leftist guerrillas.

12 states still hit by teachers strikes

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer

Teachers strikes in a dozen states extended summer holidays for nearly a million public school pupils today as a result of contract disputes involving pay, class size and job security.

Meanwhile, New York City's 1.1 million school children begain classes today while officials of the financially strapped city met with union leaders in an attempt to avert a strike by 65,000 teachers.

Police in Boston, backed by U.S. marshals and National Guard troops at the ready, arrested about 100 persons today, mostly on charges of disorderly conduct, as a new and extensive busing program came to the nation's oldest public school system.

In Louisville, Ky., armed National Guard troops and police rode nearly empty schools buses today as classes resumed in Jefferson County after four days of noisy and sometimes violent antibusing protests.

Antibusing protests in Louisville resulted in 70 arrests Sunday night. More than 22,000 of the 135,000 pupils are being bused under a plan to merge prodominantly black city schools with mostly white county schools.

Teacher strikes were scattered around the nation with 28,000 off the job in Illinois; 7,800 in Pennsylvania; 385 in Michigan; 800 in Wilmington, Del.; 2,200 in Rhode Island; 900 in Lynn, Mass.; 1,200 in New York State; 9,900 in New Jersey; 1,300 in Berkeley and San Jose, Calif.; 300 in Ohio; 600 in Tacoma, Wash.; 850 in Great Falls, Mont.

Pilot lands in jail for his buzzing

BOGNOR REGIS, England (AP) — A 35-year-old pilot who threatened to "scare hell out of Bognor Regis" buzzed the south coast resort town for three hours early today after a lover's quarrel.

Police evacuated scores of families after the lovesick pilot, armed with a shotgun, threatened to crash his single-engine plane on his girl friend's home.

The pilot, identified only as Gary, repeatedly sent his stolen Piper Cherokee into screaming dives over the area.

Running out of land

New squatter problems in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — It was about 2 a.m. when Arturo Acosta, a $6-a-day unskilled laborer, awoke to find about a dozen policemen pulling down his shack.

Accused of being a squatter, Acosta fled into the night with his wife and 2½-year-old daughter and hid in the bushes as the last of his shanty came crashing down.

Acosta is one of an estimated 2 million people living on land claimed by someone else in this country of 58 million.

Twenty-five years ago, the Arturo Acostas of Mexico might have shrugged, picked up their belongings and moved someplace else in the city where they could build a shack and the land could be used free.

But Acosta and many others among the estimated 300,000 squatters living in a belt of what Mexicans call "lost cities" around the capital say they are going to fight for the land they occupy.

Mexico City now has a population of about 10 million. The city now fills the circular Valley of Mexico and there is little room left.

Landowners who once ignored squatters are having them evicted as land prices hit $15 a square foot in the outlying areas of the city.

Clashes between squatters and the police have grown more frequent. Slum leaders talk of revolution.

There is little chance that squatters, whom leftists are trying to organize, and a dozen urban guerrilla group's now robbing banks and killing policemen, can successfully launch a revolution. But it is clear that the seeds of social conflict sown many years ago through inadequate government planning are being cultivated by the radical left.

The government is attacking the land problem, but the measures being taken don't appear to be coping fully with the crush of poor streaming into the cities.

The bus stations are filled daily with sad, bewildered peasants coming to the city seeking a better life. They carry their belongings in paper sacks, boxes and cardboard suitcases.

Mexico created its first agrarian reform ministry earlier this year under President Luis Echeverria, 65 years after the start of a revolution which had as a primary goal to give land to Mexico's peasants.

The minister of the new department, Augusto Gomez Villanueva, has about 9,000 employes and a $65 million budget for this year.

According to recent official statistics, more than 20 million acres of land have been distributed among Mexican peasants in the last 40 years.

A public address system in de la Cruz's office harangues the residents from sun-up to sundown. Children in groups sometimes pause in their play, shout slogans in unison in reply to the public address system and fling their little fists into the air in power salutes.

The police have surrounded the area for several weeks. About a month ago, 28 of the slum people were injured when policemen armed with clearplastic shields, riot helmets, tear gas and three-foot-long truncheons charged into a crowd.

The police, who said they were there to prevent trouble, claimed they were attacked by squatters throwing rocks.

After his shack was destroyed by the police in another slum several miles away, Arturo Acosta moved up the hill in the same area. More than 4,000 squatters live there atop a solidified bed of lava.

Dozens of other shanties, made from basketball-size chunks of lava piled atop each other without mortar also have been knocked down by the police, the squatters said. About three dozen squatters were arrested in a confrontation with the police three weeks ago.

A police colonel and other police officers have been going from door to door of the shanties, advising residents they had better move off the land claimed by people wanting to sell it for upper class housing projects.

"We will fight for our homes if they try to come through and tear them all down," said Acosta. "Sure we have no guns, but students at the university have told us they will come to help us fight."

Acosta came to Mexico City to earn a better living, the same reason as thousands of others pouring into the capital each year.

"I was working in a manganese mine in Hidalgo," a state adjoining the state of Mexico, he said. "It was dirty work. A man can hardly breathe in the dust. I got three fingers blown off by a dynamite cap. I was making $1.25 a day.

"My brother who lived in Mexico City came to visit me," said Acosta. "He said I could do a lot better in the capital."

Acosta hopped a clattering third-class bus with his few personal belongings and hopes of making $40, maybe even $80 a week, he said. Five days later he was pushing an ice cream cart in the capital.

"Some days I made 40 cents and other days I made $4,' he said. He now makes to the minimum daily wage as an unskilled laborer.

Will he go back to the country if forced off the land he occupies now?

"I can't go back," he said. "I'm married now. I have a wife and child to support. There's no schools and no food where I come from. And a man can't make enough to stay alive in the country."

Terrorists to be freed by British

LONDON (AP) — The British government plans to end detention without trial in Northern Ireland and to set free all the 246 suspected terrorists it now holds there by Christmas.

"Our aim is to dismantle detention," Merlyn Rees, secretary of state for Northern Ireland, told Parliament on Thursday. "If there is a full scale armed insurrection as there was before, I will use the law."

Rees said he hopes the situation in the province "will progress sufficiently to enable all detainees to be out by Christmas."

Since February there has been a cease-fire in Northern Ireland, where Irish Republican Army gunmen have battled to detach the predominantly Protestant province from British rule and unite it with the largely Roman Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

Official sources said there are now 1,363 special category prisoners in jail in the province — persons convicted of terrorist crimes.

Since the cease-fire, some 350 detainees have been released and only one of them has appeared in court on a violence charge. In the same period, 600 persons have been charged with terrorist offenses.

Replying to a Conservative opposition lawmaker who said released detainees might come to Britain to "join active units" here, Rees said the same problem could happen with ordinary criminals.

"I am not in business to keep people locked up for ever," he said.

We're here to help
all agriculture of all ages

Most farm families tend to believe that there is no substitute for practical farm experience. And they also believe that a good way to develop such experience is with a personal business venture all one's own.

That is the idea and the ideal behind the Junior Livestock Auctions: to give 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to raise their own meat animals, pay their own expenses, keep their own books—and then, once a year, market those animals in open competition to the highest bidders.

Bank of America is happy to play an active role in this community-wide farm program. We finance many of these junior livestock projects. We also help clerk the auctions and underwrite the bids to guarantee each youngster payment in full for every sale.

You are invited to participate, too. Come to bid on choice meat for your own table. Or come to watch. It is small business. But it is big enterprise. For everyone concerned.

MR. AND MRS. LAURENCE HORANS

Laurence Horans mark 50th year

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence D. Horan of Pomona recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a renewal of marriage vows following Mass in St. Joseph Catholic Church. Later, the couple attended a dinner and reception held in their honor.

The Diamond Bar Country Club was the site of the dinner attended by family members. A garden reception was held in their honor with 80 guests attending the event hosted by the couple's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Galligan, and their children, Pamela and Daniel, of Pomona.

Two members of the original wedding party, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Horan, attended the dinner and reception.

The couple was married in Chicago, Ill., on Aug. 5, 1925. They moved to Pomona 32 years ago from their home in Butler, Pa.

Mr. Horan was formerly employed by Kaiser Steel Corporation in Fontana where he was general foreman of the scrap preparation department before his retirement in 1966.

Mrs. Horan was manager of the Gaytime Dress Shop and the Serve Yourself Dress Shop in Pomona. She was employed by Walter Jones Insurance at the time of her retirement.

Volunteers are needed for center

Newcombers are being recruited to join other volunteers at the Upland Cancer Dressing Station on Tuesday.

Volunteers work at 611 N. 3rd Ave., Upland, between 9:30 a.m. at 2:30 p.m. Workers should bring a sack lunch if they plan to stay during the noon hour.

Dinner to aid Scouts

The third annual dinner to benefit Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America, is planned at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at La Villa Guasti Brookside Winery.

The Women's Service Board is sponsoring the dinner which provides funds to further leadership training of adult volunteers, continue the development of Holcomb Valley Scout Camp and extend scouting into all areas of the community.

Mrs. R. Craig McManigal and Mrs. Ron Brundage are directing arrangements which will feature wine tasting by Brookside Winery, a Basque dinner and music by Las Dos Notas.

CASTLE FOR SALE — Rheinstein Castle near Bingen is among the most celebrated of some 100 West German castles and country palaces up for sale. The Duke of Mecklenburg was asking $1.6 million before a pretended buyer carried off its contents. Now the sale price is $120,000. Upkeep costs have been blamed for glut.

Defense for hang gliding

It is a dizzying 20 minutes and 3,200 feet along the chill air currents to the earth below.

He trots to the edge of a granite runway, clinging to a multicolored kite, and hurtles into space. The triangular sail fills and the glider begins to hum as the pilot steers this way and that. Another deltashape follows ... and another ... and another.

A flight from Glacier Point is currently one of the most prestigious rides in the esoteric but expanding world of the hang glider (or sky-sail) enthusiast. But the chance to make the exotic flight through the early morning California sun may not be available much longer.

Yosemite is the only national park that permits hang gliding. Rangers allow flights only from 6:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., before the park opens to the general public. Local officials fear traffic jams and mobs of spectators would crowd the area if flights were later.

But officials in Washington apparently fear the stigma of condoning an activity that could leave a young glider pilot's body shattered on a beautiful valley meadow. A regulation published Aug. 20 in the Federal Register banning the practice in national parks is scheduled to take effect in late October.

In announcing the proposed regulation, park service officials said that in recreation areas, "powerless flight may infringe on the full and enjoyable use of the areas and may be destructive to park resources."

"I think hang gliding is a marvelous sport that can be done on private land or in the national forests," said Nathaniel Reed, assistant secretary of the Department of the Interior. "I don't believe it is the kind of thing that the national parks were created for."

But in more than 500 flights since the sky sails began soaring from Glacier Point last year, there have been no injuries, says Ranger Dean Paschall, 23, who coordinates the flights and judges pilot qualifications before they can fly.

"I usually require that they have at least four flights from an altitude over 2,000 feet," he said. "And they have to have been flying pretty steadily for at least six months."

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain And Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

Exclusive formula gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itch in many cases. Helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues due to inflammation.

In a survey, doctors were asked what they use to relieve such painful symptoms. Many of the doctors reporting said they either use Preparation H themselves or in their office practice.

Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief for hours in many cases from pain, itching in hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink painful swelling of such tissues when infected and inflamed. Try doctor-tested Preparation H.® There's no other formula like it. At drug counters everywhere. Ointment or suppositories.

Almanac

Today is Monday, Sept. 8, the 251st day of 1975. There are 114 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1565, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent European settlement in North America.

On this date ...

In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1760, Wisconsin came under British control after being French territory.

In 1855, the Crimean War ended.

In 1883, construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad was completed with the driving of the last spike near Garrison, Mont.

In 1934, 134 persons lost their lives in a fire aboard the luxury liner Morro Castle off the New Jersey coast.

In 1935, Sen. Huey Long, D-La., was shot at Baton Rouge. He died two days later.

Ten years ago: A number of countries, including the United States, made appeals to India and Pakistan to stop their fighting.

Five years ago: The Red Cross was named to negotiate with guerrillas holding 180 hostages aboard two hijacked airliners in Jordan.

One year ago: President Ford granted former President Richard M. Nixon an unconditional pardon for any crimes he may have committed during his term in office.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Sid Caesar is 53 years old. Songwriter Howard Dietz is 79.

Thought for today: Where there's marriage without love, there will be love without marriage. — Benjamin Franklin.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, George Washington alerted his generals that he would soon call a Council of War to consider the feasibility of launching a direct attack on Boston.

Good Samaritan fatally stabbed

RIVERSIDE (AP)—A motorist who stopped to help two men whose car had stalled on a Riverside street, was stabbed fatally, police said.

John Sharpnack, 20, of Riverside staggered to a nearby home after he was stabbed Tuesday. His assailants stole his car, officers said.

Police arrested David Marquez, 19, of Riverside, and an unidentified 14-year-old Los Angeles boy and booked them for investigation of murder and grand theft.

When we speak of "the seven seas," we are borrowing a phrase old-time sailors used to describe all the seas and oceans of the world.

The seven seas referred to are the North and South Pacific, North and South Atlantic, the Arctic, the Antarctic and the Indian oceans.

However, the phrase doesn't really describe these seven oceans, and was used long before some of the oceans were known to exist.

Actually, there is only one ocean — the "world ocean."

For the sake of convenience we speak of the Pacific or the Atlantic or the Indian ocean. The three oceans are really parts of one great body of water.

They come together around the continent of Antarctica to form what is called the Antarctic Ocean.

The Atlantic and Pacific meet again at the North Pole to form the Arctic Ocean.

Around the borders of the oceans lie smaller bodies of water called seas, bays and gulfs which complete the watery world.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

BIRTHDAY COMING — Helen Hayes, first lady of the American theater who will be 75 Oct. 10, is shown at the Festival Theater in New York City for the recent premiere of her latest film, the Walt Disney Studios' "One of Our Dinosaurs Is Missing," in which she stars with Peter Ustinov. She recently returned from Hawaii where she taped an episode of television's Hawaii Five-O with her son, James MacArthur. With Miss Hayes is 17-year-old Evelyn Albizu, Brazilian student brought here under the American Field Services program for which the actress is an energetic spokeswoman.

Broadway expects boom season

EDITOR'S NOTE — No fewer than 27 new arrivals are slated for Broadway before the end of the year, midway mark of the season. Theater-goers will be treated to some revivals and some offerings from abroad as well as new fare by budding authors. Here's the lineup.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway is aiming for another upturn season.

Encouraged by last year's multi-million dollar rise in boxoffice revenue, producers are scheduling an increased number of shows.

A larger-than-usual stellar galaxy, mostly feminine, has also been assembled to augment attendance prospects. The list ranges from such veteran worthies as Lillian Gish and Sylvia Sidney to current favorites Elizabeth Ashley and Paula Prentiss.

In the male contingent are Milton Berle, Cyril Richard, John Raitt, Yul Brynner.

Between now and Dec. 31, the traditional midway mark, 27 arrivals are slated, compared with 23 set last September.

Among the productions, seven are revivals of proven crowd pleasers; six have had extended domestic tests elsewhere; and four are coming from London.

In addition to such usual legit fare, a six-week run is planned at Broadway's Uris Theater starting Sept. 25 for "Treemonisha," an opera novelty composed by ragtime's founding father, Scott Joplin.

The operators of the Uris, who have had difficulty keeping regular shows in that huge auditorium, are continuing the policy instituted last season of special "concert engagements." The two-week kickoff beginning tonight spotlights Count Basie, Ella Fitzgerald and Frank Sinatra.

A novel addition to the drama lineup is Producer Joseph Papp's plan to present at the Booth theater a series of plays by young authors who otherwise might get a hearing off only off-Broadway.

Here, in calendar sequence always subject to sudden revision, are the shows slated to open. Premiere dates are shown in brackets before each title:

SEPTEMBER: (Just Arrived) "The Skin of Our Teeth," Hellinger Theater — The Kennedy Center version of Thornton Wilder's classic starring Miss Ashley, Martha Scott and Alfred Drake; (18) "Ah, Wilderness," Circle in the Square — Eugene O'Neill's only comedy down from New Haven's Long Wharf Theater with Geraldine Fitzgerald; (21) "The Soft Touch," Golden — new comedy about a young man whose problem is sleeping alone, directed by Alan Arkin; (23) "Truckload," Lyceum — new musical about a group of vagabonds.

OCTOBER: (6) "Hello, Dolly!," Minskoff — a freshened version starring Parl Bailey; (8) "Me & Bessie," Ambassador — musical about Bessie Smith, conceived by and featuring Linda Hopkins; (9) — "The Laf People," Booth — first of the Papp series, drama in the Brazil jungle, directed by Tom O'Horgan; (13) "Boccaccio," Edison — musical about the master of ribald stories; (15) "Trelawney of the Wells," Beaumont — Pinero's classic comedy with Marybeth Hurt; (23) "Yentl the Yeshiva Boy," O'Neill — drama set in a 19th century European Shtetl; (28) "The Best of Everybody," Beck — Milton Berle and Vivian Blaine in a comedy of a doctor who wants to create "a good monster"; (also 28) "America the Musical," St. James — melodic potpourri of music by Herbert, Lehar, Friml and Kern featuring Patrice Munsel, John Raitt, Tammy Grimes, Dick Shawn, Cyril Richard and Lillian Gish; (30) "Travesties," Barrymore — London comedy hit starring John Wood.

Tentatively marked down for October arrival also is the musical "Odyssey," headed by Yul Brynner and Joan Diener.

NOVEMBER: (13) "Habeas Corpus," Palace — another allstar London import with Donald Sinden, Rachel Roberts, Jean Marsh, Celeste Holms, June Havoc and Roberta Maxwell; (18) "Scream," theater not yet set — Sylvia Sidney in a drama about two Auschwitz survivors.

Tentative November bookings are: "Give 'Em Hell Harry," with Ed Nelson as Harry S. Truman; "Kennedy's Children," about some youths during the 1960's; and "Angel Street," revival of the famous melodrama.

DECEMBER: (4) "Fathers & Sons," Booth — second new author offering; (17) "Hamlet," Beaumont — with Sam Waterston in the title role; (18) "The Glass Menagerie," Circle in the Square — Maureen Stapleton explores the Tennessee Williams drama; (28) "Duplex," theater to be set — Janet Leigh trapped in melodrama.

Due also during December are "The Norman Conquests," a comic trilogy by Alan Ayckbourn at the Morosco, date to be set, featuring Paula Prentiss, Estelle Parsons, Carole Shelley, Richard Benjamin, Ken Howard, Barry Nelson, and "Kronborg," a musical version of "Hamlet" which still needs a date and a playhouse.

Intriguing prospects for post-New Year arrival are beginning to loom. Just for samples, Katharine Hepburn in "A Matter of Gravity," Julie Wilson in "Roberta" and Deborah Kerr with "Souvenir." Also new musicals by Stephen Sondheim, Alan Jay Lerner, Leonard Bernstein and Richard rodgers.

Prospects appear bright.

LEE GRANT, double Emmy Award-winning actress, will launch a new TV series this fall, just named Fay. It's the story of what happens to a 43-year-old houswife whose husband leaves her for younger chicks. Miss Grant, an unabashed 43 herself, says "It's both comedy and tragedy and it's happening all over America."

'Blue Bird' flies at last

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Blue Bird" has completed its flight.

Twentieth Century-Fox received the happy news that the trouble-plagued coproduction of the United States and U.S.S.R. has completed filming in Leningrad after seven months of production. Director George Cukor finished the final scene in a set described as the entrance to the Garden of Dreams.

The film, based on Maurice Maeterlinck's fantasy, has an international cast including Elizabeth Taylor, Ava Gardner, Jane Fonda and Cicely Tyson. It is expected to be released next Easter.

Despite recent setbacks

Japanese business leaders confident

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese businessmen, already stunned by the collapse of three big corporations in recent days, are expecting even more failures in the near future. Economists say speculative managements are as much to blame as Japan's business recession.

"I agree the situation isn't good at present — in fact, it's worse than we forecast — but I think it will improve," said Isamu Miyazaki, chief of the Economic Planning Agency's research department.

He said the Bank of Japan will cut its official discount rate — its lending rate to other banks — and this will improve business psychology.

In addition, the government, which until recently had been concentrating on economic restrictions aimed at curbing inflation, now is busy drawing up a package of business stimulants to be announced later this month.

Kazuo Nukazawa, an economist for Japan's Federation of Economic Organizations, said the failures were "half the fault of the government for acting too slowly and half the fault of the companies for being reckless."

Businessmen have been warning of impending failures and a rise in unemployment for some time, urging the government to ease credit drastically.

But Nukazawa said the three major collapses of the last week and a half could not be considered representative of the general state of Japanese business. There will be more big failures, he said, but they will be the "weak sisters" of Japanese industry and eliminating them will have a salutory effect on the economy as a whole.

Nevertheless, the business community was shocked at the failure of Kohjin Co., a widely diversified textile company that listed its total liabilities as 150 billion yen ($503 million), making it the largest corporate failure in Japan since World War II.

Then Toho Sangyo, a trading firm specializing in carbon products, and Terukuni Kaiun, Japan's ninth largest shipping company in terms of fleet tonnage, followed Kohjin in taking the first step in bankruptcy proceedings.

This is to ask the courts to hold off their creditors while they try to reconstruct. If the courts agree, the companies go into receivership and if not, they go into liquidation.

The combined liabilities of all three companies exceed 220 billion yen ($738 million). Including the debts of various affiliates also likely to be dragged under, the sum is likely to exceed 300 billion yen ($1 billion), although a substantial portion can be offset by the companies' existing assets, whose exact amount has not yet been determined.

Two years ago, Kohjin and Toho bought high-priced land on borrowed money, expecting Japan's inflationary land boom to continue.

Terukuni Kaiun chartered a number of oil tankers at high prices in expectation of even stronger demand for ships in the future.

But following the oil crisis, land prices fell in Japan and demand for oil dwindled, idling tankers everywhere.

Bank of Japan officials say current policy is to prevent the current tight reins on the economy from damaging healthy firms, but Kohjin, Toho Sangyo and Terukuni Kaiun were not considered healthy. Credit agency analysts said their managements failed to adjust to the low-growth era that followed the oil crisis.

In July, 948 companies, each with debts of 10 million yen ($33,500), went bankrupt, a record for the month. Officials at leading credit agencies say the current list of doubtful large companies contains about 30 names.

The Japanese government, in cooperation with large industrial groups, sometimes organizes rescue efforts for failing companies.

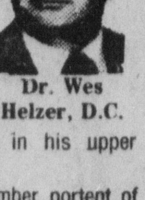
Yawn, Stretch . . . And Pop A Pain In The Back!

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

What does it mean when you yawn or stretch and suddenly get sharp pain in the back?

The crick or catch, or call it what you like is a danger signal not to be ignored.

What happens is that the person is experiencing a rib popping out of position. Usually the individual can work it back into place by doubling up and pulling his arms crossways across his body. However, it's a sure-fire indication that the individual has misplaced vertebrae in his upper back.



Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

And it is a somber portent of things to come.

The most common of the complications of a popping rib are neuritis and neuraligia. The popping cage can easily cause bursitis. And one of the most serious complications is shingles.

Consider shingles, for example. Once a rib pops out . . . unless the misaligned vertebrae is corrected . . . it will most surely happen again. Each reoccurrence weakens the muscle structure and it takes progressively less and less effort for the rib to pop out again.

With each incident of the popped rib the nerves in the affected area become over-extended to the point that a virus attack follows. Pimples then rise over these affected areas causing a severe itching accompanied by severe pain.

Incidentally this is not a nightmarish condition that effects only an unfortunate few. It is a common, most painful condition that requires correction at the source of the difficulty . . . that misaligned vertebrae.

And the person who believes he can always self-correct a popped rib is on a one-way street to serious difficulty.

Remember, as the wise man once said, "a little learning is a dangerous thing." It's enough that the person read the danger signal properly and seek immediate correction of the serious problem.

Documented tests indicate that a lot of drivers could save nearly 3 months' worth of gasoline annually. Could you?

By Dave Berry, Shell Mileage Expert

Dave Berry

Shell did a three-part test of some of that mileage advice you've been getting. The first two parts showed the value of good "mileage maintenance."

The third part showed how much we could stretch a gallon of gas using only driving techniques. Doing the same things might save you money, and the country gasoline.

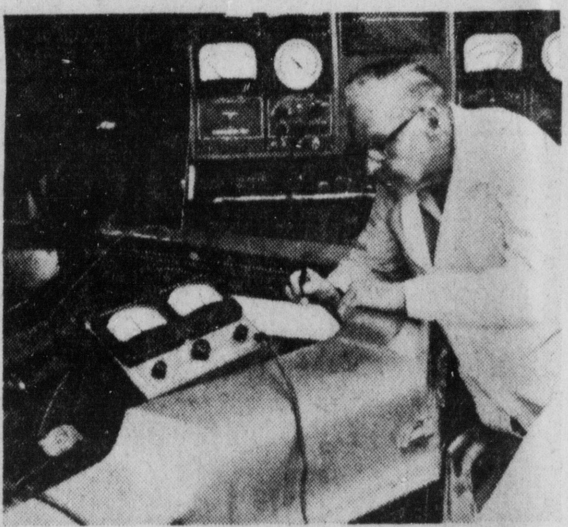
Mileage sabotage

To show the benefits of keeping a car in top mileage shape, I needed a car that wasn't in good shape. So I got one of our Shell company cars and sabotaged it.

First, I put the car slightly out of tune. I set the ignition timing back five degrees. Then, I made it idle a little too fast and too rich.

Next, I put on bias-ply tires instead of radials. And I lowered the tire pressure from the proper 24 pounds to 19.

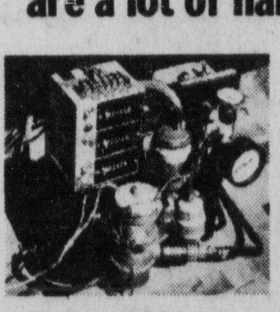
Then I put the wheels just a hair out of alignment (¼ in. excess toe-in).



Here I am with the test car. After the sabotage was done, I don't think the car was in any worse shape than thousands of cars on the road.

Finally, I put in a mileage handicap that most people don't know about — single grade 30 weight motor oil instead of an all-season 10W-40 motor oil.

Phase one: I think there are a lot of handicapped cars



The drivers didn't know we had installed this precision fuel-measuring equipment in the trunk.

Still wondering what it was all about, our 23 test drivers took turns driving the course, a 22-mile path that included both in-town and highway driving. Each was instructed to drive in his or her usual manner.

After each driver's turn, I sneaked a look at the special mileage meter hidden in the trunk. Average for all 23 drivers — 13.6 miles per gallon.

Now here's a bit of a shocker.

According to the best information I could find, 13.6 mpg is not bad mileage for a car of this make and year.

So, while I can't say there's another car with exactly the same handicaps, I figure that a lot of cars probably have mileage handicaps just as bad as our test car.

Phase two: What's good mileage maintenance worth?

After all 23 drivers had finished, I set out to undo the sabotage.

By changing from bias-ply tires to steel radials at the right pressure, we expected to improve gas mileage about seven percent.

Our test group was made up of ordinary drivers. Overall mileage improvement was 23.5 percent.

We looked for a five percent boost from correcting ignition timing.

An improvement of about four percent was expected from correcting the idle mixture.

And, although we couldn't say how much, we expected to save some fuel by getting the wheels aligned, correcting the idle speed, and changing from single grade 30 weight motor oil to a multigrade 10W-40.

When the same 23 drivers drove the course a second time, without knowing the car had been changed, they averaged 15.6 mpg. An improvement of 14.6 percent — two miles per gallon better.

Of course savings will be different for different cars and drivers.

How to figure the real cost of mileage maintenance

Obviously it pays to make mileage improvements like proper tire pressure. But what about a tune-up or radial tires? Is the gas you save worth it?

Let's take a tune-up as an example.

It could easily reduce gas consumption by five percent. For the average driver, that would be 37½ gallons a year, enough to offset a large part of the price of the tune-up.

The point is, when you're deciding to have a particular job done on your car, don't forget to consider the potential gasoline savings, too.

Of course the best gas stretcher of all costs nothing. It's the way you drive.

Phase three: "Pretend it's your last gallon"

That's what I told our test drivers when we started the third phase. We wanted to see how much farther a gallon would go when they used good mileage driving skills.

Here's what I told them to do.

One: Accelerate gently. You don't have to creep away from a light. Just take it easy.

I went along to "backseat drive" in the third phase of the test. My mileage tips helped the test group average an additional 8.9 percent improvement.

Two: Anticipate stops. Take your foot off the gas and let the car coast up to the intersection.

Three: Don't go too fast or too slow. Most cars get their best mileage around 35 mph. We didn't go over 50 on the freeways.

Four: Get into high gear quickly. If you have an automatic, learn to "feel" the shifting.

With these tricks, our test drivers got an average of 16.8 mpg. An additional 8.9 percent for a whopping 23.5 percent over the first run. That's equivalent to nearly three months' worth of gasoline per year.

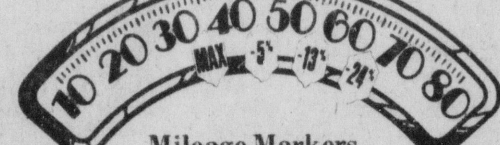
Think of the value of just one month's gasoline

Maybe your car is already in good shape. Or maybe you can't afford repairs right now.

But remember, our drivers saved nearly enough with the driving techniques alone to add up to a month's supply each year.

And they didn't creep around at a snail's pace to do it either. They averaged 33 minutes to cover the course in the first two runs and only six minutes longer with good mileage driving techniques. That's a small inconvenience for the potential saving.

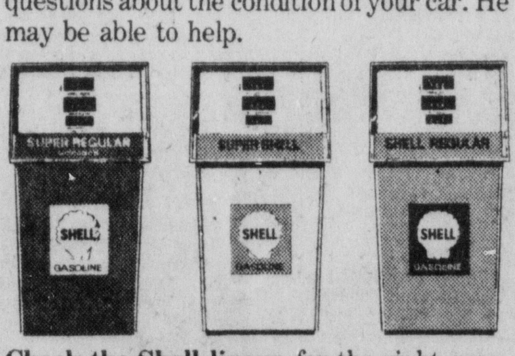
Here are some ways your Shell Dealer can help



Mileage Markers

Stop by your participating Shell Station for a free set of these Mileage Markers. On your speedometer, they remind you (not to mention others who drive your car) at which speeds most cars get the best mileage.

Talk to your Shell Dealer if you have questions about the condition of your car. He may be able to help.



Check the Shell lineup for the right gasoline for your car.

Shell Super Regular Unleaded* has good driveability to fight stallout and hesitation. Its excellent detergent properties help keep your carburetor clean, and that's good for mileage.

In addition, its octane rating is higher than the government-required minimum for unleaded gasolines, so it can stop knock in many '75 cars.

Super Shell has the same good driveability and detergent properties as Shell Super Regular Unleaded. Use it for top-rate performance in pre-1975 cars that require high octane fuel.

Shell Regular is our lowest priced gasoline. If your car runs well on regular, use it.

* Most late model cars can use unleaded gasoline. To make certain that your car can, check your owner's manual.

Schools asking new 10-cent property levy

Even more taxes are proposed to be levied on property owners in the Pomona Unified School District.

District officials are proposing another 10 cent per $100 of assessed valuation increase in the tax rate for 1975-76, which amounts to a total hike for this fiscal year of $1.04, a 22 per cent jump in the tax rate in one year.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services, will explain the additional 10-cent increase at the regular school board meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The increase will be allowed, he said, because assessed valuation on public utilities in the district, rather than increasing the estimated 2½ per cent, actually decreased in value approximately $3.8 million.

This devaluation cost the district some $634,000 in income.

The State Evaluation Office advised Rountree the cut was due to reductions in material and supplies by Southern California Edison Co. and General Telephone Co. within the district.

The additional 10 cents will bring the district's total tax rate for 1975-76 to $5.58 per $100 of assessed valuation. It had stood at $5.48 following the school board's adoption of a 94-cent increase on Aug. 5. Last year it was $4.54 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Rountree siad that Senate Bill 220 — the controversial bill Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. bluepenciled from $115 million to $88 million — will bring the district approximately $510,000 additional funds this year. This money, Rountree said, will be placed into the reserves.

At that August meeting, the board, on a 3-1 vote, adopted a $32.2-million, general fund budget with $1.7 million in three reserve accounts.

At Tuesday's meeting, board members will give second reading to revised policy changing board meeting dates from the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month to the first and third Tuesdays.

Administrators will ask for blanket authorization to readmit some 40 to 50 pupils who have been expelled during the past two to three years for participation in the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) pilot program.

Authorization also will be asked to apply for a $150,000 federal grant to provide vocational training for handicapped and disadvantaged pupils at Garey and Park Avenue high schools.

Board members will be asked to approve a recommendation by Supt. Robert E. Wentz that five district employes be named to serve as the board's representatives for 1975-76 meet-and-confer sessions with employe groups, along with two alternates and one alternate-observer.

The five representatives named are Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services; David R. Evans II, assistant superintendent of personnel services; Sharon M. Russell, coordinator of elementary education; Robert E. Oaks, principal at Diamond Point Elementary School; and Lewis S. Manville, principal at Ganesha High School.

Alternates named are Wentz and Rountree, Keith H. Daniel, principal at Simons Junior High School, is the recommended alternate-observer.

· REDUCED TO RUBBLE

The old Galbreath Building in downtown Chino has been demolished to make way for the new Civic Center. The structure had been urged for preservation by the Chino Valley Pioneer Association, for historical purposes. A bulldozer ended those dreams last week.

Historical Chino building destroyed

Efforts to save an old downtown building in Chino have ended with the crunch of the bulldozer.

The Galbreath Building, at Sixth and D streets, had been urged for preservation by the Chino Valley Pioneer Association for historical purposes.

Nearly 70 years old, and blocking construction of Chino's new Civic Center, the building was reduced to rubble last week by the Emch Co., demolition contractors.

Housing the Chino Glass Co., the structure was of some historical value, according to members of the pioneer association.

Twenty-one members, in fact, had presented petitions to the Chino City Council, asking that the building be saved.

Councilwoman Eileen Carter, while agreeing it could not be preserved because it was part of the Civic Center site, said some items in the structure could be saved for history.

These items will be placed in an appropriate spot in the new county library, she said. Hopefully, other buildings will not have to meet the fate of the Galbreath in the future, she said.

Arson suspected in building site fires

West End sheriff's deputies and Foothill Fire District inspectors are investigating the possibility of arson in a $30,000 structure fire early Sunday morning that destroyed one home under construction and damaged two others in Alta Loma.

The fire at the Sievers Construction Co. housing tract at Wilson Street and Carnelian Avenue was first reported by a nearby resident about 2 a.m. Sunday. When Foothill Fire District units arrived, one of the homes being framed was engulfed in flames and two adjoining homes smouldering. Firemen managed to bring the blaze under control within minutes. In addition to the three homes involved in the fire, stacks of unused lumber and a construction company truck were destroyed.

Sheriff's arson investigators were called to the scene after a resident reported seeing several men in a car parked near the house minutes before the fire.

Fire inspectors were searching the debris this morning to find traces of a flammable liquid possibly used to start the blaze.

Fights erupt after wedding

Pomona police reported breaking up a series of fights which broke out early Sunday morning at a wedding reception at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall at 637 W. Second St.

Officers, who sped to the scene using sirens and emergency lights, said that upon their arrival they found several fights in progress among some members of a crowd estimated between 150 to 200 persons.

Police said they made no arrests and there apparently were no serious injuries. The cause of the trouble, described as a major disturbance, was not learned.

YMCA starts schedule of new classes

Classes in karate and youth activities will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning today and Tuesday.

Karate, for persons over 8, will be offered on Mondays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for five weeks. The cost is $15 for YMCA members and $20 for nonmembers.

A toddler program, for children from 3 to 5, will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for four weeks. Activities include swim instruction, gym activities and crafts. The cost is $15.

Gymnastics for boys and girls ages 6 and over will be offered for five weeks on Mondays and Wednesdays. Beginners will meet from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and intermediate students from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The cost is $5 for members and $10 for nonmembers.

A youth program, for children 6 through eighth grade, will include swimming, arts and crafts, games, physical education and special activities. Boys' days will be Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Girls' days will be Mondays and Wednesdays at the same hours. Fridays will be coed from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Participants must have a youth membership card, which costs $23 per year. Swim lessons are an additional $2 for members and $15 for nonmembers for five weeks.

For information, persons may call 623-6433

Citrus opening

Fall semester classes at Citrus College, Azusa, will begin on Sept. 15 with an anticipated enrollment of 9,400 students.

Registration information may be obtained by calling the Admission Office at (213) 335-0521 or (714) 599-5773.

Board members will pick a name for new Walnut elementary school

Walnut school board members will pick a name tonight for an elementary school to be located at Lycoming Street and Lemon Road.

If they follow the recommendation of surveyed families in the area, they will call it Walnut Elementary School.

Thirty-eight families favored that name. Two wanted the school named Glenwick, the name by which the 10-acre school site is known.

The district already has a Walnut Elementary School but it will be used in the future to house the district continuation school.

In design, the new school will resemble the Cyrus J. Morris Elementary School.

Board members also are expected to act on a recommendation from Supt. David L. Brown on modification of the 1975-76 school calendar.

Last month they decided to postpone the opening day of school from Sept. 15 to Sept. 16 because Sept. 15 is Yom Kippur, a Jewish holiday.

Brown recommends that the calendar otherwise be the same as previously adopted, resulting in a 175-day school year instead of a 176-day year.

He states in his recommendation that the modification should not be precedential and that from an instructional point of view, the district should be working toward a 180-day year.

Appointment of an ad hoc planning group to study the future of the secondary education program in the district will be considered.

Enrollment projections indicate that the district enrollment for grades nine-12 will be about 2,700 by 1979 and 3,000 by 1980. Enrollment for those grades this year is expected to be 1,840.

Eventually the 9-12 population may reach a top of 5,000.

Various methods of housing the increasing enrollment would be studied by the committee.

It would be asked to:

— Assemble a written description of organization, program, resources, facilities and staffing for the secondary education program in the next 15 to 25 years.

— Extract from the total plan and suggest for consideration whatever particular facilities would need to be added in the district to meet the nine-12 enrollment needs by 1979.

— Develop educational specifications for such facilities as a basis for architectural planning.

Target date for the first two assignments would be July 1976, and for the third, September 1976.

Handicapped helped

More than 105 handicapped persons in the valley will be able to receive vocational rehabilitation services as a result of a $16,815 grant by the state Department of Rehabilitation to the Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, 534 W. Brooks St., Ontario.

To qualify for the grant, the association contributed $4,204, bringing the total amount of money available for the project to $21,019.

The grant helps support the continued employment of several staff members at the OPARC Diversified Industries Workshop. The workshop provides a program of vocational rehabilitation services which include vocational evaluation, counseling, work training and job placement.

The handicapped persons receive job training in janitorial work, food service, landscaping, shipping and receiving and clerical work. Last year, 10 persons were placed in jobs in the community.

Paramedics fail to save drowning victim's life

A 2-year-old Santa Ana girl drowned in a backyard swimming pool in Azusa Sunday evening while relatives were finishing dinner, sheriff's deputies reported.

The victim, Stephanie Marie Olsen, was pronounced dead after being rushed to Glendora Community Hospital from 5444 Donna Beth Ave.

Stephanie and her parents were visiting at her father's brothers' home when the accident occurred. Her uncle, Rudy Villaneuva, dived to the bottom of his swimming pool and pulled the victim to the surface after she was discovered missing from the dinner table.

Villaneuva gave Stephanie mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and paramedics assisted her en route to the hospital where physicians continued life-saving methods. But, after about 20 minutes, she was pronounced dead.

Ontario man rescued after fall at Baldy

Mt. Baldy firemen and West End sheriff's deputies teamed up Sunday to rescue an 18-year-old Ontario man who tripped and slid down nearly 100 feet of loose shale in the Mt. Baldy Bowl area.

Scott Newsome of 565 Plaza Serena St., Ontario, was listed in fair condition this morning in San Antonio Community Hospital with head, face and rib injuries suffered in the fall.

According to sheriff's deputies, Newsome was hiking with a friend Martin Patterson of Claremont about 1:30 p.m. Sunday when the mishap occurred. Newsome said he decided to run down an embankment from the top of Baldy when he lost his balance and fell face first. The Mt. Baldy fire rescue team was notified of the accident about 1½ hours later and sent a team to the area.

Application is withdrawn

Developer Robert Armstrong is expected Tuesday night to tell the Claremont City Council that he is withdrawing his application for a residential unit development of 84 lots on 21.5 acres in county area north of La Puerta Intermediate School.

Armstrong, rebuffed last Tuesday night at the Claremont Planning Commission meeting in his bid to dedicate six acres of lemon groves as "visible open space," to the city, probably will request a standard residential development on 13,000-square-foot lots, city officials said.

Residents in the area during a two-hour public hearing protested the lemon grove being fenced and not being true "open space."

Grove owners told the commission that the six-acre grove is too small to grow lemons economically.

The commission by a 3-2 vote said it didn't want to accept the lemon grove as "visible open space."

Mission crash injures pair

A couple was injured early Sunday morning when their car crashed into a street light standard at Mission and Phillips boulevards, Pomona police reported.

Both the driver, John E. Wilder, 40, of 446 Virginia Ave., Claremont, and his passenger, Vergil Ann Jackson, 20, of 1714 S. Waters Ave., Pomona, were released after treatment of minor injuries at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police quoted Wilder as saying the accident occurred when his car's brakes locked.

Wentz faces higher odds in job quest

Pomona schools Supt. Robert Wentz' chances of landing the St. Louis, Mo. City School District superintendent's job today appear to be facing tougher odds than last week.

Wentz found out Saturday night he is one of three educators — not two — being seriously considered for the post.

During a public forum in St. Louis in which Wentz was questioned by interested citizen groups, the Rev. James Cummings, school board president, disclosed that a third person is a candidate for the job.

Mr. Cummings said earlier that only Wentz and St. Louis Deputy Supt. Ernest Jones were in the running to head the 90,000-student district.

However, Charles Bernardo, superintendent of Providence, R.I., schools also is being considered, stated Mr. Cummings.

Wentz was asked questions at an open meeting of the school board by St. Louis neighborhood and civic organizations.

The 25 groups particpating submitted questions in advance, and they were read by the board members in an unusual format.

According to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Wentz already had been interviewed by the board in a closed door session. A new superintendent is expected to be chosen this week.

The Pomona superintendent was grilled by the parent groups Saturday on a number of sensitive topics affecting St. Louis schools.

Asked about forced busing to achieve a racial balance in the schools, Wentz was quoted by the Post-Dispatch as saying efforts toward an equal racial mix should be started with district employes rather than pupils. "You should develop a uniform, pluralistic staff throughout the school system, regardless of what school a pupil was attending," he added.

Giving general rather than specific answers to questions, Wentz pointed to a successful program in the Pomona School District as an answer to parents' desires for a bigger voice in St. Louis' district decision-making.

An ad hoc citizens committee was launched in Pomona in 1972, he said, "largely through my efforts." The committee led to formation of local advisory councils in 90 per cent of the schools, plus a district advisory committee.

Predominantly white and black parent groups both are unhappy with the St. Louis school system, said the Post-Dispatch. The district has a 50-50 student mix of each racial group.

Wentz was questioned for about three hours at the meeting attended by 75 persons.

The solution rarely ends it

"We can never do merely one thing," says University of California biologist Garrett Hardin, formulating another of those "laws" our more and more complex society seems to be colliding with more and more frequently.

Hardin refers specifically to the dire social consequences he foresees should a constitutional prohibition of abortion ever be adopted. While the scientist's position on this question is a matter of much dispute, there is little doubt about the validity of his "law" when it comes to the consequences of a whole list of other human activities, particularly in regard to the environment.

Consider the Environmental Protection Agency's attempts to solve the automobile pollution problem.

Over the years, a number of devices were mandated on new cars. Though they helped the emissions problem, gasoline economy suffered. The solution to this was seen in the catalytic converter, which scavenged emissions aft of the engine. But because the lead in gasoline "poisoned" the platinum in the catalysts, the oil industry was required to gear up to produce higher cost lead-free gasoline.

Beginning with the 1975 model year, automobiles coming off the assembly lines were equipped with catalysts designed to change the carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in exhaust fumes into carbon dioxide and water.

Unfortunately, evidence soon began to accumulate that, along with harmless C02 and H20, the catalysts were also producing sulfuric acid. To meet this new and unlooked for threat to the environment, it was suggested that sulfur be removed from gasoline at the refinery — at an additional cost to the consumer.

Now comes a warning from three scientists with Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill, N.J., that to do this could create yet another major problem — deadly hydrogen cyanide gas.

In the presence of sulfur dioxide, the formation of hydrogen cyanide (HCN) by platinum catalysts is reduced to insignificant levels, they told the recent 107th annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in Chicago. However, the proposed removal of sulfur from gasoline to reduce the sulfuric acid emission hazard could increase the HCN emission hazard.

The scientists caution that their experiments were conducted under laboratory conditions and results "cannot be used to draw conclusions concerning the chemical products of far more complex gas mixtures in actual auto exhausts."

Their preliminary findings suggest, nevertheless, "the need for more extensive study of the chemical interaction of auto exhaust gases with catalysts."

We can never do merely one thing . . .

Special Christmas delivery

The U.S. Postal Service is preparing a surprise package for Americans this Christmas.

As in previous years, the service will issue two special Christmas stamps — one with a religious theme and one with a secular theme. For the first time in history, however, the stamps will not bear any postage denomination.

Because of the large quantity of Christmas stamps sold each year — about a billion of each — it is necessary for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to prepare cylinders and to print the stamps well in advance of the holiday season.

The nondenominational format was adopted because of the uncertainty over when and how much postal rates will have to be raised as a consequence of the recent contract settlement with postal workers. Indications are that the cost of a first-class stamp will go up from 10 cents to 13 cents early in December.

Of course, the only surprise would be if the Postal Service were to delay the increase until after the holiday season. Will it play Scrooge, or will it make this gift to Americans?

Did the oil industry wait until after the July 4th holiday to raise gasoline prices last time?

Is the moon made of green cheese?

Anyone can join ripoffs

Dear Editor:

That golden ager who is so concerned at a possible oil company ripoff is no doubt the beneficiary of the art, himself. Somebody has to pick up the tab for social security, reduced taxes, bus fares, ad infinitum. Usually the poorest contributors are first in line for benefits.

I doubt that President Ford is as interested in the oil companies' welfare, as giving the youngsters enough energy to move. Someone has to pay for the Alaskan pipeline, and I doubt it will be Congress or the ecologists who contributed so much to its cost.

Anyone interested can join in the ripoffs. Oil stocks are as available as the nearest phone, at about a dime on the dollar.

Services overlooked

Dear Editor: I would like to call to your attention that in your Welcome to Pomona Valley section in your services available to valley communities you did not mention Chino Neighborhood House, the oldest organization in Chino with all workers on a volunteer basis with no pay. — Mrs. Virginia Selstad, Registrar, Chino.

Dear Editor: The Progress Bulletin published an excellent directory of services available to valley communities. One glaring omission was the Pomona chapter of American National Red Cross. — Norman Williamson Jr., Chapter chairman.

Did typos convict governor?

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department used recklessly inaccurate transcripts of secret tapes to help convict Oklahoma's former Gov. David Hall in a nationally publicized bribery trial.

The official transcripts are loaded with serious mistakes. For example, the word "most" is transcribed as "less," and "disobeying" comes out as "just being." Throughout the transcripts, innocent words appear incriminating and vice versa, lengthy tape gaps aren't mentioned and one person's statements are put in the mouth of another.

Hall's own conversations, recorded without his knowledge while he was still in office, were used to help convict him. Yet part of a key conversation, which tended to exonerate him, strangely was omitted from the transcripts that were used at the trial.

The enormity of the errors and omissions in the Hall transcripts — combined with similar mistakes we discovered in an unrelated Washington criminal case — casts doubt on the convictions of hundreds of suspects around the country.

For it has been common practice to tap telephones, bug rooms and rig informers with body recorders to gather evidence. The transcripts of these tapes have been used in countless proceedings, ranging from narcotics trials to Richard Nixon's impeachment hearings.

Earlier, we reviewed 150,000 words in FBI transcripts, which had been stamped as "evidence" and had been circulated to prosecutors and courts. We found more than 30,000 errors, some serious enough to jeopardize the rights of the accused.

Wherever such transcripts have been used, the danger exists that the suspects have been improperly jailed unless their lawyers took the unusual pains of going over the government's transcripts word for word and comparing them with the original tapes, as we have done.

A veteran Justice Department lawyer, whose job would be jeopardized if we identified him, has confirmed that the "typical normal transcription" is a "shoddy job." He considers it "horrendous" that suspects may go to prison on such fraudulent evidence. Yet the department has been satisfied to let its tainted convictions stand.

In the Oklahoma case, Hall was indicted shortly after he stepped down as governor last January. He and Dalls financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor were charged with attempted bribery and related felonies.

Taylor allegedly offered $50,000 for Hall's help in securing a contract. The evidence against them was obtained largely from Oklahoma's Secretary of State John Rogers, who allowed his telephone to be tapped and permitted FBI agents to rig him with a body recorder and miniature transmitter.

In return for his cooperation, Rogers was granted immunity from prosecution on tax and securities charges.

The Rogers tapes were transcribed by the FBI, the U.S. Attorney's and Oklahoma state personnel. The transcripts were used, mistakes and all, to get the two defendants indicted. Then the same transcripts were given to the defense attorneys who thus relied on tainted evidence to prepare their cases.

Hall and Taylor were prosecuted by U.S. Attorney William Burkett, a Nixon appointee and political opponent of Hall. At the trial, the tapes were a sensation. The transcripts, though not admitted into court evidence were dramatically used by Burkett, nevertheless, to summarize what he said the jurors were hearing on the scratchy tapes.

He used them to examine witnesses, quoted from them to make his arguments and waved them before the jury. Thus, the errors in the transcripts became part of the fiber of the trial.

On some points, the defense attorneys questioned their accuracy, and many transcripts were redone. But even through FBI agents swore the new versions were accurate, we found them still full of mistakes.

Federal Judge Fred Daughtery allowed the error-riddled transcripts to be used at the trial, and both defendants were convicted. Hall was sentenced to three years, Taylor of 18 months. The case is now headed for the appeal courts.

We have listened carefully to the tapes and have compared them to the transcripts. We found error after error, as many as 100 per page. Unaccountable gaps, a la Rose Mary Woods, occur at strategic moments.

Although we found some omissions and distortions which, if corrected, would strengthen Burkett's case, we found more instances that would help Hall and Taylor.

Ballots in foreign languages

In 27 states ballots must be printed for this fall's elections in languages other than English. In 464 counties, where there is an appreciable number of adopted Americans who can't read English, ballots must be printed in their language as well as ours.

How about that! The U.S. Department of Justice has messaged local officials in 27 states that, under the 1965 Voting Rights Act, all voters have a right to know what they're voting for or against.

So those that can't speak our language must have special ballots in their language — Spanish, Chinese, Japanese, various Indian tongues and dialects.

I think it is obscene to allow people to particpate in running our country when they haven't even bothered to learn the language of our country.

The melting pot is supposed to "melt." Instead, it has become a "pressure" cooker. All of us Americans are mostly something else. It was presumed that the immigrants who came to our new land would bring with them some of the culture, crafts and mores of the Old World.

But let me quote what Tom Jefferson had to say on the subject:

"In the further importation of foreigners, it is for the happiness of those united in society to harmonize as much as possible in matters which they must of necessity transact together.

"If they bring with them the principles and language of the government they leave, and transmit these to their children, in proportion to their numbers they will share with us in legislation, infuse into it their spirit, warp and bias its direction and render it a heterogeneous, incoherent, distracted mass.

"Suppose 20 millions of republican Americans were thrown all of a sudden into France; what would be the condition of that Kingdom? It would be more turbulent, less happy, less strong.

"We may believe that the addition of foreigners here, demanding the rights of citizenship without conforming to our ways, would have a similarly disastrous effect."

If I may presume to paraphrase the eloquent Mr. Jefferson: When in Rome, do as the Romans do.

When you come to the United States, because it is what it is, you don't try to change it into something which it is not.

And you don't stubbornly stick to your Old World language.

That's like keeping your first wife's picture on your second wife's dressing table!

Just in jest

Even though the United States' participation in the Vietnam War is now officially over, day by day in many a curious way we continue to pay out large sums of money to cover the costs of certain strategic military plans of action which we never got to use because the war ended too soon. —So, although few taxpayers are aware of it, a portion of the money they fork over to the government each year is still being used to pay the warehouse costs in Saigon for birth control pills.

But it doesn't necessarily take a war to enable government officials to find an excuse to spend our tax money. Only recently the federal General Service Administration found a most interesting way to get rid of $2,000. It authorized that amount for the painting and erection of a 24 foot long mural to brighten up a Washington D.C. construction site. Pictured was a voluptuous maiden clad only in a mini halter and a string bikini. What's more, the halter and bikini were put on with paint mixed with soap so they would wash away when it rained. — And how about the $57,800 spent by the Federal Aviation Administration on a study entitled "Anthropomethry of Airline Stewardesses? Among other interesting statistics regarding the anatomy of these young ladies was the fact that the average stewardess has a nose 2.18 inches long. —All of which is just added proof that although politicans may come and politicans may go, political tax ripoffs go on forever.

Your tax money supports radicals

Earlier this summer, in a western state, a young man approached me and asked if I would sign the Declaration of Independence.

He handed me what looked like the center spread of a newspaper. On one half was a reproduction of the Declaration of Independence backed by spaces for signatures. I tore it off, signed it and handed it back to him. The other half was something else again.

It was an ad for something called Peoples' Bicentennial Commission.

Despite its mild name and easy confusion with the official American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the PBC doesn't represent the people, isn't interested in celebrating the Bicentennial and is not a federal commission.

Instead, it is a self-appointed band of political radicals intent on twisting the nation's 200th birthday to its own purposes.

Its leader is a self-proclaimed Socialist revolutionary, Jeremy Riskin, whose understanding of American history is hazy but whose zeal is not.

He says, "It makes no sense for the New Left to allow defenders of the system the advantage of presenting themselves as true heirs and defenders of the American Revolutionary tradition.

"Instead, the revolutionary heritage must be used as a tactical weapon to isolate the existing institutions and those in power by constantly focusing public attention on their inability to translate our revolutionary dream into reality."

Riskin's idea of translating "revolutionary dream into reality" is to organize a crowd of about 20,000 demonstrators (many of them apparently fugitives from the anti-Vietnam War movement, looking for a new cause) and have them try to break up official Bicentennial events.

That's what they tried to do in April, heckling President Ford as he spoke at Concord Bridge in commemoration of "the shot heard round the world."

Never mind the fact that the American Revolution was a war of independence from foreign domination and not an ideological class war of the type Riskin supports, the PBC hasn't the slightest hesitation gulling government bureaucrats into giving it some of your tax money to support its radical rhetoric and activities.

Stating as its purpose, "to research, assemble and disseminate to workers and students historical information on the lives and roles of working people during the Revolutionary War period, with an emphasis on the ideas and events that shaped the formation of the early Republic," the PBC sought — and got — a grant of $7,210 from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Once the federal dollar faucet was turned on, it didn't stop. Last year, the NEH approved a grant of $394,000 for some of the PBC people to lecture throughout 13 western states.

Presumably, Riskin and his followers could have sold the NEH the Brooklyn Bridge if they'd wanted to, for, while submitting innocuous-sounding grant applications, Riskin was declaring to all who cared to pay attention that the PBC's real aim was to show that ". . . a genuine understanding of revolutionary ideals links Thomas Paine, Sam Adams and Benjamin Rush and the American people with Lenin, Mao, Che Guevara and the struggle of all oppressed people . . ."

In July I acquired a new imported car from a valley dealer.

The second day I owned it the odometer stopped working and oil was leaking from the motor so I took it back to the dealer and asked to have it repaired.

I was informed a spare odometer wasn't available and the oil leak would be taken care of on the 1,000-mile checkup.

On the 19th day after the purchase, the engine was scorched due to a defective cooling system, so I had the car towed back to the dealer for repair.

That was four weeks ago and the dealer still has my car.

I have no means of transportation except when I can borrow some because the dealer can't or won't give me a loan car while mine is in the garage.

I've asked about getting a new engine put in but was told the warranty only provided replacement for defective parts. I would have to wait for new pistons for the car to be fixed.

I've called my credit union, consumer affairs and other places in hopes of getting something done but so far have had no luck. — S.R., Ontario

The general manager of the car agency said he was well aware of your problem, had been working on it daily and four or five other people had worked on it also.

Parts definitely are a problem with foreign cars, he told us. "They shouldn't be but they are."

He said he has been trying to get not just pistons, but new engines for you and another customer.

He hadn't reported this to you earlier because he had no success to report.

But the day he received our inquiry, he got a call that engines for your car and the other customer's had been shipped. The remainder of your wait should be short.

Where do I go to see about getting Towne Avenue designated as a truck route all the way through to Riverside Drive in Pomona?

The designation now stops at Mission Boulevard but the trucks use Towne just the same.

Once in a while a ticket or two is given out, depending on what officer is on duty, but trucks are using Towne Avenue all the way through from the San Bernardino Freeway. — J.L., Pomona

The truck route now is south from the freeway to Phillips Boulevard, east to Reservoir Street and south to Riverside Drive.

We learned from you that you are particularly interested in a direct route because you and a couple of neighbors own commercial trucks.

One officer ticketed them on the section of Towne not designated for trucking but others did not. You wrote your views on routing to the Police Department. It was referred to the Department of Public Works.

When we talked with Richard Barrera, traffic engineer and a member of the public works staff, he already was aware of your views.

He said he would be glad to answer your questions about the present routing and the possibilities of carrying out your suggestions.

I am writing about my Social Security checks for my kids and myself.

When I moved the last of May I put in a change of address but somehow there was a mixup.

I picked up my June check at my old address. Since then no checks have arrived.

The kids and I need help. I am behind in my bills. — M.N., Pomona

People at the local Social Security office said a second change of address you filed went through the proper channels and you should receive your retroactive pay soon.

A few days later you got checks totaling $676.40.

No monopoly on loneliness

Annie Old Girl: You must have donated your brains to the Hadassah rummage sale. I refer to "Concerned Mom" who was afraid to let her seven-year-old boy go to the men's room by himself because "the woods are full of perverts."

Your suggestion to buttonhole a kindly gentleman on his way in and ask him to watch over the kid was idiotic. Please explain how a mother is supposed to pick out the "kindly gentleman" from the sweet old geezer who is as queer as a $3 bill?

More realistic advice would have been to tell the boy, "Go in alone and if anyone tries to molest you, scream your head off." If he doesn't know what "molest" means, she should tell him. Sex education should start early. — Louisville Reader

Dear Lou: You may have a point, but I doubt that any geezer, no matter how funny, would take such a chance with the kid's mother standing outside the door. Your suggestion that young boys be warned against molesters and that they yell their heads off is excellent. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to a girl who is giving me a hard time. She says I'm too possessive and overly suspicious. She doesn't act like a person who is about to be married. You be the judge.

In the last three weeks, Hilda has "disappeared" four times. When I call her apartment, her roommate says, "I don't know where she is. Maybe she's at her mother's." I call her mother and she's not there. When Hilda turns up after two or three days and I ask where she's been, she says, "Don't be such a male chauvinist pig."

I paid $255 for an engagement ring. We plan to be married in three months. But I worry about a girl who stays lost for two and three days and then refuses to account for herself.

Does marriage settle people down? What do you think? — Once Burnt, Twice Shy

Dear Burnt: I think you'd better prepare for a life of grief if you marry a girl who specializes in disappearing and refuses to account for her absence. Don't expect her to settle down merely because she has a wedding ring on her finger. The engagement ring doesn't seem to mean much.

Dear Ann Landers: I always thought your column was to read — not to write to. But here I am, looking for help.

I'm a boy 16, with lots of friends but no friendships.

No one ever calls me to go anyplace. I'm always the one who does the calling. Usually the guys I call have "other plans." I don't know if their excuses are legitimate or not.

My parents are always pushing me to go out, but I hate to go alone and I can't seem to get anyone to go with me. Maybe I'm a born loner. Do other people feel as I do, or am I some kind of freak? Please help me. — No Name

Dear N.N.: There are millions of people like you. In fact, popular teenagers sometimes get the idea they have no friends. It's part of growing up. You say "the guys" usually have other plans. There's another sex. Girls. Have you tried them? I'll bet at least a dozen who go to your school would be thrilled to get a phone call from you.

Give it a try, and let me know how you get along.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Debs keep Daddy in debt

Those of you who have not had your formal clothes out of mothballs since the Collidge Administration may need to be reminded that we are approaching the gay, giddy debutante season, highlight in the youthful lives of several thousand typical American girls whose fathers are typical American millionaires.

Renee and Stephanie and Pooky and Mimi are redding up for the Long Beach Assistance League Ball — they've all worked with the youth auxiliary, the Assisteens (is that like the Assisteen Chapel?) and are heading for the hairdresser. The Coronet Ball of the National Charity League is held on Thanksgiving, and Frannie and Kimmie and Tiny and Junky are jumping out of their pantyhose with excitement.

Any society page worth its corset ads displays today endless photographs of faceless young things in identical white gowns and long gloves, perched prettily on stairs.

The main purpose of a debut is to get the daughter's picture in the newspaper and to assure the world that Daddy is still solvent. Secondarily it is to present the chick to society — that is, to the other millionaires' sons and daughters she has known all her life.

Many people think the life of a debutante is nothing but a mad round of dances, but there are also teas, balls, luncheons, dinners and theater parties. Sometimes a girl hardly has time to change her nail polish.

Christmas vacation is especially hard on these young blossoms. Many of them attend college, and some of the more serious ones take typing and shorthand, proving that the youth of today is not all frivolity.

But it IS a whirl, my! There are Christmas parties, club parties and family parties. All their friends give soirees and dances, each trying to out - magnolia - and - golden-sconce each other. Formal balls are sometimes staged by proud Grandpapas or wealthy uncles looking for a tax writeoff.

How to keep up with the brunches at the hunt club, fittings, shopping, dates with the hairdresser and pedicurist! There is always a tea dance and a dinner at Chason's with a show or concert afterwards, followed by Piggy Van Slatterly's bash — she had the Vienna Choir Boys flown in.

New Year's Day for Debbie the Deb is a perfect shriek, of course, because they've been up all night at Cynthia (Kooky) Martin-Turk's dance — she hired the Music Center and flew in the British Broadcasting Company. And what with the masseuse, the open-house at the Danielsons' and the cocktail dance at the Beverly-Hilton (Muggsy Vanderspachen's Daddy bought it for the party), the girls hardly have time to squeeze in the Rose Bowl game.

To prove they have their serious side, too, the girls sometimes visit hospitals to chat with the more attractive children in the noncontagious ward, or drop in at the USO to see if there are any handsome sailors (or Stanford men or photographers) around.

Coming-out parties, as they are called, are a vestigial remnant of an older society, but they are heaps of fun for several hundred rich kids, and the festivities certainly keep a lot of money in circulation. Debs keep Daddy in debt.

Dr. Lamb

Tick fever easier to treat

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to inquire about the vaccination for Rocky Mountain Spotted (Tick) Fever. Some doctors do not keep the serum and explain that it is too expensive to keep on hand and that the shot may have serious side effects. Other doctors give the shots and recommend them. Do you think these shots are worthwhile? Ticks are very bad in this part of the country, especially in the grass and woods.

Also tell me a little about the fever and some early signs to look for if my children get sick. What can be done if a child gets this fever?

DEAR READER — You are almost out of the woods this year. The disease usually strikes between the first of May and the last of September.

The reason the vaccine is not used so much any more is that it is now much easier to treat Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever than it used to be. The important thing is to suspect the disease early and start treatment early. Several antibiotics (tetracyclines and chloramphenicol) are very effective in treating the disease.

The name of the disease is a misnomer. It was first found in the United States in Montana, and for years people thought it was indigenous to the Rocky Mountain area, which proved to be false. It is found quite frequently along the Atlantic Seaboard. It affects about 300 people a year.

The disease itself starts two days to two weeks after being bitten by a tick. The illness may begin like measles. However, measles are less common in the months when Rocky Mountain Fever is most likely to occur. There may be associated pain in the bones, joints, and muscles, but that won't help make a diagnosis. By the second day the fever is commonly 40 to 40.5 degrees C (104 to 105 degrees F.).

In two to six days a rash develops and may progress to involve large areas of the skin. The brain may be involved with delirium and even coma. The real death-dealing complications, though, are involvement of the lungs and heart.

The fever is usually over in about two weeks, but it may take a month or two for the patient to fully recover.

The ticks transmit an organism half way between bacteria and viruses, called rickettsia. An infected tick will transmit the disease to its own offsprings. The rickettsial illness affects small mammals, including dogs.

When the tick gets on man it will innoculate him with the rickettsia. The tick cannot transmit the infection without being attached for several hours. So, if you inspect your person twice a day for ticks and remove them, you will go a long way toward protecting yourself.

Regardless of what you have read about how to burn off a tick, the only way to remove the tick is to use a pair of small forceps and grasp the tick by the head and chest. Pull gently until he releases his jaws. If you kill the tick while in place with a lighted cigarette or kerosene, the tick may expel a lot of rickettsia into the person during the death throes.

Also, you can help by keeping the family dog free of ticks with an effective collar, and you can even use clothing impregnated with tick repellents.

Jim: "Here is a hand from a rubber bridge game I watched recently. I was sitting in back of North and watched him study a long time before going to four spades over East's four hearts."

Oswald: "Did you ask what he was studying about?"

Jim: "I didn't have to. When North put down the dummy he said that he didn't know whether to double with his two aces or to bid four spades."

Oswald: "The double would have been a real winner. Four hearts would have been one down. Then, since four spades went down two he would have been 70 points better off, but strangely enough North does not appear to have considered the right bid."

Jim: "No, indeed. North should have passed and hoped for the best. He should have known that four spades would be doomed to defeat and while he could not be sure about four hearts, he should have been willing to try to set it undoubled."

Oswald: "Of course, he should. Those two aces were going to be worth two tricks at either hearts or spades."

Why neat ones usually thin

You never see a compulsively overscrupulous housekeeper who is considerably overweight. That's the contention of a student of the mind. Those women who constantly buzz around emptying clean ashtrays and dusting shiny tabletops, says he, are always thin.

"WHY DO giraffes have long necks?" inquires a client. Matter of natural selection over the generations, contend the science boys. Giraffes with longer necks years ago survived because they could reach more food high up. And their offspring inherited that fortunate trait.

PONY EXPRESS

Q. "How many times did the old Pony Express riders fail to get the mail through?"

A. Only once. And they covered that 2,000-mile route for 19 months. Pretty fair record, what?

DO YOU REALIZE the methane gas in this country's cow manure could supply 10 per cent of its energy needs?

AS RECENTLY as 15 years ago, numerous African Zulu fathers still hoisted white flags over the thatched roofs of houses wherein lived marriageable girls, brides for sale.

A MEMO put out by the National Travel Association of Denmark translates: "The official rate of tipping in Denmark is 12½ per cent, but 15 per cent insures better service, so most people give 17 per cent."

LABOR

It's a matter of record that one Boston research firm assigned an imaginative male employee to stay home. He was to watch his wife work around the kitchen in an effort to come up with an idea for a new labor-saving household appliance. He did not do so. On the contrary. His wife was in labor at an appropriate future date. He was reassigned.

YOU'VE HEARD that widely quoted idiom "to bring home the bacon." But do you know who popularized it? Jack Johnson, before he became the first black heavyweight champion of the world. In 1910, he told his mother, "Don't worry, I'll bring home the bacon." Newsmen picked it up. And just about everybody in the country repeated it.

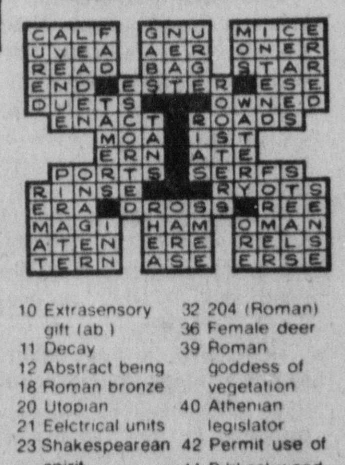
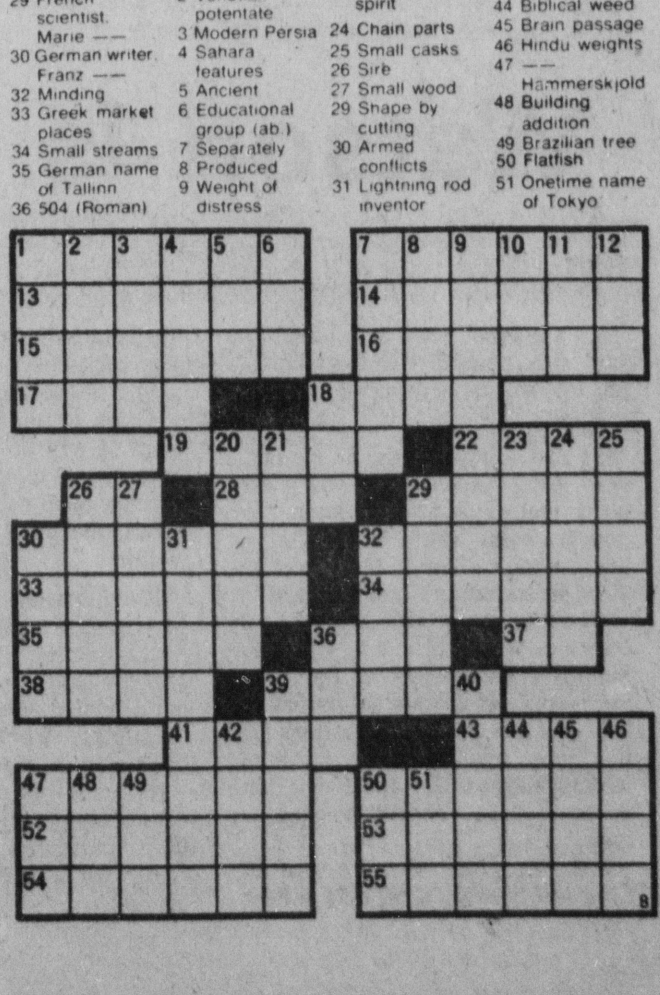
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Orantes upsets Connors

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The usually staid center court at the West Side Tennis Club took on the atmosphere of a bull ring.

Manuel Orantes, the 26-yearold left-hander from Barcelona, was the master, making defending champion Jimmy Connors see red in the ring.

"Vamos, maestro," hundreds of Spanish-speaking fans shouted. "Manuela, Manuela, Manuela.

"Orantes, Orantes, Orantes. Ole, ole, ole."

The cheers rang true.

Orantes taunted Connors by playing to his two-fisted backhand, kept him at bay on the baseline, then brought him in with drop shots and set him up for the kill.

The 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory in the U.S. Open Championships Sunday ended Connors' chances of retaining the title and reigning with his former fiancee, Chris Evert, who won the women's crown on Saturday.

Orantes' victory came less than 18 hours after his "miracle match" with Guillermo Vilas of Argentina. In that under-the-lights semifinal, the third-seeded Orantes came from far behind and beat the second-seeded Vilas 4-6, 1-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

"I was so excited," Orantes said Sunday of his comeback from death's door against Vilas. He felt that momentum carried him through Sunday's final.

During the match against Connors, which lasted less than two hours, chants kept coming from high up in the stands, which were packed with a record crowd of 15,669. They came from a group of Mexicans who had come to cheer Raul Ramirez, the No. 11 seed who went out in the round of 16. They stayed to back Orantes.

"I don't know how many there were," Orantes said. "If I had to count them by the noise they made, there were thousands."

In his first official act as champion, Orantesrushed to his wife, Virginia, and smothered her with kisses.

"She was more excited than I," he said. "She always stays calm, but after last night she was more tired than I."

After Saturday night's match, which lasted 3 hours, 45 minutes, Orantes and his wife went to dinner and did not return to the hotel until 2 a.m., only to have problems with the bath tub, which required a plumber's touch.

But both were fit by match time on Sunday: Orantes killing Connors on the court, his wife biting her nails on the sidelines.

Everyone thought Connors, who won here last year on grass, had the decisive edge. He is known as a demon on any surface and had a lot more rest.

The 23-year-old Connors advanced to the final Saturday afternoon with a 7-5, 7-5, 7-5 triumph over Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the No. 5 seed, breaking him in the 12th game of each set.

He then sat on the sidelines and cheered Chris to her 5-7, 64, 6-2 triumph over Evonne Goolagong of Australia. He was long gone, as was about threequarters of the crowd, when Orantes began his unbelievable comeback under the lights, taking the last three sets and the marathon from Vilas.

The match revived tennisweary fans nearly to the frenzy of soccer stadiums when Orantes, down two sets to one and trailing 0-5 in the fourth, evened the score by winning the last seven games of the fourth set, fighting off five match points.

At 10:35 p.m., he threw up his racket in victory after breaking Vilas in the ninth game of the last set and holding service.

"It's a shame, isn't it, that they didn't stay," Orantes said afterwards of the people who left early.

It was. Although his duel with Connors was exciting because he was fighting for the title, the battle with Vilas was by far the most thrilling of the 12 days of tennis at Forest Hills.

It also was a change of pace from the Evert-Goolagong baseline duel that gave Chris her first U.S. Open crown, her 84th straight match on clay and her 18th tournament triumph on the surface without a loss.

Miss Evert, at 20, now has won every major title except the Austrálian Open, which she says she probably will never win because she doesn't want to travel Down Under during the Christmas holidays.

Of the other tournaments that make up the Grand Slam, she has won the French twice, this year and last, and Wimbledon in 1974.

"Winning Wimbledon is great," she said, "but England is still foreign to me. It's not home. This is home to me."

Miss Evert, known as cool, consistent and confident, said she was down on herself the whole match, believing her 24year-old Australian opponent was playing a steadier game.

"But after 2-2 in the third set, I don't know what happened, but I got more confidence," she said. "I knew if I stayed in there I could win the match.

"I worked so hard to get this far that I didn't want to throw it away."

Miss Evert's victory was worth $25,000. She received another $900 as a semifinalist in the women's doubles. Not counting accessories and endorsements, she has banked a record $280,927 so far this year.

Miss Goolagong, now a threetime runner-up at Forest Hills, earned $12,000, increasing her 1975 earnings to $109,109.

Orantes, No. 2 on the Grand Prix of Tennis championship points list, earned $25,000 for his victory, increasing his year's earnings to $131,406, while Connors' $12,000 as runnerup pushed his total earnings, including challenge matches, to $587,809.

Speaking of challenge matches, Connors has one in the works for Las Vegas early next year, hoping to repeat his earlier feats over Rod Laver and John Newcombe.

When Orantes was asked if he would be available for such a duel, he looked up, smiled and replied:

"I think now he has to challenge me."

UNBELIEVABLE!

Manuel Orantes has the look of victory about him moments after he defeated heavily favored Jimmy Connors to win the U.S. Open Tennis Championship title Sunday. It was the Spaniard's first U.S. Open triumph.

Tide hosts Missouri

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Bear Bryant's 18th Alabama team begins another quest for college football's national championship tonight with players and coach alike tempering their initial optimism with some second thoughts.

"When they reported back for practice, that's all they talked about," says Bryant, whose 242 victories in 30 years at Maryland, Kentucky, Texas A&M and Alabama are third on the all-time list and who sends the second-ranked Crimson Tide against Missouri tonight before an expected crowd of 65,000 plus a national television audience (ABC, 6 p.m., PDT).

"But there hasn't been much talk of a national championship in the past few weeks because they've looked so bad in practice. You always have a lot of .400 hitters in February. Back in the spring, I thought we'd have a shot at it, but I'm not so sure now."

But this is a regular-season game and Bryant hardly ever loses one of those—22 in a row and 43 of the last 44. Bowl games, of course, are a different story and the Bear's recent record of post-season self-destruction stands at 0-7-1.

Dodgers back home vs. Giants

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Somewhat the worse for wear, the Dodgers are back home.

Third-place San Francisco is in for two games to open a 10-game Dodger homestand. A top notch pitching matchup tonight pits Andy Messersmith (15-14) against John "The Count" Montefusco (13-7) of the Giants (7:30 p.m.).

Doug Rau (13-9) and Jim Barr (11-12) wind up season competition between the two ancient rivals Tuesday. The Division Champion Reds are in Wednesday and Thursday. The Braves and Padres follow for three apiece.

Gone for the nonce are the rigors of the road. Gone for the year is the depressing emptiness of Atlanta Stadium, the stifling heat and humidity of the southern Midwest and the South and, last but not least, the pressure of the pennant race.

Sunday's 5-4 loss to the Braves before 3,439 in Atlanta eliminated the 1974 league champions and clinched the Western Division title for the Reds.

It also put the Dodgers under .500 (3-4) for the trip and made them only 3-6 for the year against the lowly Braves in Atlanta. They are barely over .500 (8-7) overall against the Braves.

It has been a very forgettable year for the Angelenos. Now they can officially concentrate on finishing ahead of the Giants and preparing to field a team that will truly challenge for the 1976 pennant.

In the trip just completed, the Dodgers' most glaring deficiencies were emphasized. Only Burt Hooton (twice) and Doug Rau were able to notch wins.

The 1975 club simply cannot punch across the runs once it gets men on base. Defensively it hans't been able to make the big play and it seemingly cannot make the double play. The fact that most of the arms in the outfield pose little threat to baserunners has complicated things even more.

The Dodgers left 11 runners on base Sunday. That gave them a total of 60 for the seven-game road trip. They outhit the Braves again, 9-7. In the four losses, they outhit the opposition, 8-7, 10-3 (in Saturday's 3-2 loss in Atlanta) and 8-7. In the other loss, it was a standoff with the Dodgers and Reds each getting nine hits. But the Reds got 13 runs to the Angelenos' three!

The Braves only made one double play Sunday. But that was one more than the Dodgers made. Atlanta now has 133 twin killings. The Dodgers, dead last again this year, have only 89. They completed just four in the seven-game tour.

Sunday's loss was particularly frustrating because the Dodgers had come back from a 3-0 deficit and finally tied the score, 4-4 in the ninth.

But Charlie Hough (1-6) dished up a one-out walk to Earl Williams in the ninth. Ron Gilbreath ran for Williams. Hough retired pinch-hitter Ed Goodson easily on a foul pop to third baseman Ken McMullen. Winning pitcher Bruce Dal Canton (2-5) singled.

But when Ralph Garr hit a grounder at Lee Lacy, it looked like extra innings. However Lacy, who had come in from left field to play second when Dave Lopes moved to short in the eighth inning, booted the ball.

Marty Perez worked the count to 3-2 and slashed a sharp single to left driving in Gilbreath with the unearned winning run. It was the second straight loss in which unearned runs turned the tide.

Sunday's only bright spot was the base running of Lopes. The speedburner stole three bases, his 64th, 65th and 66th.

DODGER DATA — Manager Walter Alston used four shortstops Sunday, Ivan DeJesus, Rick Auerback, Bill Russell and Lopes. He also used three rightfielders, Jerry Royster (playing the position for only the second time in the major leagues), Willie Crawford and John Hale.

Crawford also played left. An ontarget throw by Willie from right field in the sixth night have nipped Mike Lum at home plate and prevented an Atlanta run.

Starter Don Sutton was shaky in the first two innings. Sutton gave up two runs on four hits and two walks in that span. But he settled down and had retired 10 in a row when he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the top of the sixth inning.

The total attendance for the three games in Atlanta was 13,521 to "swell" the Braves' season attendance to 509,451 with eight home games left. If the special night for Phil Niekro hadn't been held Saturday, it's doubtful the three games would have drawn much over six thousand.

Streaking K.C. goes after A's

ANAHEIM (AP) — "Yeah," Whitey Herzog had to agree, "I'd call this momentum. If it isn't, I've never seen it."

Herzog and his Kansas City Royals arrive in Oakland tonight to commence a threegame shootout in the American League West. And the Royals arrive on the wings of an eightgame winning streak.

No. 8 arrived Sunday through the hitting of Tony Solaita and John Mayberry.

Solaita drilled three home runs and then drove in the winning run with an 11-th-inning single while Mayberry poled a pair of homers as the Royals edged the California Angels, 87, for a sweep of the four-game series.

"We tried to fold up but couldn't," Herzog said after the Royals watched a 7-3 lead vanish in the ninth when the Angels tied it up.

Kansas City will use Dennis Leonard, 12-5, against Ken Holtzman, 15-12, in the opener with Oakland tonight.

"The pressure is on Oakland," Solaita said. "They're the team trying to win four in a row. We've got a good shot if we stay healthy and don't start pressing."

Herzog might have been tempted to press the panic button Sunday. He used 20 players, eight of them pitchers, to keep the Royals' longest winning streak of the season intact.

"I told the team in the first meeting I had with them that if we were no worse than five games behind Oakland in September we'd have a chance. And that's right where we are."

Solaita, now with 15 homers, said it was his biggest day in baseball and that he was "awfully tempted" to go for another homer in the 11th inning but thought better of it.

In that situation you have to give in to the pitcher a little," he explained. "I shortened my stroke because I just wanted to make contact. I didn't hit the ball...I punched it."

Solaita's hit drove in Al Cowens from second base with the winning run. Cowens had opened the inning with a single and stole second.

Mayberry's two homers gave him 33 for the yeara nd the major league lead in that department.

George Throop, making his major league debut, saved the win for Mark Littell, 1-1. Mickey Scott was the loser.

"He was the last pitcher I had," sighed Herzog of Throop, a 6-foot-7 stringbean. "It was him or nothing."

About Solaita's game-winning hit, the Kansas City manager said, "I almost had him bunt. That shows you how smark I am."

Jerry Remy had three hits to lead California's 13-hit attack. Both Remy and Bruce Bochte had two-run doubles in the Angels' ninth inning rally.

'Bring on the East'

Reds wrap it up early

By Associated Press

Chalking up another victory en roue to the National League's West Division title was a breeze. The tough part was sitting in he locker room, waiting for the telephone to ring.

And when it finally did, the flag officially belonged to the Cincinnati Reds.

They'd clinched a tie for the crown Sunday with an 8-4 victory over San Francisco, a romp powered by George Foster's four runs batted in.

An hour or so later, the tie was broken. The phone rang and the word came though that Atlanta had beaten secondplace Los Angeles 5-4.

In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh remained 5½ games on top in the East by shutting out Montreal 6-0, St. Louis belted New York 12-4, Chicago beat Philadelphia 6-4 and Houston defeated San Diego 3-2.

"We want Pittsburgh," the Reds' Johnny Bench shouted when word of the title clinching came through . . . and the chant spread throughout the clubhouse as quickly as the champagne-and-beer shower. "We're number one! Beat the East!"

Manager Sparky Anderson was less than his usually placid self, congratulating the men who have given him his third division title in the past four years. "Nice going, everybody," he shouted...then he shouted even louder when he caught a blast of the bubbly. "Yow, that stuff is cold!

"This celebration was wanted more than the public may realize," he said later. And, reflecting on the probable league championship series against the Pirates, he added: "If we get beat in the playoffs, we get beat by a good team."

Don Gullett, 13-3, won his ninth straight game in a string that included nine weeks of inaction due to a broken thumb. "Everyone thought we would fall back when Don got hurt," said Rose, "but we opened up light on the league. We need him, but we are going to win."

Gullett said he wasn't entirely pleased with his performance but added, "I'll take it...I feel good, I'm getting my strength back and I'm faster each time. I'll be ready in time for the Pirates."

Pirates 6, Expos 0

First-inning homers by Al Oliver and Dave Parker and Jerry Reuss' four-hit pitching carried Pittsburgh past the Expos. Art Howe added a three-run double in the eighth to wipe out the slightly bitter taste of hitting into a triple play.

In the fourth, Parker doubled and Richie Zisk walked. Shortstop Tim Foli snared Howe's looper to left with an over-theshoulder catch, then wheeled and fired to second baseman Pete Mackanin to double off Parker for the second out. Mackanin whipped the ball to first baseman Jose Morales to nab Zisk, completing the triplekilling.

Cards 12, Mets 4

Ted Simmons drove in four runs with three singles and Mike Tyson added a three-run homer in the victory that kept the second-place Cardinals within striking distance of Pittsburgh and dropped the fourth-place Mets 7½ games off the pace.

Cubs 6, Phils 4

The Phils fell seven games back as Chicago scored six runs in the sixth inning, five unearned on four Philadelphia errors. Three of the runs scored when Manny Trillo's RBI single ticked off shortstop Larry Bowa's glove. Bowa kicked the ball into left-center field and left fielder Greg Luzinski also misplayed the ball.

Astros 3, Padres 2

Danny Frisella uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Astros their victory over the Padres.

Watson is at a loss for words

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tom Watson, an intelligent and usually highly articulate young man, seemed almost at a loss for words.

"It's a great feeling to have," he said, then paused. "It's very hard to put into words, to describe just what it means.

"I can tell you this. It means a very great deal, it gives you a very good feeling inside, to know that you've won when you're facing players the caliber of Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Lou Graham."

Of those major title-holders, only Nicklaus was a threat to Watson in Sunday's final round of the World Series of Golf and his bid fizzled and failed in a series of frustrations that had the usually self-contanined Nicklaus, scowling, muttering and, at least once, angrily tossing his club.

Watson, one of the game's brightest young stars, held him off with a solid, last-round 71 and won by two strokes in the last World Series to be played under it's exclusive, four-man format.

"I think the change will be good," the red-haired, 25-year-old Watson said. "It's great to have just the four winners of the major titles, but I think it will be even better to have the others in the tournament, the foreign players, the amateur champions, the point leaders, the double winners."

The tournament which, for the last 14 years, brought together only the holders of the major titles, will expand its format to include some 28-30 players next season. Watson, as the defending World Series of Golf champion, is the first qualifier.

He won this one by a relatively comfortable two strokes with a 140 total, matching par on the tough, 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course.

Nicklaus, the Masters and PGA title-holder and a heavy pretournament favorite, birdied the last two holes for a 70 and was second at 142.

Weiskopf, the Canadian national champion, and Graham, the U.S. Open king, never really got in the chase for the $50,000 first prize. Weiskopf had a closing 70 and a 145 total. Graham was 71-147. Nicklaus, who now has won this title four times and been second in six others, collected $15,000. Weiskopf won $7,500 and Graham got $5,000.

Watson, now a three-time winner this season, opened the final round with a three-stroke lead and maintained the margin most of the mild, sunny day.

He led by two when they reached the 13th tee and the start of a string of four holes that, Nicklaus said, "were the whole tournament."

Nicklaus drove into the rough on the 13th and bogeyed. That made the margin three again. On the next two holes Jack had 15-foot birdie putts and missed them both. On each hole Watson had to get it up and down from a bunker. And he did it, sinking putts of 12 and 5 feet.

"I made the clutch putts, the two putts that won it," he said.

Nicklaus agreed.

"I was looking at a two stroke swing on both holes and it didn't happen. Tom scrambled when he had to and that's the way you win golf tournaments."

Nicklaus then bogeyed the 16th, the 625-yard "Monster" hole. He put his third over the green in deep rough, came out weakly and, when Watson made par, Nicklaus trailed by four strokes with two holes to play.

He birdied both of them, the last with a putt of some 80-90 feet, but it didn't matter and he knew it. "By that time I couldn't have cared less. The tournament was decided on the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th holes."

Fair names Dick Riley

Dick Riley, a fmailiar figure at California race tracks and a veteran race-caller, has been named to serve as announcer for the 14-day racing season that opens Friday, at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Appointment of Riley to the post was announced by Phil D. Shepherd, Secretary-Manager of the Fair Association, who reported that "we're pleased to have a man of Riley's caliber in this important position, and we're sure that his accurate and colorful reporting of the races will be welcomed by our fans."

Riley, a native of Los Angeles and a longtime jockeys' agent, will continue to provide stretch calls of the Pomona races for radio.

American League roundup

Catfish wins 20th

By Associated Press

Catfish Hunter, chivalrous and humble, said he owes it all to his supporting cast. It's hard to believe that Hunter, either the fisherman or the pitcher, has ever cast a longer line or told a taller tale.

Hunter, the most consistent pitcher in baseball in the 1970s, Sunday joined a couple of immortals from yesteryear by winning his 20th game for the fifth straight year. Only Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove had drawn five a kind in the American League before.

"It feels great, but I owe it to the teams behind me," said Hunter, who turned in the A's green and gold for the Yankee pinstripes and got a lot of green and gold for doing it. "To Oakland for the first four seasons, and to the Yankees this year. A pitcher is only as good as his team."

If that were really true, there would be as many 20-game winners on the Oakland A's as there are fights.

Indeed, Hunter had four 20game seasons with the A's, world champions the past three years, but then he did it again this year with the Yankees, who are merely a .500 ballclub.

The Yankees, who beat Baltimore 2-0 Sunday behind Hunter's six-hitter, are thinking about next year while his former teammates are looking toward another World Series. However, there is a small matter to clear up first, the American League West title.

The Kansas City Royals, five games behind the A's, charge into Oakland tonight riding an eight-game winning streak. On Sunday, the Royals beat the California Angels 8-7 in 11 innings.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland beat Texas 4-1 and 7-3; Cleveland took a pair from Detroit, 7-2 and 9-0; Boston beat Milwaukee 6-3, then lost 7-3, and Minnesota pounded Chicago 9-1.

Hunter, 20-13, the 1974 Cy Young Award Winner, struck out five Orioles and didn't allow a runner past second base in outdueling Jim Palmer.

A's 4-7, Rangers 1-3

"Our bullpen has kept us in the race all year," Oakland Manager Alvin Dark said following a doubleheader sweep of Texas.

Dick Bosman, with shutout relief help from Jim Todd over the final 3 2-3 innings, won the first game and Sonny Siebert, with relief help from Paul Lindblad, Todd and Rollie Fingers, won the second game.

Fingers got his 20th save of the season in the second game and Todd his 11th in the first.

Twins 9, White Sox 1

Steve Brye returned to the Minnesota lineup with a boom. Brye, making his first plate appearances in two months after being on the disabled list, pinch hit an inside-the-park home run, then in his next at bat, he slugged a conventional overthe-wall shot in Minnesota's romp over Chicago.

Red Sox 6-3, Brewers 3-7

George Scott slugged a threerun homer to lead Milwaukee over Boston in the first game after the Red Sox whipped the Brewers in the opener on Carlton Fisk's tie-breaking double.

Indians 7-9, Tigers 2-0

Oscar Gamble and George Hendrick were the hitting stars in Cleveland's slugfest over Detroit. Gamble cracked a triple and a homer and drove in three runs as Fritz Peterson won his eighth straight game with a six-hitter. Hendrick drove in three runs with his 21st homer and a single in the opener.

Mears wins at Riverside

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Roger Mears of Costa Mesa, Calif., driving the last lap and a half with only second gear available, defeated Bobby Ferro to win the single seat dune buggy race Sunday at the World Championship of off-road racing.

Mears roared passed the pitts on the 11th lap and yelled to his father, Bill Mears, that his transmission was out. But he kept trying to find a gear and found second and finished ahead of Ferro, who also had mechanical problems. His winning speed was 52.03 miles per hour.

The victory earned more than $8,000 prize money for Mears, who passed passed Ferro in the fifth lap after the Sherman Oaks, Calif., racer, a former Baja 500 and 1000 champion, had started in the pole position.

"I almost pulled into the pitts with the gear problem but then I saw the white flag for the last lap and I started talking nice to the car and trying to make it," Mears said.

Thirteen events were held during the day before a crowd of 41,500 at Riverside International Raceway.

Mitch Mayes of Palmdale, Calif., won the race for motorcycles over 250 cubic centimeters when he passed Rex Staten of Fontana, Calif., on the last lap.

Mayes, riding a Husqvarna, fell off his bike on the eighth lap and got back on and went after Staten.

In the last lap Staten came to a stop and had to restart his bike. He was riding with a wrist he broke in a race a month ago.

Mayes winning time was 55.67 m.p.h.

In the race for pickup trucks, pole sitter Walker Evans of Riverside, Calif., drove right through Dan Gilbert of Cypress, Calif., when Gilbert tried to cut in front of Evans in the first turn and take the lead.

Gilbert spun out and had to wait for traffic to pass before he took off after Evans. He finished second as Evans won the race in 46.7 m.p.h.

NFL roundup

Snead, Hayes give 49ers some spark

By Associated Press

Norm Snead and Bob Hayes, two players who were shunted aside by other National Football League clubs, are providing new spark for the San Francisco 49ers.

Snead, 36, and Hayes, 32, connected on touchdown passes of 18 and 31 yards in the first half and the 49ers went on to whip the Denver Broncos 44-10 in NFL preseason play Sunday.

"That young fellow Snead knows what's going on out there," said Hayes jokingly.

The 49ers picked up Snead from the New York Giants midway through the 1974 season, then obtained Hayes from Dallas over the summer. Both of their old clubs felt the players were past their prime.

"In Dallas, they were saying I was finished," said Hayes. "I hope I proved to the fans here that I'm not."

In other games Sunday, Cleveland beat the New York Giants 24-20, New England defeated San Diego 31-24 and the New York Jets edged Washington 35-31.

The weekend of exhibition play opened Friday night, when Oakland stretched its record to 5-0 by beating Dallas 31-20.

On Saturday, Kansas City whipped Green Bay 31-3, Buffalo edged Atlanta 16-14, Los Angeles overpowered Philadelphia 35-0, Pittsburgh topped New Orleans 24-13, St. Louis downed Minnesota 13-6, Miami beat Chicago 21-10 and Cincinnati defeated Detroit 22-14.

The schedule concludes tonight when Baltimore plays at Houston.

"I don't think there are any more critics of my quarterback choice," said San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan, referring to his decision last week to go with Snead, who is entering his 15th pro campaign, as the 49ers' No. 1 quarterback ahead of Steve Spurrier.

Snead threw beautifully against Denver, completing 12 of 16 passes for 139 yards before leaving early in the second half. Snead took advantage of three Denver turnovers in the second quarter to roll up 23 points and break the game open.

Cleveland reserve quarterback Brian Sipe completed 15 of 18 passes for 143 yards, including a seven-yard touchdown pass to Gary Tarris in the third period that put the Browns ahead for good.

Cleveland's Walt McKinnis rushed for 98 yards on 19 carries and scored once, on a oneyard plunge.

It was New York's first loss of the exhibition season, and Coach Bill Arnsparger explained it this way: "We didn't play well—we stunk throughout the game."

Leon McQuay, picked up on waivers recently from the New York Giants, scored three touchdowns in the second half as New England overcame a 17-point deficit. McQuay ran back the second-half kickoff 101 yards, then scored on runs from scrimmage of five and 56 yards.

It was a costly win for New England: quarterback Jim Plunkett suffered a shoulder separation when he was tackled in the second quarter. He'll be out three to four weeks.

Joe Namath, making his first appearance in three weeks, led the Jets to a 21-14 halftime lead, then the defense took over for two fourth quarter scores to turn back Washington's rally.

After the Redskins had gone ahead 24-21, safety Delles Howell ran back an interception 37 yards for a touchdown and linebacker Godwin Turk blocked a punt to set up Bob Gresham's nine-yard run.

Namath completed 12 of 28 passes for 219 yards, while Randy Johnson fired the Washington comeback by hitting 11 of 21 for 169 yards.

Mike Livingston may have finally put an end to Kansas City's long search for a No. 1 quarterback. He hit on 12 of 17 passes for 157 yards, did not give up an interception and guided the Chiefs to three firstperiod touchdowns that made the win over the Packers easy.

St. Louis' defense limited Minnesota to a pair of field goals.

Walton leads Wings' win

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The San Antonio Wings followed quarterback Johnnie Walton and his three touchdown passes into first place in the World Football League Western Division with a 30-8 victory over the Southern California Sun.

The Sun loss was the second this season to San Antonio, with Sunday's game set up at the last minute after the California team's scheduled weekend opponent, the Chicago Wind, lost its franchise last week.

Walton's scoring tosses Sunday night included a 17-yard throw to Willie Frazier who snared another eight-yard touchdown pass.

The Wings' record now stands at 5-2 and gives them a half-game lead over the Sun in the Western Division.

San Antonio took an 8-0 lead in the second quarter on a 63-yard pass from Walton to Donnie Joe Morris and Billie Sadler's action point.

The Wings increased their lead to 16-0 on their first possession in the third quarter after a 53-yard drive topped by Walton's 17-yard touchdown pass to Frazier.

Southern California came back in its next possession to cover 75 yards in 15 plays with Greg Hurd scoring from one yard out. The Sun picked up the two action points when Mike Ernst passed to Bob Farrell.

San Antonio iced the victory in the fourth quarter with a Walton-to-Frazier pass and an extra point that gave the Wings a 23-8 lead.

With 1:48 remaining, the Wings added another score following Hugo Hollas' interception of a Daryl Lamonica pass. Dickie James got the touchdown on a five-yard run.

Larry Csonka makes his presence felt, even when he doesn't get into the game.

With Csonka sidelined because of a groin injury, his understudy, Willie Spencer, stepped right in and rushed for 142 yards to lead the Memphis Grizzlies to a 37-17 victory over the Hawaiians.

The triumph gave Memphis a one-half game lead over Birmingham in the World Football League's Eastern Division.

Spencer, a 230-pounder, was named the game's outstanding player. He carried 15 times before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with a bruised rib.

"The holes were open and I was running well," said Spencer, who credit's Csonka's tutoring with much of his success. "It was a great day—except for the injury."

Memphis Coach John McVay said, "I thought Willie had his best game since he's been with us."

The other members of the Miami Three, the trio of defectors from the National Football League's Miami Dolphins, made more tangible contributions to Memphis' success.

Jim Kiick rushed for two touchdowns and 106 yards, while Paul Warfield caught a 14-yard scoring pass, one of two thrown by Danny White. The other was a 29-yarder to Gary Shirk.

College football roundup

New Division I teams win

By Associated Press

Shucks, what's all this about Division I being so tough?

Five newcomers made their debut in the world of major college football Saturday, and while the opposition wassn't on the Oklahoma-Alabama level, the fledgling "big-timers" came away with an impressive 3-1-1 record.

Central Michigan, last year's national College Division champion, trounced Western Michigan 34-0 in a Mid-American Conference game. Ball State trimmed Eastern Michigan 244, also in the MAC, and Arkansas State swamped Northwestern Louisiana 42-0. Meanwhile, Northeast Louisiana battled to a 3-3 tie with Pacific while Fullerton State was ripped by Fresno State 49-7 in a Pacific Coast Athletic Association contest.

Only three members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were in action—second-ranked Alabama faces Missouri tonight in a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 6 p.m. PDT)—and all posted victories, although sixthranked Penn State had to rally in the fourth period to edge intrastate rival Temple 26-25. North Carolina State, rated 13th, whipped East Carolina 263 and No. 17 Maryland buried Villanova 41-0.

The opening weekend of the 1975 campaign was marred by tragedy when tight end Chris Angeloff of Akron collapsed and died during the Zips' 20-8 victory over Marshall.

Elsewhere, Baylor got past Mississippi 20-10, Pitt downed Georgia 19-9, Mississippi State held off Memphis State 17-7, Houston beat Lamar 20-3, San Diego State drubbed Texas-El Paso 31-10, North Carolina crushed William & Mary 33-7 and Southern Methodist shaded Wake Forest 14-7.

In Missouri Valley Conference games, New Mexico State beat Drake 14-10 and Wichita State surprised West Texas State 14-10.

Central Michigan's Walt Hodges had his 12th consecutive 100-yard game, rushing for 147 yards against Western Michigan, including a 29-yard scoring gallop.

"It's really good to be 1-0 since this was a conference game and we have another one next Saturday against Ohio U.," said Coach Roy Kramer.

Earl Taylor rushed for 134 yards and two touchdowns to lead Ball State over Eastern Michigan while senior David Hines, who played defensive back the past two years, made his collegiate debut at quarterback and ran for four touchdowns to lead Arkansas State to victory.

Penn State, a two-touchdown favorite, took an 18-13 lead over Temple on the first of Duane Taylor's short scoring runs but trailed 23-18 in the final period. However, Woody Petchel's 66yard punt return set up a threeyard scoringburst by Taylor and John Andress' two-point conversion pass provided the margin of victory.

"I thought Temple dominated the game," said Penn State Coach Joe Paterno. "They played better defense than I expected. They executed better than we did early. They hustled, hit hard and came off the ball well.

"We always seem to have to have a game like this under our belts."

North Carolina State stopped an early East Carolina threat and then mowed down the Pirates as Johnny Evans scored twice and Dave Buckey once, all on one-yard runs.

Maryland sophomore Mark Manges passed for 280 yards and a school-record four touchdowns as the Terrapins spoiled Dick Bedesem's debut as Villanova's head coach. Manges hit Vince Kinney for 46 and 41 yards, Tim Wilson for 25 and John Schultz for 38.

Baylor posted its first opening-game triumph since 1966 when Cleveland Franklin and Pat McNeil scored second-period touchdowns and the Bears held on to defeat Ole Miss despite the loss of quarterback Mark Jackson, who suffered a broken collarbone.

Tony Dorsett, held to 17 yards in the first half, exploded for runs of 27 and 36 yards to set up second-half scores as Pitt overtook Georgia.

Sophomore Bruce Threadgill led Mississippi State over Memphis State, running for one score and passing for another. Houston broke open a tight game with Lamar in the fourth quarter on a pair of short touchdown runs by John Housmak, who krusshed for 114 yards.

Craig Penrose passed for 281 yards and led San Diego State past Texas-El Paso, while North Carolina's James Betterson returned the opening kickoff 92 yards and scored twice against W&M. Wayne Morris and David Bostick scored firsthalf touchdowns as Southern Methodist held off stubborn Wake Forest.

Bigelow gets second again

By Associated Press

At 35, Tom Bigelow, pint-sized as drivers go at 5-foot-9 and 165 pounds, finally has gained some measure of recognition by again doing something he feels has cost him recognition in the past—finishing second.

The personable Whitewater, Wis., racer won the biggest race of his career Saturday, the prestigious Hoosier 100, for the type of roadsters run in the Indianapolis 500 15 years ago.

Despite that victory, and two other triumphs in the five-race series, Bigelow was runnerup for the third straight year in the U.S. Auto Club division that has had the likes of A.J. Foyt, Al Unser and Mario Andretti as champions in the past.

Bigelow, who has also finished second in the U.S. Auto Club sprint, and midget divisions in recent years, trailed steady Jimmy Caruthers this time.

Meanwhile, Niki Lauda had a first in Formula I racing. The Austrian wheeled his Ferrari to a third-place finish—behind Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland and Brazil's Emerson Fittipaldi—in Sunday's Italian Grand Prix at Monza and gained enough points to clinch the prestigious world driving championship. He dethroned last year's champ, Fittipaldi.

Caruthers finished third, behind Bigelow and Foyt, a six-time winner in his 19 appearances in the 100-mile, $50,000 race at the Indiana State Fairgrounds mile track.

"Winning this race is very important to me," said Bigelow, who earned about $10,000. "I'm still not sure how I can win three races and still finish second in the championship again."

Bigelow, winner of more than 35 USAC races, said he would like more than anything now to make some improvement in his showings on the Indianapolis car circuit.

Regazzoni, wheeling a Ferrari, led from start to finish in the Italian Grand Prix and finished 16.6 seconds ahead of Fittipaldi, in a McLaren, with the 26-year-old Lauda only another 23.2 seconds.

In other weekend racing, Ramo Stott finally overtook four-time USAC stockcar champ Butch Hartman in the driving title chase with a second-place finish, behind winner Larry Moore, in a 250-mile race at Milwaukee.

To capture his fifth straight title, Hartman must now win the season finale Sept. 21 at Trenton, N.J., with Stott finishing no higher than fourth.

The 40-year-old Foyt, meanwhile, made another of his increasing rarer dirt track appearances in Sunday's 23rd annual Hut Hundred USAC midget race at Terre Haute, Ind.

Foyt, who last drove a midget nearly a year ago, was the fastest qualifier, and led the race until his car started to sputter. Pancho Carter came on to win the 50-mile event.

Monsoon-like weather at Richmond, Va., forced rescheduling of Sunday's Capitol City 500 Grand National stock car race, under the auspices of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, to Oct. 12. The 29 starting positions remain frozen, with Benny Parsons in the pole position.

Hawaii leads series

HONOLULU (AP) — Sonny Jackson's one-out two-run homer in the bottom of the 10th inning Sunday night gave Hawaii a 5-3 win over the Salt Lake City Gulls and put the Islanders ahead three games to two in the best-of-seven series for the Pacific Coast League championship.

It was Jackson's first homer since 1971 and came after Salt Lake had tied up the game at 3-3 in the eighth inning on a solo home run by Dan Briggs.

Orr planning to stay Bruin?

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — "It's all news to me," said Boston Bruins' General Manager Harry Sinden after the president of the Minnesota Fighting Saints said National Hockey League star Bobby Orr has decided to remain with the Bruins.

However, there are unconfirmed reports that the Bruins and Orr will make a formal announcement of the contract later this week.

"I would say it's 99 per cent sure he'll (Orr) stay in Boston," said Wayne Belisle, president of the World Hockey Association Saints. "I'm disappointed mostly because I think we were so close."

Belisle said Minnesota offered Orr a $4 million contract for five years.

He said Orr's attorney, Alan Eagleson, told him that Boston made an offer for 10 years.

Did you know there was once a major football game in which the score—and even the winner—were changed 48 hours after the game was over. . .It happened in 1940. . .Cornell beat Dartmouth 7-3. . .But on the Monday after that Saturday game, officials of both schools looked at movies of the game and realized Cornell had scored its touchdown on an illegal down. . .Even though Cornell had an unbeaten season going, they said they would give up the touchdown, and thereby give up the victory . . . The result was declared reversed and it was officially changed in record books from Cornell 7, Dartmouth 3 to Dartmouth 3, Cornell 0.

How do you keep them down on the farm after they've seen Moscow?

MOSCOW (AP) — When Marina and Nikolai end their long day of harvesting in the wheat fields of the Ukraine, they still face several hours of work in their little home.

Wood must be chopped for the stove, water brought from the well for washing and cleaning, feed prepared and given to the cow and chickens, plus a multitude of other tasks that daily confront rural residents in the Soviet Union.

Marina and Nikolai, both machine operators on a collective farm, are not happy with this way of life. They long to move to Kiev where they are sure life will be easier and better — higher salaries, less strenuous working conditions, more stores, increased leisure time and better ways to spend it.

How do you keep them down on the farm after they've seen Kiev, or Leningrad, or Moscow? That question has been plaguing Soviet authorities for years, as hundreds of thousands of rural residents each year abandon their sleepy villages and farms for the excitement of the big cities.

There, the standard of living is said by Soviet experts to be twice as high as what the farmers left behind.

In the last 50 years, the rural proportion of the Soviet population has dramatically tumbled from 84 to 40 per cent, although it is still much higher than in other developed countries.

Between 1922 and 1974, the number of city dwellers rose from 22 million to 151 million, while rural residents dropped from 114 million to 101 million.

Such a rural migration is common in any industrialized country, but the overwhelming majority of the emigrants are skilled young workers, the lifeblood of agriculture. As a result, about half the Soviet farm workers today are older women, according to Western estimates.

Soviet farms now are able to meet only 60 per cent of their demand for skilled labor. Unless there is a dramatic turnaround, the shortage may assume crisis proportions by 1980, when farms will need about 8 million machine operators, or twice as may as there are now.

Zubtsov district near Moscow is a typical farming area. According to Sergei Ilyin, chairman of Ilyich's Path collective farm, the district has more than 18,000 people, 10 per cent of whom are between the ages of 15 and 29.

"There has been no population increase in the district for several years, and the death rate is higher than the birth rate," Ilyin said in the magazine Yunost.

"The youngest, best educated and most energetic segment of the population is steadily increasing. In two years, 145 young men and women were trained as tractor drivers but only five stayed in the country."

In order to stem this flood, steps will have to be taken to correct the shortcomings of rural life: long working hours, difficult labor conditions, boredom and lack of schools, stores, hospitals, other services, homes with conveniences.

According to a survey of more than 2,000 farm workers in Siberia, rural women spend twice as much time on housework as do their city sisters. More than 43 per cent of the workers questioned in the survey complained they almost never had any free time.

The sociologist-authors of the survey, published in Pravda, said rural workers spend no less than 50-to-55 hours a week in the fields during the busiest seasons. Most city workers, by contrast, work 41 hours a week.

Few farms have day nurseries and kindergartens, so more than 70 per cent of farm mothers under 25 do not work in a country where more than 80 per cent of the women are employed outside the home.

Rural stores are often bare of many essential food products and manufactured goods, so the farm family has to make long journeys to the nearest town to buy what it needs.

When he can grab some hours of free time, the average rural resident finds little to occupy himself. There is a glaring scarcity of movie and stage theaters, libraries, restaurants, cafes and other facilities in many rural areas.

"The system of cultural services in the countryside continues to lag sharply behind that in the city," Pravda says.

In their search for a good education, farm children are severely handicapped compared to their city counterparts. One-room schoolhouses and shortages of teachers, textbooks and equipment are common.

In addition, children in some areas are forced to interrupt their schoolwork for two or three months while they help out with the autumn harvest.

In certain regions, the dropout rate before seventh grade has reached 50 per cent. In the 1970 census, only 31.8 per cent of rural residents had had any secondary education and only 1.4 per cent had higher education.

Because of their educational disadvantages, rural children usually lose out in the highly competitive race for higher education. In 1971, farm children made up only 10.7 per cent of the college and university student population.

Farm work has little prestige, and therefore, every year, "the most capable, talented young people leave," laments rural writer Georgi Radov. "It's an alarming symptom when the countryside has to orient itself to potentially mediocre people."

The young people who opt for a job on the farm often find that "they're not entrusted with complicated, important and hence high-paying work," adds M. Doroshok, a rural Communist party official writing in Pravda.

"They are assigned worn out machinery," he says. "Advancement is inordinately slow, taking 5 to 10 years."

Alarmed by the current state of agricultural affairs, Kremlin leaders last year announced a $35 billion agricultural redevelopment program, which among other things, calls for the construction of more schools, clubs, theaters, hospitals and shops.

Whether this program will indeed be put into operation and help stem the flow of discontented young farmers, only time will tell.

Paper urges tranquility in bus row

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Herald American replaced its traditional front page Friday with the pictures of 32 people it says advocate the safety of children when schools open Monday under a new integration plan.

Inside, the newspaper filled up 2½ more pages with 100 pictures. Those urging tranquility ranged from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to Carl Yastrzemski, first baseman for the Boston Red Sox.

Set in large type on Page 1 was a statement that read in part:

"A resort to violence is an abomination in a civilized society. Physical abuse of Boston's school children, in the name of any cause whatsoever, is abhorrent and totally unacceptable to all responsible persons.

"Pictured on these pages of the Herald American are recognized and respected leaders of our community who concur that — despite all personal views on the justice of school busing — no physical violence shall disrupt the opening of schools or harm the children."

100% boost in post office subsidy proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar called on Congress today to double the postal subsidy and said a new mail-delivery system resented bitterly by the nation's letter carriers will be put into effect in one city.

Speaking to the National Postal Forum, Bailar urged Congress to double the $920 million taxpayer's subsidy to help keep postage rates "at a level that both business and the individual can afford."

Bailar also announced that the Postal Service will implement the controversial Kokomo Plan, which redraws letter carriers' routes according to computerized measurements of the number of letters delivered and miles walked, in Portland, Ore.

The plan is being implemented only in Portland at this time, Bailar said, in order to give the letter carriers time to file a grievance and take the matter to arbitraton before the system becomes national.

The system involves restructuring of routes to equalize work and was first tested in Kokomo, Ind. Bailer said it will result in substantial cost-cutting.

He said a letter announcing the inauguration of the plan in Portland was being sent to the letter carriers today and he emphasized that the Postal Service will exercise its right to transfer employes if necessary.

In asking for the increased subsidy, Bailar said "it is no secret that to date the Postal Service has been unable to balance its costs and revenues despite increases in postage rates."

Referring to the next anticipated increase in first class mail, Bailar added: "A thirteen-cent stamp may enable us to catch up on our expenses but whether it will enable us to keep up in the face of continued inflation is a question yet to be answered."

He also said a public service study commission should be created to determine which services the taxpayers should be asked to support in the future.

Bailar said the increased subsidy would serve as "a bridge from an inflation-wracked, deficit-ridden postal service to a financially solvent institution."

He said the proposed commission study was necessary to provide "a clarification and expansion of the definition of those services provided by the Postal Service which the users of the mails cannot rightly be asked to support."

He said that slow rate-making was partially to blame for a deficit that will reach nearly $2.5 billion by the close of the year.

James S. Rademacher, president of the letter carriers, has opposed the use of the so-called Kokomo Plan.

ESTIMATING THE DAMAGE

Everett Isbell, left, head groundsman at Yorba School, and Howard Rowan, director of maintenance for the district, sift through the damaged classroom and materials at Yorba this morning. Pomona firemen are investigating possible arson in the blaze.

Pomona school fire ruins classroom but not classes

Pomona firemen are investigating the possibility of arson in a $40,000 fire at a Pomona school Sunday.

Except for a few inconveniences school will open as scheduled Wednesday at Yorba School despite the fire that destroyed one classroom and damaged others.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business, reported this morning that a portable already at the school on La Verne Avenue west of Garey Avenue will be substituted for the burned classroom.

The school suffered approximately $40,000 loss. A fifth grade classroom was lost and adjacent classrooms and a storeroom suffered extensive smoke, heat and water damage.

Firemen received the call at 4:43 a.m. after a neighbor's daughter was awakened by what she thought was a large explosion. Glancing out their windows, the residents saw the interior of the classroom totally in flames.

When firemen arrived, the flames were shooting through the roof. Three engine companies, a truck company and rescue unit controlled the blaze within 14 minutes, but firemen spent an additional 4½ hours totally extinguishing and controlling the flames.

Battalion Chief Don Skews was in charge of the crew.

In another weekend fire mishap in Pomona, two men received second and third degree burns when lacquer thinner they were painting with was ignited by a pilot light.

Jim Rogers of Norwalk and Jim Weaver of Covina were painting kitchen cabinets at 642 N. East End Ave. Saturday. The thinner was ignited by a nearby pilot on the kitchen stove.

Rogers received second and third degree burns to his feet, both arms and the side of his face. Weaver received similar burns to his arms.

Both men were taken by ambulance to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Rogers was listed in good condition at the hospital this morning. Weaver was treated and released.

100 arrested as school busing begins in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Police made over 100 arrests as U.S. Marshals backed by National Guard troops helped get the buses rolling today as a new and extensive busing program came to the nation's oldest public school system.

Police riflemen were stationed on rooftops and U.S. marshals guarded bus routes as National Guard troops stood by to help implement the court-ordered desegregation program.

At South Boston High School, police and state troopers lined the corridors and officers stood at the entrances to other schools as black pupils arrived in buses for the first day of classes under a new desegregation program.

National Guardsmen were standing by, and 100 U.S. marshals helped patrol school grounds. Police riflemen were stationed on rooftops at Charlestown High School, which is being integrated for the first time this year.

A group of about 200 whites gathered on Bunker Hill Street and burned a human in effigy with a racial ephitet printed on it while black children entered the high school one block away.

Police said a .22-caliber bullet was fired through the side of a police van in Charlestown, but the officer driving the van was not injured.

Police reported some 100 arrests, mostly for disorderly conduct. Many of those taken into custody were said to be members of the probusing Committee Against Racism.

Police spokesman Steven Dunleavy said a group of 40 was arrested in South Boston before school opened this morning, and about 60 persons who gathered at the police station to protest the arrests were also taken into custody.

Scattered arrests were also reported in Hyde Park, the South End near Roxbury and in other parts of South Boston.

"In general, schools are doing fine, and the educational process is going on," said Robert Donahue, director of the office of implementation under the desegregation program.

School attendance figures were not immediately available, but Donahue said attendance generally appeared to be about one-fourth to one-half of projected enrollment.

Says only 75 Yanks on job at one time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger declared today that no more than 75 American technicians would be on duty at any one time monitoring the new Sinai peace agreement, which he said directly affects the security and well-being of every American.

The Palestine Liberation Organization is calling for the killing of American technicians who may be stationed in the Sinai. See story on page 3.

Appealing for quick approval of the Israeli-Egyptian accord, Kissinger told the House International Relations Committee that the maximum 200 Americans doing the monitoring would be working at early-warning stations in shifts of 75.

He gave no figure for total aid costs for the agreement, but said the amount in excess of the $3.3 billion already requested for Israel and the $250 million for Egypt "will be nothing like" some of the figures that have been speculated upon.

"I hope the committee will consider that progress for peace is not something that occurs thousands of miles away, but something that affects every American," Kissinger said.

The committee's senior Republican, Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, has said he believes the committee can approve a resolution for stationing U.S. technicians in the Sinai before the end of this week.

Kissinger said the Americans in the Sinai will be civilians and volunteers.

"They are not there in contrast to Vietnam on either side," Kissinger said. "They are not there to bring victory to either side."

He said he did not easily agree to the stationing of Americans in the Sinai.

"It is something to which we reluctantly agreed at the urgent request of both parties," Kissinger said.

He also said he agreed at the "special request of one of the parties," apparently referring to Israel. But he did not elaborate.

Kissinger noted he was asked in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week if the administration would be willing to accept a requirement that all Americans be removed in the event hostilities resumed in the Sinai.

He told the House committee he'd replied, "We would have no difficulty accepting that."

He said the 1973 Mideast war brought home to Americans both the risk of U.S.-Soviet nuclear confrontation and the danger of losing access to oil.

Kissinger made the comments in an opening statement. The committee went into closed session to hear him give details of the accord he helped negotiate.

President Ford and Kissinger asked congressional leaders last week to approve stationing U.S. technicians in the Sinai within the next two weeks.

Pomonan, armored car driver, held in theft

A Pomona man faced arraignment today in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles on charges that he stole $30,000 in cash while working as a driver for an armored car company.

The suspect, LeRoy Purscelley, 31, was arrested by FBI agents and an Orange city detective Friday night in his apartment at 1067½ S. Reservoir St. Arresting officers held a complaint issued by the U.S. attorney's office charging Purscelley with embezzling funds from a federally insured bank.

Acting chief of the Los Angeles FBI office Elmer F. Linberg said today that Purscelley is suspected of stealing $30,000 in $100 bills while transporting currency from the Security Pacific Bank in Huntington Beach to a Federal Reserve Bank in Los Angeles on June 11. Linberg did not reveal how the actual theft occurred. At the time, Purscelley was a driver for the Armored Transport Co. of Los Angeles.

The armored car company was employed to transfer a large but unspecified amount of cash from the bank in Huntington Beach to the federal bank in Los Angeles. Upon arrival there, the loss was discovered.

At the time of Purscelley's arrest in Pomona, Linberg said, agents recovered $11,700 in $100 bills in his apartment. The cash is suspected of being the remains of the stolen $30,000.

After his arrest, the suspect was taken to the Orange County Jail where he was confined during the weekend pending his appearance before a U.S. magistrate in Santa Ana today.

Reagan to test appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan will enter the race for the GOP presidential nomination "before Thanksgiving" and mount an aggressive challenge to President Ford in the primaries, a key supporter said today.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's a candidate and we've moved from the question of 'if,' to 'when and where,'" said Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., who heads a citizen's committee for Reagan.

Laxalt said there is "no way" the Reagan drive for the presidency would involve a conservative third party.

The senator commented during a breakfast meeting with reporters at the National Press Club.

Laxalt said he would have no problem backing President Ford should Reagan fail to win the GOP nomination.

"It's absolutely essential that he develop momentum in the early primaries," Laxalt said of Reagan.

He said Reagan will concentrate his efforts on his political base in the West and South but probably will enter other primaries.

Laxalt said efforts to beat Ford would involve such early primaries as those in New Hampshire, Georgia, Florida and North Carolina and South Carolina.

Arraignment set Thursday

Manson may dominate 'Squeaky's' case

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The name of Charles Manson may dominate the case of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, although prosecutors say they find no evidence of a conspiracy in the attempted assassination of President Ford.

Manson, convicted of murder in the deaths of nine persons, is reputed by some authorities to still have a strong influence over some of his communal "family," despite the fact he is in prison.

Among the most loyal is Miss Fromme, 27, charged with attempted murder of the President after pointing a loaded .45 caliber pistol at Ford from an arm's length away as the President shook hands with wellwishers near the State Capitol on Friday.

She once said of the Manson family: "They're my life."

FBI agents who interviewed Manson in his San Quentin jail cell over the weekend say he denied any role in a conspiracy to kill Ford but refused to answer specific questions.

U.S. Atty. Dwayne Keyes and Sacramento Police Chief William Kinney both said during the weekend they had no evidence of any Manson involvement. And Miss Fromme's roommate, Sandra Good, another loyal Manson follower, said Manson had nothing to do with the incident.

FBI spokesman Tom Griffin said Manson was interviewed at San Quentin Prison by two agents. "In one and a half hours we came up with absolutely nothing of any evidentiary value or any lead value either," he said. "We got no answers to specific questions as to the actual event or any conspiracy or plan."

Griffin said Manson, 40, was cooperative but only "to the standpoint of giving out his theory on how he thinks the world should be. He's willing to talk about that."

Ford, meanwhile, relaxed on the golf course both Saturday and Sunday. White House officials said the President will not change any travel plans because of the gun incident. He flies to New Hampshire and Missouri this week.

In recent months, Miss Fromme and Miss Good have launched new efforts to promote Manson's philosophy. They visited newspaper offices and drafted "press releases" quoting Manson.

In July, they contacted an Associated Press reporter who had covered Manson's trial. Miss Fromme said in a statement joined by Miss Good: "If Nixon's reality wearing a new Ford face continues to run the country against the law, your homes will be bloodier than the Tate-LaBianca houses and My Lai put togther."

The FBI's Griffin said, "I think our Los Angeles office indicated it had clipped the story and it was part of our files. I don't know if it was disseminated beyond those files."

Miss Fromme, being held under $1 million bail, has not entered a plea. Her arraignment was continued until Thursday. By then, prosecutors hope to have a federal grand jury indictment charging her under the new federal law covering assassination attempts on presidents.

Miss Good, 31, insisted at a Saturday news conference that Manson did not order Miss Fromme to kill Ford. "Squeaky acted totally of her own volition," she said. "Manson didn't order her to do this. Squeaky is acting on the will of many people."

Stephen Kay, one of Manson's prosecutors, had said Friday: "The Manson girls just don't act on their own. They act at the behest of Charles Manson. I think Charles Manson had a hand in it."

At Manson's trial in 1970, his three women co-defendants confessed to murdering actress Sharon Tate and six others but insisted Manson wasn't there and didn't give the orders. Circumstantial evidence and a witness who placed him at the scene of two of the slayings led to his conviction and death sentence, which was subsequently reduced to life in prison. He was later convicted in other killings as well.

Manson has been locked up for five years. Followers, including Miss Fromme, are forbidden to visit him and they communicate only by letters. The women's recent "press releases" included statements from Manson's letters.

Keyes, who examined letters taken from Miss Fromme's apartment, said he saw no evidence of a conspiracy. Kinney said, "We have nothing in our files that indicates the Manson girls — she in particular — had ever threatened the President of the United States."

A letter purporting to be signed by Manson was received by several state legislators Friday, the day Miss Fromme was arrested. It said, "I've told you people over and over — I can release thoughts that will destroy you," and warned that "the other justice is gonna catch up with you."

"There's a wave of assassins moving throughout the world," Miss Good said after Miss Fromme's arrest. "Many people will be assassinated in the near future."

But hours later, relaxing barefoot in her living room, Miss Good said she was shocked at Miss Fromme's arrest and added: "You know, just because I say your house will burn down, it doesn't mean I'm going to light the fire. It doesn't mean I'm going to do it."

Commenting Sunday on the case, Pope Paul VI warned that declining spiritual values endanger modern life and said he was amazed and grieved at what he called the "homicidal attempt" on Ford's life.

In Moscow, the Soviet press said it was a symptom of "the cult of violence" in the United States. "It looks like attempted murders are becoming a permanent fixture of large political campaigns in the U.S.A.," said Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Communist youth movement.

In San Diego, Calif., a woman who identified herself as Miss Good's mother told the San Diego Union she wishes her daughter had died of respiratory ailments she suffered as a child. The woman declined to give her name and address because she said she is afraid of Sandra.

"Those times, the doctors told me she was dead," said the woman who said she hasn't seen Sandra for five years. "Once I even left the hospital after they told me she had died. They called me back.

"Why did she have to pull through?"

Utah plane crash kills California family

HURRICANE, Utah (AP) — A Southern California man, his wife and four children perished in the flaming wreckage of their light plane when it crashed after circling over the home of relatives, officials said.

Killed in the crash Sunday were Barton Spendlove, about 38, from the Los Angeles area, his wife Louise, three girls aged 6, 16 and 17 and a boy, about 10, local fire officials said.

Names of the children and Mrs. Spendlove's age weren't immediately available.

The family was leaving Hurricane for California Sunday at about 5:55 p.m., after attending church with Spendlove's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winferd Spendlove, said fire dispatcher Dell Stout.

The plane had circled over the Winferd Spendlove house after takeoff when the engine stopped, the plane turned 45 degrees and plunged into field one-half mile from the airport, authorities said.

The elder Spendlove helped remove the bodies from the charred wreckage of the single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza after the Hurricane Fire Department doused the craft with foam fire retardant.

"They had to restrain him to keep him away from the plane while it was still burning," Stout said of the elder Spendlove.

Washington County deputy sheriff Patrick Judd said the plane appeared to have lost power and was attempting to return to the airport when it crashed.

The crash took place about three miles southwest of this southern Utah town of 1,500.

Kansas City chosen for GOP Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans unanimously agreed today to hold their party's 1976 presidential convention in Kansas City beginning next Aug. 16.

The Republican National Committee approved as expected the choice of the Missouri city over Cleveland, Ohio, and four other cities that had bid for the convention.

Kansas City and Cleveland had been the finalists. The party's convention site selection committee chose Kansas City on Sunday night.

Edwin G. Middleton of Louisville, Ky., reporting for the site selection panel, said Cleveland did not have enough hotel space to accommodate the convention. He said Kansas City had agreed to make available 15,750 hotel rooms, although some of them were as far away as Topeka.

Paul Harle, the California Republican chairman, said "I love Topeka very much but I do have some problems" with the idea of housing convention delegates an hour's driving time away from the convention hall.

Middleton said there would be 2,000 to 2,500 rooms in communities 45 minutes to an hour away from Kansas City, but he said they would be used to house "visitors and whatnot" instead of delegates to the convention.

The national committee then approved a resolution declaring that the 1927 convention "shall be convened at the Kemper Arena in Kansas City, Mo., on Aug. 16, 1976."

The convention will wind up on Aug. 19 after nominating GOP candidates for president and vice president and approving a party platform.

The Kansas City Council has approved expenditures of up to $500,000 to prepare the convention hall and other facilities for use by the Republicans.

Cleveland had offered to bring in cruise ships and temporary modular housing to provide enough hotel space but still would have required sending some delegates to Akron, Ohio.

Housing was an unusually difficult problem for the Republicans because they will have their largest convention next year, at last count more than 2,200 delegates and an equal number of alternates.

It will be the first nominating convention for Kansas City since 1928, when the Republicans nominated Herbert Hoover.

The Republican convention is tentatively scheduled to start Aug. 16, the Democrats July 12 in New York. The party in the White House traditionally goes last.

Cleveland had the appeal of the largest city in the country with a Republican mayor, Ralph Perk, who led his city's delegation before the site committee.

Ohio also is the largest state with a Republican governor, James A. Rhodes.

But Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, appeared in support of Kansas City, promising adequate police protection during the convention. Mayor Pro Tem Richard Berkley led a 17-member Kansas City delegation to lobby the site committee.

Miami Beach, host for the last two Republican conventions and the 1972 Democratic convention, also had bid for next year's GOP meeting but had not come up with the financial promises made by Kansas City and Cleveland.

Los Angeles, which a week ago lost a serious effort to get the Democratic convention, also had expressed interest in the GOP affair. But the southern California city was too close for some Republicans to the San Clemente retreat of former President Richard M. Nixon.

The City Council has pledged $500,000 in services and facilities for the Kansas City convention, and Mayor Charles Wheeler, a Democrat, has offered to head a fund drive to raise another $300,000 from private sources.

Mayor Charles Wheeler of Kansas City said the city's central location was the top factor in winning the convention.

A Democrat and an announced candidate for his party's vice presidential nomination, Wheeler said he conducted a "low-key campaign intentionally" so he wouldn't scare the Republicans away.

Wheeler said the city's success last December in hosting the Democrats' first mid-term convention and the availability of new convention facilities also were obvious factors.

The convention will be held at Kemper Arena, home of the Kings of the National Basketball Association and Scouts of the National Hockey League. The arena is in the stockyards district west of the downtown area and near the American Royal Arena and Governor's Exposition Hall, which will be used for the press and auxiliary services. Municipal Auditorium in the downtown area will also be used.

The search continues in Turkey

Tremors panic shocked survivors

LICE, Turkey (AP) — Small tremors continue to panic survivors of the earthquake that devastated a section of eastern Turkey two days ago. Officials say the quake killed more than 1,800 persons, and they fear the total will rise as they hear from isolated mountain villages.

Necmettin Esenler, a municipal clerk who lost eight members of his family held out his bloody hands and tearfully said: "I dug out my two-yearold daughter Vedia from under a rock with these hands."

Women in dusty black shawls chanted mourning songs alongside the rag-covered bodies of their children.

The stench of death filled the air at Lice, capital of the province which suffered most from the quake at noon Saturday. The town of 8,000 was reduced to rubble. Officials said the burial grounds would not be large enough for the 840 persons believed to have died in Lice.

At least 1,000 more died in surrounding villages, officials said. The continuing tremors were small, but they interfered with the search for the injured and bodies buried in the debris.

Some survivors wandered around in a daze, trying to find relatives and possessions. Others fought over tents, blankets and clothing being distributed by rescue workers.

Military planes brought in 17 tons of food, blood, antibiotics and other relief supplies. Mobile hospitals and mobile kitchens were set up. About 2,000 troops worked alongside civilian rescue teams.

Premier Suleyman Demirel toured the area and pledged: "No one will be left starving or homeless."

The Turkish state radio played only classical music Sunday in mourning for the victims.

The Turkish quake measured 6.8 on the Richter scale and struck along the Anatolian Fault, which runs in a crescent shape from Turkey's Aegean coast northeast along the Black Sea and then south into the eastern mountains. A quake along the fault in 1939 killed 30,000 people, and 2,964 died in a quake in 1966 at Varto, not far from Lice.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion on which a reading of 6 indicates a severe quake while 7 means the possibility of widespread, heavy damage.

At midday Sunday, a relatively strong earthquake rumbled through northwestern Yugoslavia, more than 1,000 miles from the Turkish quake site, causing minor damage but no casualties, authorities in Zagreb reported. Building walls cracked and some plaster was knocked down in Zagreb, Varazdin, Cakovec and Krapina.

The Zagreb Seismological Institute registered the quake at 6-7 on the Mercalli scale, which has a maximum reading of 12. No Richter reading was reported.

U.S. technicians should be shot—PLO

By The Associated Press

The Palestine Liberation Organization has called on Arab nationalists to shoot American technicians who may be stationed in the Sinai Desert under the Israeli-Egyptian pact.

"The Palestinian revolution ... regards the U.S. military presence in Sinai as an enemy target that should be shot by every struggler and every nationalist in our Arab nation," the PLO newspaper Al Thawra said in Beirut on Sunday.

The newspaper called the proposed presence of the American civilian technicians at warning stations in the Gidi and Mitla passes "dual occupation" of Egyptian land by the United States and Israel.

"We are confident the first shot will be fired by an Egyptian soldier, because the Egyptians are known for their nationalism and will never allow an imperialist American flag to flutter over any spot of Arab territory," Al Thawra wrote.

Palestinian guerrillas are unlikely to constitute any threat to the the Americans since they probably cannot get to the Sinai from their bases in Lebanon and Syria. Nor are any Egyptian soldiers likely to attack the Americans. But such talk from the PLO could make it harder for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to get the necessary approval from the U.S. Congress of the new American role.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in an interview Sunday on the ABC program "Issues and Answers" said without the American presence, "it is doubtful if the present terms of this agreement can be maintained."

But PLO chief Yasir Arafat in interviews with Time, Newsweek and the CBS program "Face the Nation" said the "United States is paying too much for too little"; the Palestinians "can stop most of the consequences of the new agreement," and the Palestinians "are looking for more escalation; we expect continual support of our cause from the Soviet Union."

N.Y. may get $2 billion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York State Legislature appears ready to allocate some $2 billion and put New York City into virtual receivership to prevent the city's imminent financial collapse.

As the lawmakers resumed their emergency session today, State Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson went to Washington to ask fellow Republicans in the Ford administration for some form of federal assistance to the city.

Many legislators fear that without federal assistance, the complex bailout plan put together by Gov. Hugh Carey might ultimately fail.

But the attitude of a majority in both houses appeared to be that even without federal aid, the plan would have to be approved because it was the only alternative to a default by the city on its debts. Default could come this week and appears inevitable by next Monday unless action is taken.

Such default, in the view of legislators of both major parties, would not only disrupt city government, but also wreck the credit of the state and make it impossible or unbearably expensive for local governments across New York to raise money.

Masked man with knife rapes an Ontario woman

A stocking masked man, armed with a foot-long butcher knife, raped an 18-year-old Ontario woman and robbed her of her purse Sunday night in the 1000 block of W. E Street in Ontario, police reported.

Police said the man approached the woman's car parked in front of her home and first asked her directions to "Marine" street. When the woman couldn't answer the man came around the other side of the car and pulled out the butcher knife.

Police said the man got into the car and forced the woman to drive a short distance and stop. The man after demanding the woman's money forced her into the back seat with knife, ordered her to disrobe and raped her.

Police said the man fled on foot with the woman's purse containing a small amount of cash.

The rapist-robber was described as a Caucasian, 20 to 25, 5 feet 7 to six feet tall, 140 pounds, with wavy black shoulder length hair and a mustache. He was wearing a brown long sleeved shirt and tan pants.

A man wearing a baseball cap and armed with a small handgun robbed the 7-11 Market at Orchard Street and Central Avenue in MONTCLAIR of an undetermined amount of cash Sunday night.

Police said the robber, wearing a blue-baseball hat and baggie pants, walked into the store about 11 p.m. and pulled a small derringer-type handgun on clerk Don Warren. The robber demanded the money from the register and fled.

The robber was further described as a Caucasian, 30 to 35, 150 pounds, and wearing a gray sweatshirt and white baggie pants.

A lone gunman with long, "dishwater blond hair" robbed the Straw Hat Pizza Palace at 1065 W. Foothill Blvd. in CLAREMONT early Sunday morning, police said.

The victim, Dave Downey, said the young man entered and gestured as if he had a pistol in his jacket pocket.. He fled in a station wagon.

The robber was described as a Caucasian, 5 feet 9, weighing 150 pounds. He wore a military fatigue jacket and wire-rimmed sunglasses.

Chester Olson of 533 N. Campus Ave., UPLAND, reported to police Sunday burglars broke into his home and made off with a .22 Colt pistol, a portable color television set, and three cameras valued at over $1,000.

Olson reported a number of collectors' coins missing from the home.

Colombian army general killed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Terrorist gunmen in a speeding car assassinated the inspector general of the Colombian army today, military authorities said.

They said Gen. Ramon Arturo Rincon Quinones was sprayed with bullets as he was being driven to the Defense Ministry in a limousine. The general's chauffeur was seriously wounded.

Rincon had conducted a strong campaign against leftist guerrillas.

Plague death triggers drive

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A massive flea-killing campaign is under way in central New Mexico following the death of a 14-year-old boy from a highly infectious form of bubonic plague.

12 states still hit by teachers strikes

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer

Teachers strikes in a dozen states extended summer holidays for nearly a million public school pupils today as a result of contract disputes involving pay, class size and job security.

Meanwhile, New York City's 1.1 million school children begain classes today while officials of the financially strapped city met with union leaders in an attempt to avert a strike by 65,000 teachers.

Police in Boston, backed by U.S. marshals and National Guard troops at the ready, arrested about 100 persons today, mostly on charges of disorderly conduct, as a new and extensive busing program came to the nation's oldest public school system.

In Louisville, Ky., armed National Guard troops and police rode nearly empty schools buses today as classes resumed in Jefferson County after four days of noisy and sometimes violent antibusing protests.

Antibusing protests in Louisville resulted in 70 arrests Sunday night. More than 22,000 of the 135,000 pupils are being bused under a plan to merge prodominantly black city schools with mostly white county schools.

Teacher strikes were scattered around the nation with 28,000 off the job in Illinois; 7,800 in Pennsylvania; 385 in Michigan; 800 in Wilmington, Del.; 2,200 in Rhode Island; 900 in Lynn, Mass.; 1,200 in New York State; 9,900 in New Jersey; 1,300 in Berkeley and San Jose, Calif.; 300 in Ohio; 600 in Tacoma, Wash.; 850 in Great Falls, Mont.

Four women warned at ordinations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four women who defied their church's hierarchy to take vows as Episcopal priests have been warned by one who preceded them: "You will suffer and you will hurt."

But, added the Rev. Alison Cheek Sunday in an ordination ceremony not recognized as valid by the bishop of Washington: "You will have joy and you will have peace."

The ordination ceremony at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation attended by some 1,000 persons also was marked by protest.

The Rt. Rev. William Creighton, bishop of Washington, had issued a pastoral letter read to Episcopalian congregations Sunday asking them to boycott the ceremony.

He also asked that the ordained women not be allowed to function as priests in churches of the Washington area.

And at a time in the ceremony allotted for voicing objections, two men came to the front of the church to do so. Speaking of resigned Bishop George Barrett of Rochester, N.Y., who performed the ordinations, Dr. Emile Oberholzer asserted: "This bishop is without jurisdiction over the candidates."

He added: "These ordinations will compound the difficulty of opening ordinations to women and will endanger the unity of this branch of Christ's church."

In a brief response, Bishop Barrett said those participating in the ceremony "do not take the order of the church lightly, but there are times when overriding considerations must supplant canons and rules."

Then he addressed the four women: "My sisters, do you believe that you are truly called by God and His church to this priesthood?"

"I believe I am so called," they answered in unison.

About 50 priests, more than half of them in clerical garb, joined in the traditional laying on of hands that marks initiation into the priesthood.

Pilot lands in jail for his buzzing

BOGNOR REGIS, England (AP) — A 35-year-old pilot who threatened to "scare hell out of Bognor Regis" buzzed the south coast resort town for three hours early today after a lover's quarrel.

Police evacuated scores of families after the lovesick pilot, armed with a shotgun, threatened to crash his single-engine plane on his girl friend's home.

The pilot, identified only as Gary, repeatedly sent his stolen Piper Cherokee into screaming dives over the area.

Running out of land

New squatter problems in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — It was about 2 a.m. when Arturo Acosta, a $6-a-day unskilled laborer, awoke to find about a dozen policemen pulling down his shack.

Accused of being a squatter, Acosta fled into the night with his wife and 2½-year-old daughter and hid in the bushes as the last of his shanty came crashing down.

Acosta is one of an estimated 2 million people living on land claimed by someone else in this country of 58 million.

Twenty-five years ago, the Arturo Acostas of Mexico might have shrugged, picked up their belongings and moved someplace else in the city where they could build a shack and the land could be used free.

But Acosta and many others among the estimated 300,000 squatters living in a belt of what Mexicans call "lost cities" around the capital say they are going to fight for the land they occupy.

Mexico City now has a population of about 10 million. The city now fills the circular Valley of Mexico and there is little room left.

Landowners who once ignored squatters are having them evicted as land prices hit $15 a square foot in the outlying areas of the city.

Clashes between squatters and the police have grown more frequent. Slum leaders talk of revolution.

There is little chance that squatters, whom leftists are trying to organize, and a dozen urban guerrilla group's now robbing banks and killing policemen, can successfully launch a revolution. But it is clear that the seeds of social conflict sown many years ago through inadequate government planning are being cultivated by the radical left.

The government is attacking the land problem, but the measures being taken don't appear to be coping fully with the crush of poor streaming into the cities.

The bus stations are filled daily with sad, bewildered peasants coming to the city seeking a better life. They carry their belongings in paper sacks, boxes and cardboard suitcases.

Mexico created its first agrarian reform ministry earlier this year under President Luis Echeverria, 65 years after the start of a revolution which had as a primary goal to give land to Mexico's peasants.

The minister of the new department, Augusto Gomez Villanueva, has about 9,000 employes and a $65 million budget for this year.

According to recent official statistics, more than 20 million acres of land have been distributed among Mexican peasants in the last 40 years.

A public address system in de la Cruz's office harangues the residents from sun-up to sundown. Children in groups sometimes pause in their play, shout slogans in unison in reply to the public address system and fling their little fists into the air in power salutes.

The police have surrounded the area for several weeks. About a month ago, 28 of the slum people were injured when policemen armed with clearplastic shields, riot helmets, tear gas and three-foot-long truncheons charged into a crowd.

The police, who said they were there to prevent trouble, claimed they were attacked by squatters throwing rocks.

After his shack was destroyed by the police in another slum several miles away, Arturo Acosta moved up the hill in the same area. More than 4,000 squatters live there atop a solidified bed of lava.

Dozens of other shanties, made from basketball-size chunks of lava piled atop each other without mortar also have been knocked down by the police, the squatters said. About three dozen squatters were arrested in a confrontation with the police three weeks ago.

A police colonel and other police officers have been going from door to door of the shanties, advising residents they had better move off the land claimed by people wanting to sell it for upper class housing projects.

"We will fight for our homes if they try to come through and tear them all down," said Acosta. "Sure we have no guns, but students at the university have told us they will come to help us fight."

Acosta came to Mexico City to earn a better living, the same reason as thousands of others pouring into the capital each year.

"I was working in a manganese mine in Hidalgo," a state adjoining the state of Mexico, he said. "It was dirty work. A man can hardly breathe in the dust. I got three fingers blown off by a dynamite cap. I was making $1.25 a day.

"My brother who lived in Mexico City came to visit me," said Acosta. "He said I could do a lot better in the capital."

Acosta hopped a clattering third-class bus with his few personal belongings and hopes of making $40, maybe even $80 a week, he said. Five days later he was pushing an ice cream cart in the capital.

"Some days I made 40 cents and other days I made $4,' he said. He now makes to the minimum daily wage as an unskilled laborer.

Will he go back to the country if forced off the land he occupies now?

"I can't go back," he said. "I'm married now. I have a wife and child to support. There's no schools and no food where I come from. And a man can't make enough to stay alive in the country."

Terrorists to be freed by British

LONDON (AP) — The British government plans to end detention without trial in Northern Ireland and to set free all the 246 suspected terrorists it now holds there by Christmas.

Our aim is to dismantle detention," Merlyn Rees, secretary of state for Northern Ireland, told Parliament on Thursday. "If there is a full scale armed insurrection as there was before, I will use the law."

Rees said he hopes the situation in the province "will progress sufficiently to enable all detainees to be out by Christmas."

Since February there has been a cease-fire in Northern Ireland, where Irish Republican Army gunmen have battled to detach the predominantly Protestant province from British rule and unite it with the largely Roman Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

Official sources said there are now 1,363 special category prisoners in jail in the province — persons convicted of terrorist crimes.

Since the cease-fire, some 350 detainees have been released and only one of them has appeared in court on a violence charge. In the same period, 600 persons have been charged with terrorist offenses.

Replying to a Conservative opposition lawmaker who said released detainees might come to Britain to "join active units" here, Rees said the same problem could happen with ordinary criminals.

"I am not in business to keep people locked up for ever," he said.

Depend on us
We're here to help all agriculture of all ages

Most farm families tend to believe that there is no substitute for practical farm experience. And they also believe that a good way to develop such experience is with a personal business venture all one's own.

That is the idea and the ideal behind the Junior Livestock Auctions: to give 4-H and FFA members an opportunity to raise their own meat animals, pay their own expenses, keep their own books—and then, once a year, market those animals in open competition to the highest bidders.

Bank of America is happy to play an active role in this community-wide farm program. We finance many of these junior livestock projects. We also help clerk the auctions and underwrite the bids to guarantee each youngster payment in full for every sale.

You are invited to participate, too. Come to bid on choice meat for your own table. Or come to watch. It is small business. But it is big enterprise. For everyone concerned.

MR. AND MRS. LAURENCE HORANS

Laurence Horans mark 50th year

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence D. Horan of Pomona recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a renewal of marriage vows following Mass in St. Joseph Catholic Church. Later, the couple attended a dinner and reception held in their honor.

The Diamond Bar Country Club was the site of the dinner attended by family members. A garden reception was held in their honor with 80 guests attending the event hosted by the couple's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Galligan, and their children, Pamela and Daniel, of Pomona.

Two members of the original wedding party, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Horan, attended the dinner and reception.

The couple was married in Chicago, Ill., on Aug. 5, 1925. They moved to Pomona 32 years ago from their home in Butler, Pa.

Mr. Horan was formerly employed by Kaiser Steel Corporation in Fontana where he was general foreman of the scrap preparation department before his retirement in 1966.

Mrs. Horan was manager of the Gaytime Dress Shop and the Serve Yourself Dress Shop in Pomona. She was employed by Walter Jones Insurance at the time of her retirement.

Volunteers are needed for center

Newcombers are being recruited to join other volunteers at the Upland Cancer Dressing Station on Tuesday.

Volunteers work at 611 N. 3rd Ave., Upland, between 9:30 a.m. at 2:30 p.m. Workers should bring a sack lunch if they plan to stay during the noon hour.

Dinner to aid Scouts

The third annual dinner to benefit Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America, is planned at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at La Villa Guasti Brookside Winery.

The Women's Service Board is sponsoring the dinner which provides funds to further leadership training of adult volunteers, continue the development of Holcomb Valley Scout Camp and extend scouting into all areas of the community.

Mrs. R. Craig McManigal and Mrs. Ron Brundage are directing arrangements which will feature wine tasting by Brookside Winery, a Basque dinner and music by Las Dos Notas.

CASTLE FOR SALE — Rheinstein Castle near Bingen is among the most celebrated of some 100 West German castles and country palaces up for sale. The Duke of Mecklenburg was asking $1.6 million before a pretended buyer carried off its contents. Now the sale price is $120,000. Upkeep costs have been blamed for glut.

Defense for hang gliding

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — It's dawn. Far above Yosemite's lush valley floor the first hang glider pilot of the day stands poised at the summit of Glacier Point.

It is a dizzying 20 minutes and 3,200 feet along the chill air currents to the earth below.

He trots to the edge of a granite runway, clinging to a multicolored kite, and hurtles into space. The triangular sail fills and the glider begins to hum as the pilot steers this way and that. Another deltashape follows ... and another ... and another.

A flight from Glacier Point is currently one of the most prestigious rides in the esoteric but expanding world of the hang glider (or sky-sail) enthusiast. But the chance to make the exotic flight through the early morning California sun may not be available much longer.

Yosemite is the only national park that permits hang gliding. Rangers allow flights only from 6:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., before the park opens to the general public. Local officials fear traffic jams and mobs of spectators would crowd the area if flights were later.

But officials in Washington apparently fear the stigma of condoning an activity that could leave a young glider pilot's body shattered on a beautiful valley meadow. A regulation published Aug. 20 in the Federal Register banning the practice in national parks is scheduled to take effect in late October.

In announcing the proposed regulation, park service officials said that in recreation areas, "powerless flight may infringe on the full and enjoyable use of the areas and may be destructive to park resources."

"I think hang gliding is a marvelous sport that can be done on private land or in the national forests," said Nathaniel Reed, assistant secretary of the Department of the Interior. "I don't believe it is the kind of thing that the national parks were created for."

But in more than 500 flights since the sky sails began soaring from Glacier Point last year, there have been no injuries, says Ranger Dean Paschall, 23, who coordinates the flights and judges pilot qualifications before they can fly.

"I usually require that they have at least four flights from an altitude over 2,000 feet," he said. "And they have to have been flying pretty steadily for at least six months."

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain And Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

Exclusive formula gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itch in many cases. Helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues due to inflammation.

In a survey, doctors were asked what they use to relieve such painful symptoms. Many of the doctors reporting said they either use Preparation H themselves or in their office practice.

Almanac

Today is Monday, Sept. 8, the 251st day of 1975. There are 114 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1565, a Spanish expedition landed at what is now St. Augustine, Fla., and founded the first permanent European settlement in North America.

On this date ...

In 1664, Peter Stuyvesant surrendered New Amsterdam to the British.

In 1760, Wisconsin came under British control after being French territory.

In 1855, the Crimean War ended.

In 1883, construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad was completed with the driving of the last spike near Garrison, Mont.

In 1934, 134 persons lost their lives in a fire aboard the luxury liner Morro Castle off the New Jersey coast.

In 1935, Sen. Huey Long, D-La., was shot at Baton Rouge. He died two days later.

Ten years ago: A number of countries, including the United States, made appeals to India and Pakistan to stop their fighting.

Five years ago: The Red Cross was named to negotiate with guerrillas holding 180 hostages aboard two hijacked airliners in Jordan.

One year ago: President Ford granted former President Richard M. Nixon an unconditional pardon for any crimes he may have committed during his term in office.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Sid Caesar is 53 years old. Songwriter Howard Dietz is 79.

Thought for today: Where there's marriage without love, there will be love without marriage. — Benjamin Franklin.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, George Washington alerted his generals that he would soon call a Council of War to consider the feasibility of launching a direct attack on Boston.

Good Samaritan fatally stabbed

RIVERSIDE (AP)—A motorist who stopped to help two men whose car had stalled on a Riverside street, was stabbed fatally, police said.

John Sharpnack, 20, of Riverside staggered to a nearby home after he was stabbed Tuesday. His assailants stole his car, officers said.

Police arrested David Marquez, 19, of Riverside, and an unidentified 14-year-old Los Angeles boy and booked them for investigation of murder and grand theft.

When we speak of "the seven seas," we are borrowing a phrase old-time sailors used to describe all the seas and oceans of the world.

The seven seas referred to are the North and South Pacific, North and South Atlantic, the Arctic, the Antarctic and the Indian oceans.

However, the phrase doesn't really describe these seven oceans, and was used long before some of the oceans were known to exist.

Actually, there is only one ocean — the "world ocean."

For the sake of convenience we speak of the Pacific or the Atlantic or the Indian ocean. The three oceans are really parts of one great body of water.

They come together around the continent of Antarctica to form what is called the Antarctic Ocean.

The Atlantic and Pacific meet again at the North Pole to form the Arctic Ocean.

Around the borders of the oceans lie smaller bodies of water called seas, bays and gulfs which complete the watery world.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

BIRTHDAY COMING — Helen Hayes, first lady of the American theater who will be 75 Oct. 10, is shown at the Festival Theater in New York City for the recent premiere of her latest film, the Walt Disney Studios' "One of Our Dinosaurs Is Missing," in which she stars with Peter Ustinov. She recently returned from Hawaii where she taped an episode of television's Hawaii Five-O with her son, James MacArthur. With Miss Hayes is 17-year-old Evelyn Albizu, Brazilian student brought here under the American Field Services program for which the actress is an energetic spokeswoman.

Broadway expects boom season

EDITOR'S NOTE — No fewer than 27 new arrivals are slated for Broadway before the end of the year, midway mark of the season. Theater-goers will be treated to some revivals and some offerings from abroad as well as new fare by budding authors. Here's the lineup.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway is aiming for another upturn season.

Encouraged by last year's multi-million dollar rise in boxoffice revenue, producers are scheduling an increased number of shows.

A larger-than-usual stellar galaxy, mostly feminine, has also been assembled to augment attendance prospects. The list ranges from such veteran worthies as Lillian Gish and Sylvia Sidney to current favorites Elizabeth Ashley and Paula Prentiss.

In the male contingent are Milton Berle, Cyril Richard, John Raitt, Yul Brynner.

Between now and Dec. 31, the traditional midway mark, 27 arrivals are slated, compared with 23 set last September.

Among the productions, seven are revivals of proven crowd pleasers; six have had extended domestic tests elsewhere; and four are coming from London.

In addition to such usual legit fare, a six-week run is planned at Broadway's Uris Theater starting Sept. 25 for "Treemonisha," an opera novelty composed by ragtime's founding father, Scott Joplin.

The operators of the Uris, who have had difficulty keeping regular shows in that huge auditorium, are continuing the policy instituted last season of special "concert engagements." The two-week kickoff beginning tonight spotlights Count Basie, Ella Fitzgerald and Frank Sinatra.

A novel addition to the drama lineup is Producer Joseph Papp's plan to present at the Booth theater a series of plays by young authors' who otherwise might get a hearing off only off-Broadway.

Here, in calendar sequence always subject to sudden revision, are the shows slated to open. Premiere dates are shown in brackets before each title:

SEPTEMBER: (Just Arrived) "The Skin of Our Teeth," Hellinger Theater — The Kennedy Center version of Thornton Wilder's classic starring Miss Ashley, Martha Scott and Alfred Drake; (18) "Ah, Wilderness," Circle in the Square — Eugene O'Neill's only comedy down from New Haven's Long Wharf Theater with Geraldine Fitzgerald; (21) "The Soft Touch," Golden — new comedy about a young man whose problem is sleeping alone, directed by Alan Arkin; (23) "Truckload," Lyceum — new musical about a group of vagabonds.

OCTOBER: (6) "Hello, Dolly!," Minskoff — a freshened version starring Parl Bailey; (8) "Me & Bessie," Ambassador — musical about Bessie Smith, conceived by and featuring Linda Hopkins; (9) — "The Laf People," Booth — first of the Papp series, drama in the Brazil jungle, directed by Tom O'Horgan; (13) "Boccaccio," Edison — musical about the master of ribald stories; (15) "Trelawney of the Wells," Beaumont — Pinero's classic comedy with Marybeth Hurt; (23) "Yentl the Yeshiva Boy," O'Neill — drama set in a 19th century European Shtetl; (28) "The Best of Everybody," Beck — Milton Berle and Vivian Blaine in a comedy of a doctor who wants to create "a good monster"; (also 28) "America the Musical," St. James — melodic potpourri of music by Herbert, Lehar, Friml and Kern featuring Patrice Munsel, John Raitt, Tammy Grimes, Dick Shawn, Cyril Richard and Lillian Gish; (30) "Travesties," Barrymore — London comedy hit starring John Wood.

Tentatively marked down for October arrival also is the musical "Odyssey," headed by Yul Brynner and Joan Diener.

NOVEMBER: (13) "Habeas Corpus," Palace — another allstar London import with Donald Sinden, Rachel Roberts, Jean Marsh, Celeste Holms, June Havoc and Roberta Maxwell; (18) "Scream," theater not yet set — Sylvia Sidney in a drama about two Auschwitz survivors.

Tentative November bookings are: "Give 'Em Hell Harry," with Ed Nelson as Harry S. Truman; "Kennedy's Children," about some youths during the 1960's; and "Angel Street," revival of the famous melodrama.

DECEMBER: (4) "Fathers & Sons," Booth — second new author offering; (17) "Hamlet," Beaumont — with Sam Waterston in the title role; (18) "The Glass Menagerie," Circle in the Square — Maureen Stapleton explores the Tennessee Williams drama; (28) "Duplex," theater to be set — Janet Leigh trapped in melodrama.

Due also during December are "The Norman Conquests," a comic trilogy by Alan Ayckbourn at the Morosco, date to be set, featuring Paula Prentiss, Estelle Parsons, Carole Shelley, Richard Benjamin, Ken Howard, Barry Nelson, and "Kronborg," a musical version of "Hamlet" which still needs a date and a playhouse.

Intriguing prospects for post-New Year arrival are beginning to loom. Just for samples, Katharine Hepburn in "A Matter of Gravity," Julie Wilson in "Roberta" and Deborah Kerr with "Souvenir." Also new musicals by Stephen Sondheim, Alan Jay Lerner, Leonard Bernstein and Richard rodgers.

Prospects appear bright.

'Blue Bird' flies at last

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Blue Bird" has completed its flight.

Twentieth Century-Fox received the happy news that the trouble-plagued coproduction of the United States and U.S.S.R. has completed filming in Leningrad after seven months of production. Director George Cukor finished the final scene in a set described as the entrance to the Garden of Dreams.

The film, based on Maurice Maeterlinck's fantasy, has an international cast including Elizabeth Taylor, Ava Gardner, Jane Fonda and Cicely Tyson. It is expected to be released next Easter.

Despite recent setbacks

Japanese business leaders confident

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese businessmen, already stunned by the collapse of three big corporations in recent days, are expecting even more failures in the near future. Economists say speculative managements are as much to blame as Japan's business recession.

"I agree the situation isn't good at present — in fact, it's worse than we forecast — but I think it will improve," said Isamu Miyazaki, chief of the Economic Planning Agency's research department.

He said the Bank of Japan will cut its official discount rate — its lending rate to other banks — and this will improve business psychology.

In addition, the government, which until recently had been concentrating on economic restrictions aimed at curbing inflation, now is busy drawing up a package of business stimulants to be announced later this month.

Kazuo Nukazawa, an economist for Japan's Federation of Economic Organizations, said the failures were "half the fault of the government for acting too slowly and half the fault of the companies for being reckless."

Businessmen have been warning of impending failures and a rise in unemployment for some time, urging the government to ease credit drastically.

But Nukazawa said the three major collapses of the last week and a half could not be considered representative of the general state of Japanese business. There will be more big failures, he said, but they will be the "weak sisters" of Japanese industry and eliminating them will have a salutory effect on the economy as a whole.

Nevertheless, the business community was shocked at the failure of Kohjin Co., a widely diversified textile company that listed its total liabilities as 150 billion yen ($503 million), making it the largest corporate failure in Japan since World War II.

Then Toho Sangyo, a trading firm specializing in carbon products, and Terukuni Kaiun, Japan's ninth largest shipping company in terms of fleet tonnage, followed Kohjin in taking the first step in bankruptcy proceedings.

This is to ask the courts to hold off their creditors while they try to reconstruct. If the courts agree, the companies go into receivership and if not, they go into liquidation.

The combined liabilities of all three companies exceed 220 billion yen ($738 million). Including the debts of various affiliates also likely to be dragged under, the sum is likely to exceed 300 billion yen ($1 billion), although a substantial portion can be offset by the companies' existing assets, whose exact amount has not yet been determined.

Two years ago, Kohjin and Toho bought high-priced land on borrowed money, expecting Japan's inflationary land boom to continue.

Terukuni Kaiun chartered a number of oil tankers at high prices in expectation of even stronger demand for ships in the future.

But following the oil crisis, land prices fell in Japan and demand for oil dwindled, idling tankers everywhere.

Bank of Japan officials say current policy is to prevent the current tight reins on the economy from damaging healthy firms, but Kohjin, Toho Sangyo and Terukuni Kaiun were not considered healthy. Credit agency analysts said their managements failed to adjust to the low-growth era that followed the oil crisis.

In July, 948 companies, each with debts of 10 million yen ($33,500), went bankrupt, a record for the month. Officials at leading credit agencies say the current list of doubtful large companies contains about 30 names.

The Japanese government, in cooperation with large industrial groups, sometimes organizes rescue efforts for failing companies.

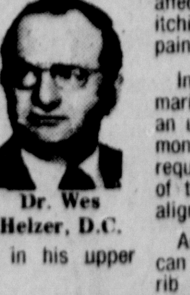
Yawn, Stretch . . . And Pop A Pain In The Back!

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

What does it mean when you yawn or stretch and suddenly get sharp pain in the back?

The crick or catch, or call it what you like is a danger signal not to be ignored.

What happens is that the person is experiencing a rib popping out of position. Usually the individual can work it back into place by doubling up and pulling his arms crossways across his body. However, it's a sure-fire indication that the individual has misplaced vertebrae in his upper back.



Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

And it is a somber portent of things to come.

The most common of the complications of a popping rib are neuritis and neuraligia. The popping cage can easily cause bursitis. And one of the most serious complications is shingles.

Consider shingles, for example. Once a rib pops out . . . unless the misaligned vertebrae is corrected . . . it will most surely happen again. Each reoccurrence weakens the muscle structure and it takes progressively less and less effort for the rib to pop out again.

With each incident of the popped rib the nerves in the affected area become over-extended to the point that a virus attack follows. Pimples then rise over these affected areas causing a severe itching accompanied by severe pain.

Incidentally this is not a nightmarish condition that effects only an unfortunate few. It is a common, most painful condition that requires correction at the source of the difficulty . . . that misaligned vertebrae.

And the person who believes he can always self-correct a popped rib is on a one-way street to serious difficulty.

Remember, as the wise man once said, "a little learning is a dangerous thing." It's enough that the person read the danger signal properly and seek immediate correction of the serious problem.

Documented tests indicate that a lot of drivers could save nearly 3 months' worth of gasoline annually. Could you?

By Dave Berry, Shell Mileage Expert

Dave Berry

Shell did a three-part test of some of that mileage advice you've been getting. The first two parts showed the value of good "mileage maintenance." The third part showed how much we could stretch a gallon of gas using only driving techniques. Doing the same things might save you money, and the country gasoline.

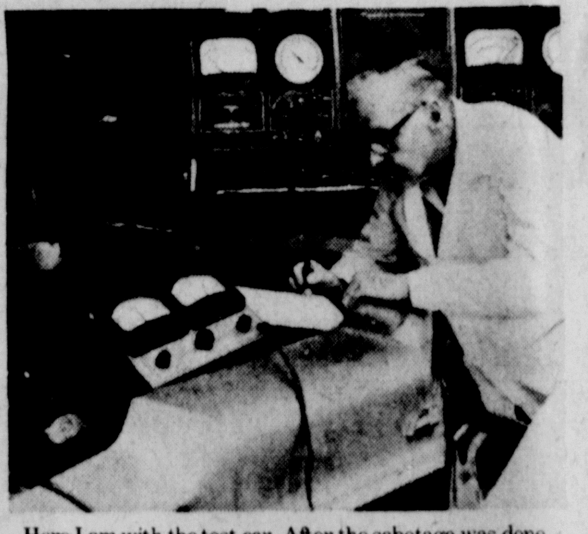
Mileage sabotage

To show the benefits of keeping a car in top mileage shape, I needed a car that wasn't in good shape. So I got one of our Shell company cars and sabotaged it.

First, I put the car slightly out of tune. I set the ignition timing back five degrees. Then, I made it idle a little too fast and too rich.

Next, I put on bias-ply tires instead of radials. And I lowered the tire pressure from the proper 24 pounds to 19.

Then I put the wheels just a hair out of alignment (¼ in. excess toe-in).



Here I am with the test car. After the sabotage was done, I don't think the car was in any worse shape than thousands of cars on the road.

Finally, I put in a mileage handicap that most people don't know about — single grade 30 weight motor oil instead of an all-season 10W-40 motor oil.

Phase one: I think there are a lot of handicapped cars

The drivers didn't know we had installed this precision fuel-measuring equipment in the trunk.

Still wondering what it was all about, our 23 test drivers took turns driving the course, a 22-mile path that included both in-town and highway driving. Each was instructed to drive in his or her usual manner.

After each driver's turn, I sneaked a look at the special mileage meter hidden in the trunk. Average for all 23 drivers — 13.6 miles per gallon.

Now here's a bit of a shocker.

According to the best information I could find, 13.6 mpg is not bad mileage for a car of this make and year.

So, while I can't say there's another car with exactly the same handicaps, I figure that a lot of cars probably have mileage handicaps just as bad as our test car.

Phase two: What's good mileage maintenance worth?

After all 23 drivers had finished, I set out to undo the sabotage.

By changing from bias-ply tires to steel radials at the right pressure, we expected to improve gas mileage about seven percent.

Our test group was made up of ordinary drivers. Overall mileage improvement was 23.5 percent.

We looked for a five percent boost from correcting ignition timing.

An improvement of about four percent was expected from correcting the idle mixture.

And, although we couldn't say how much, we expected to save some fuel by getting the wheels aligned, correcting the idle speed, and changing from single grade 30 weight motor oil to a multigrade 10W-40.

When the same 23 drivers drove the course a second time, without knowing the car had been changed, they averaged 15.6 mpg. An improvement of 14.6 percent — two miles per gallon better.

Of course savings will be different for different cars and drivers.

How to figure the real cost of mileage maintenance

Obviously it pays to make mileage improvements like proper tire pressure. But what about a tune-up or radial tires? Is the gas you save worth it?

Let's take a tune-up as an example.

It could easily reduce gas consumption by five percent. For the average driver, that would be 37½ gallons a year, enough to offset a large part of the price of the tune-up.

The point is, when you're deciding to have a particular job done on your car, don't forget to consider the potential gasoline savings, too.

Of course the best gas stretcher of all costs nothing. It's the way you drive.

Phase three: "Pretend it's your last gallon"

That's what I told our test drivers when we started the third phase. We wanted to see how much farther a gallon would go when they used good mileage driving skills.

Here's what I told them to do.

One: Accelerate gently. You don't have to creep away from a light. Just take it easy.

I went along to "backseat drive" in the third phase of the test. My mileage tips helped the test group average an additional 8.9 percent improvement.

Two: Anticipate stops. Take your foot off the gas and let the car coast up to the intersection.

Three: Don't go too fast or too slow. Most cars get their best mileage around 35 mph. We didn't go over 50 on the freeways.

Four: Get into high gear quickly. If you have an automatic, learn to "feel" the shifting.

With these tricks, our test drivers got an average of 16.8 mpg. An additional 8.9 percent for a whopping 23.5 percent over the first run. That's equivalent to nearly three months' worth of gasoline per year.

Think of the value of just one month's gasoline

Maybe your car is already in good shape. Or maybe you can't afford repairs right now.

But remember, our drivers saved nearly enough with the driving techniques alone to add up to a month's supply each year.

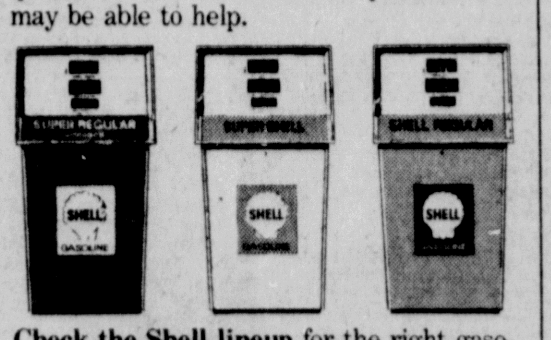
And they didn't creep around at a snail's pace to do it either. They averaged 33 minutes to cover the course in the first two runs and only six minutes longer with good mileage driving techniques. That's a small inconvenience for the potential saving.

Here are some ways your Shell Dealer can help

Mileage Markers

Stop by your participating Shell Station for a free set of these Mileage Markers. On your speedometer, they remind you (not to mention others who drive your car) at which speeds most cars get the best mileage.

Talk to your Shell Dealer if you have questions about the condition of your car. He may be able to help.



Check the Shell lineup for the right gasoline for your car.

Shell Super Regular Unleaded* has good driveability to fight stallout and hesitation. Its excellent detergent properties help keep your carburetor clean, and that's good for mileage.

In addition, its octane rating is higher than the government-required minimum for unleaded gasolines, so it can stop knock in many '75 cars.

Super Shell has the same good driveability and detergent properties as Shell Super Regular Unleaded. Use it for top-rate performance in pre-1975 cars that require high octane fuel.

Shell Regular is our lowest priced gasoline. If your car runs well on regular, use it.

*Most late model cars can use unleaded gasoline. To make certain that your car can, check your owner's manual.

Any questions? Write me.

Just write Dave Berry, Shell Oil Company, P.O. Box 61609, Civic Center Station, Houston, Texas 77208. I'll try to give you answers. I'll also send along a copy of our booklet, "Confessions of a Mileage Champion."

Schools asking new 10-cent property levy

Even more taxes are proposed to be levied on property owners in the Pomona Unified School District.

District officials are proposing another 10 cent per $100 of assessed valuation increase in the tax rate for 1975-76, which amounts to a total hike for this fiscal year of $1.04, a 22 per cent jump in the tax rate in one year.

Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services, will explain the additional 10-cent increase at the regular school board meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The increase will be allowed, he said, because assessed valuation on public utilities in the district, rather than increasing the estimated 2½ per cent, actually decreased in value approximately $3.8 million.

This devaluation cost the district some $634,000 in income.

The State Evaluation Office advised Rountree the cut was due to reductions in material and supplies by Southern California Edison Co. and General Telephone Co. within the district.

The additional 10 cents will bring the district's total tax rate for 1975-76 to $5.58 per $100 of assessed valuation. It had stood at $5.48 following the school board's adoption of a 94-cent increase on Aug. 5. Last year it was $4.54 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Rountree siad that Senate Bill 220 — the controversial bill Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. bluepenciled from $115 million to $88 million — will bring the district approximately $510,000 additional funds this year. This money, Rountree said, will be placed into the reserves.

At that August meeting, the board, on a 3-1 vote, adopted a $32.2-million, general fund budget with $1.7 million in three reserve accounts.

At Tuesday's meeting, board members will give second reading to revised policy changing board meeting dates from the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month to the first and third Tuesdays.

Administrators will ask for blanket authorization to readmit some 40 to 50 pupils who have been expelled during the past two to three years for participation in the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) pilot program.

Authorization also will be asked to apply for a $150,000 federal grant to provide vocational training for handicapped and disadvantaged pupils at Garey and Park Avenue high schools.

Board members will be asked to approve a recommendation by Supt. Robert E. Wentz that five district employes be named to serve as the board's representatives for 1975-76 meet-and-confer sessions with employe groups, along with two alternates and one alternate-observer.

The five representatives named are Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services; David R. Evans II, assistant superintendent of personnel services; Sharon M. Russell, coordinator of elementary education; Robert E. Oaks, principal at Diamond Point Elementary School; and Lewis S. Manville, principal at Ganesha High School.

Alternates named are Wentz and Rountree, Keith H. Daniel, principal at Simons Junior High School, is the recommended alternate-observer.

REDUCED TO RUBBLE

The old Galbreath Building in downtown Chino has been demolished to make way for the new Civic Center. The structure had been urged for preservation by the Chino Valley Pioneer Association, for historical purposes. A bulldozer ended those dreams last week.

Historical Chino building destroyed

Efforts to save an old downtown building in Chino have ended with the crunch of the bulldozer.

The Galbreath Building, at Sixth and D streets, had been urged for preservation by the Chino Valley Pioneer Association for historical purposes.

Nearly 70 years old, and blocking construction of Chino's new Civic Center, the building was reduced to rubble last week by the Emch Co., demolition contractors.

Housing the Chino Glass Co., the structure was of some historical value, according to members of the pioneer association.

Twenty-one members, in fact, had presented petitions to the Chino City Council, asking that the building be saved.

Councilwoman Eileen Carter, while agreeing it could not be preserved because it was part of the Civic Center site, said some items in the structure could be saved for history.

These items will be placed in an appropriate spot in the new county library, she said. Hopefully, other buildings will not have to meet the fate of the Galbreath in the future, she said.

Arson suspected in building site fires

West End sheriff's deputies and Foothill Fire District inspectors are investigating the possibility of arson in a $30,000 structure fire early Sunday morning that destroyed one home under construction and damaged two others in Alta Loma.

The fire at the Sievers Construction Co. housing tract at Wilson Street and Carnelian Avenue was first reported by a nearby resident about 2 a.m. Sunday. When Foothill Fire District units arrived, one of the homes being framed was engulfed in flames and two adjoining homes smouldering. Firemen managed to bring the blaze under control within minutes. In addition to the three homes involved in the fire, stacks of unused lumber and a construction company truck were destroyed.

Sheriff's arson investigators were called to the scene after a resident reported seeing several men in a car parked near the house minutes before the fire.

Fire inspectors were searching the debris this morning to find traces of a flammable liquid possibly used to start the blaze.

Fights erupt after wedding

Pomona police reported breaking up a series of fights which broke out early Sunday morning at a wedding reception at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall at 637 W. Second St.

Officers, who sped to the scene using sirens and emergency lights, said that upon their arrival they found several fights in progress among some members of a crowd estimated between 150 to 200 persons.

Police said they made no arrests and there apparently were no serious injuries. The cause of the trouble, described as a major disturbance, was not learned.

YMCA starts schedule of new classes

Classes in karate and youth activities will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning today and Tuesday.

Karate, for persons over 8, will be offered on Mondays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for five weeks. The cost is $15 for YMCA members and $20 for nonmembers.

A toddler program, for children from 3 to 5, will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for four weeks. Activities include swim instruction, gym activities and crafts. The cost is $15.

Gymnastics for boys and girls ages 6 and over will be offered for five weeks on Mondays and Wednesdays. Beginners will meet from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and intermediate students from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The cost is $5 for members and $10 for nonmembers.

A youth program, for children 6 through eighth grade, will include swimming, arts and crafts, games, physical education and special activities. Boys' days will be Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Girls' days will be Mondays and Wednesdays at the same hours. Fridays will be coed from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Participants must have a youth membership card, which costs $23 per year. Swim lessons are an additional $2 for members and $15 for nonmembers for five weeks.

For information, persons may call 623-6433

Board members will pick a name for new Walnut elementary school

Walnut school board members will pick a name tonight for an elementary school to be located at Lycoming Street and Lemon Road.

If they follow the recommendation of surveyed families in the area, they will call it Walnut Elementary School.

Thirty-eight families favored that name. Two wanted the school named Glenwick, the name by which the 10-acre school site is known.

The district already has a Walnut Elementary School but it will be used in the future to house the district continuation school.

In design, the new school will resemble the Cyrus J. Morris Elementary School.

Board members also are expected to act on a recommendation from Supt. David L. Brown on modification of the 1975-76 school calendar.

Last month they decided to postpone the opening day of school from Sept. 15 to Sept. 16 because Sept. 15 is Yom Kippur, a Jewish holiday.

Brown recommends that the calendar otherwise be the same as previously adopted, resulting in a 175-day school year instead of a 176-day year.

He states in his recommendation that the modification should not be precedential and that from an instructional point of view, the district should be working toward a 180-day year.

Appointment of an ad hoc planning group to study the future of the secondary education program in the district will be considered.

Enrollment projections indicate that the district enrollment for grades nine-12 will be about 2,700 by 1979 and 3,000 by 1980. Enrollment for those grades this year is expected to be 1,840.

Eventually the 9-12 population may reach a top of 5,000.

Various methods of housing the increasing enrollment would be studied by the committee.

It would be asked to:

— Assemble a written description of organization, program, resources, facilities and staffing for the secondary education program in the next 15 to 25 years.

— Extract from the total plan and suggest for consideration whatever particular facilities would need to be added in the district to meet the nine-12 enrollment needs by 1979.

— Develop educational specifications for such facilities as a basis for architectural planning.

Target date for the first two assignments would be July 1976, and for the third, September 1976.

Handicapped helped

More than 105 handicapped persons in the valley will be able to receive vocational rehabilitation services as a result of a $16,815 grant by the state Department of Rehabilitation to the Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, 534 W. Brooks St., Ontario.

To qualify for the grant, the association contributed $4,204, bringing the total amount of money available for the project to $21,019.

The grant helps support the continued employment of several staff members at the OPARC Diversified Industries Workshop. The workshop provides a program of vocational rehabilitation services which include vocational evaluation, counseling, work training and job placement.

The handicapped persons receive job training in janitorial work, food service, landscaping, shipping and receiving and clerical work. Last year, 10 persons were placed in jobs in the community.

Paramedics fail to save drowning victim's life

A 2-year-old Santa Ana girl drowned in a backyard swimming pool in Azusa Sunday evening while relatives were finishing dinner, sheriff's deputies reported.

The victim, Stephanie Marie Olsen, was pronounced dead after being rushed to Glendora Community Hospital from 5444 Donna Beth Ave.

Stephanie and her parents were visiting at her father's brothers' home when the accident occurred. Her uncle, Rudy Villaneuva, dived to the bottom of his swimming pool and pulled the victim to the surface after she was discovered missing from the dinner table.

Villaneuva gave Stephanie mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and paramedics assisted her en route to the hospital where physicians continued life-saving methods. But, after about 20 minutes, she was pronounced dead.

Citrus opening

Fall semester classes at Citrus College, Azusa, will begin on Sept. 15 with an anticipated enrollment of 9,400 students.

Registration information may be obtained by calling the Admission Office at (213) 335-0521 or (714) 599-5773.

Ontario man rescued after fall at Baldy

Mt. Baldy firemen and West End sheriff's deputies teamed up Sunday to rescue an 18-year-old Ontario man who tripped and slid down nearly 100 feet of loose shale in the Mt. Baldy Bowl area.

Scott Newsome of 565 Plaza Serena St., Ontario, was listed in fair condition this morning in San Antonio Community Hospital with head, face and rib injuries suffered in the fall.

According to sheriff's deputies, Newsome was hiking with a friend Martin Patterson of Claremont about 1:30 p.m. Sunday when the mishap occurred. Newsome said he decided to run down an embankment from the top of Baldy when he lost his balance and fell face first. The Mt. Baldy fire rescue team was notified of the accident about 1½ hours later and sent a team to the area.

Application is withdrawn

Developer Robert Armstrong is expected Tuesday night to tell the Claremont City Council that he is withdrawing his application for a residential unit development of 84 lots on 21.5 acres in county area north of La Puerta Intermediate School.

Armstrong, rebuffed last Tuesday night at the Claremont Planning Commission meeting in his bid to dedicate six acres of lemon groves as "visible open space," to the city, probably will request a standard residential development on 13,000-square-foot lots, city officials said.

Residents in the area during a two-hour public hearing protested the lemon grove being fenced and not being true "open space."

Grove owners told the commission that the six-acre grove is too small to grow lemons economically.

The commission by a 3-2 vote said it didn't want to accept the lemon grove as "visible open space."

Mission crash injures pair

A couple was injured early Sunday morning when their car crashed into a street light standard at Mission and Phillips boulevards, Pomona police reported.

Both the driver, John E. Wilder, 40, of 446 Virginia Ave., Claremont, and his passenger, Vergil Ann Jackson, 20, of 1714 S. Waters Ave., Pomona, were released after treatment of minor injuries at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police quoted Wilder as saying the accident occurred when his car's brakes locked.

Wentz faces higher odds in job quest

Pomona schools Supt. Robert Wentz' chances of landing the St. Louis, Mo. City School District superintendent's job today appear to be facing tougher odds than last week.

Wentz found out Saturday night he is one of three educators — not two — being seriously considered for the post.

During a public forum in St. Louis in which Wentz was questioned by interested citizen groups, the Rev. James Cummings, school board president, disclosed that a third person is a candidate for the job.

Mr. Cummings said earlier that only Wentz and St. Louis Deputy Supt. Ernest Jones were in the running to head the 90,000-student district.

However, Charles Bernardo, superintendent of Providence, R.I., schools also is being considered, stated Mr. Cummings.

Wentz was asked questions at an open meeting of the school board by St. Louis neighborhood and civic organizations.

The 25 groups particpating submitted questions in advance, and they were read by the board members in an unusual format.

According to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Wentz already had been interviewed by the board in a closed door session. A new superintendent is expected to be chosen this week.

The Pomona superintendent was grilled by the parent groups Saturday on a number of sensitive topics affecting St. Louis schools.

Asked about forced busing to achieve a racial balance in the schools, Wentz was quoted by the Post-Dispatch as saying efforts toward an equal racial mix should be started with district employes rather than pupils. "You should develop a uniform, pluralistic staff throughout the school system, regardless of what school a pupil was attending," he added.

Giving general rather than specific answers to questions, Wentz pointed to a successful program in the Pomona School District as an answer to parents' desires for a bigger voice in St. Louis' district decision-making.

An ad hoc citizens committee was launched in Pomona in 1972, he said, "largely through my efforts." The committee led to formation of local advisory councils in 90 per cent of the schools, plus a district advisory committee.

Predominantly white and black parent groups both are unhappy with the St. Louis school system, said the Post-Dispatch. The district has a 50-50 student mix of each racial group.

Wentz was questioned for about three hours at the meeting attended by 75 persons.

The solution rarely ends it

"We can never do merely one thing," says University of California biologist Garrett Hardin, formulating another of those "laws" our more and more complex society seems to be colliding with more and more frequently.

Hardin refers specifically to the dire social consequences he foresees should a constitutional prohibition of abortion ever be adopted. While the scientist's position on this question is a matter of much dispute, there is little doubt about the validity of his "law" when it comes to the consequences of a whole list of other human activities, particularly in regard to the environment.

Consider the Environmental Protection Agency's attempts to solve the automobile pollution problem.

Over the years, a number of devices were mandated on new cars. Though they helped the emissions problem, gasoline economy suffered. The solution to this was seen in the catalytic converter, which scavenged emissions aft of the engine. But because the lead in gasoline "poisoned" the platinum in the catalysts, the oil industry was required to gear up to produce higher cost lead-free gasoline.

Beginning with the 1975 model year, automobiles coming off the assembly lines were equipped with catalysts designed to change the carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in exhaust fumes into carbon dioxide and water.

Unfortunately, evidence soon began to accumulate that, along with harmless C02 and H20, the catalysts were also producing sulfuric acid. To meet this new and unlooked for threat to the environment, it was suggested that sulfur be removed from gasoline at the refinery — at an additional cost to the consumer.

Now comes a warning from three scientists with Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill, N.J., that to do this could create yet another major problem — deadly hydrogen cyanide gas.

In the presence of sulfur dioxide, the formation of hydrogen cyanide (HCN) by platinum catalysts is reduced to insignificant levels, they told the recent 107th annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in Chicago. However, the proposed removal of sulfur from gasoline to reduce the sulfuric acid emission hazard could increase the HCN emission hazard.

The scientists caution that their experiments were conducted under laboratory conditions and results "cannot be used to draw conclusions concerning the chemical products of far more complex gas mixtures in actual auto exhausts."

Their preliminary findings suggest, nevertheless, "the need for more extensive study of the chemical interaction of auto exhaust gases with catalysts."

We can never do merely one thing . . .

Special Christmas delivery

The U.S. Postal Service is preparing a surprise package for Americans this Christmas.

As in previous years, the service will issue two special Christmas stamps — one with a religious theme and one with a secular theme. For the first time in history, however, the stamps will not bear any postage denomination.

Because of the large quantity of Christmas stamps sold each year — about a billion of each — it is necessary for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to prepare cylinders and to print the stamps well in advance of the holiday season.

The nondenominational format was adopted because of the uncertainty over when and how much postal rates will have to be raised as a consequence of the recent contract settlement with postal workers. Indications are that the cost of a first-class stamp will go up from 10 cents to 13 cents early in December.

Of course, the only surprise would be if the Postal Service were to delay the increase until after the holiday season. Will it play Scrooge, or will it make this gift to Americans?

Did the oil industry wait until after the July 4th holiday to raise gasoline prices last time?

Is the moon made of green cheese?

Anyone can join ripoffs

Dear Editor:

That golden ager who is so concerned at a possible oil company ripoff is no doubt the beneficiary of the art, himself. Somebody has to pick up the tab for social security, reduced taxes, bus fares, ad infinitum. Usually the poorest contributors are first in line for benefits.

I doubt that President Ford is as interested in the oil companies' welfare, as giving the youngsters enough energy to move. Someone has to pay for the Alaskan pipeline, and I doubt it will be Congress or the ecologists who contributed so much to its cost.

Anyone interested can join in the ripoffs. Oil stocks are as available as the nearest phone, at about a dime on the dollar.

Services overlooked

Dear Editor: I would like to call to your attention that in your Welcome to Pomona Valley section in your services available to valley communities you did not mention Chino Neighborhood House, the oldest organization in Chino with all workers on a volunteer basis with no pay. — Mrs. Virginia Selstad, Registrar, Chino.

Dear Editor: The Progress Bulletin published an excellent directory of services available to valley communities. One glaring omission was the Pomona chapter of American National Red Cross. — Norman Williamson Jr., Chapter chairman.

Did typos convict governor?

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department used recklessly inaccurate transcripts of secret tapes to help convict Oklahoma's former Gov. David Hall in a nationally publicized bribery trial.

The official transcripts are loaded with serious mistakes. For example, the word "most" is transcribed as "less," and "disobeying" comes out as "just being." Throughout the transcripts, innocent words appear incriminating and vice versa, lengthy tape gaps aren't mentioned and one person's statements are put in the mouth of another.

Hall's own conversations, recorded without his knowledge while he was still in office, were used to help convict him. Yet part of a key conversation, which tended to exonerate him, strangely was omitted from the transcripts that were used at the trial.

The enormity of the errors and omissions in the Hall transcripts — combined with similar mistakes we discovered in an unrelated Washington criminal case — casts doubt on the convictions of hundreds of suspects around the country.

For it has been common practice to tap telephones, bug rooms and rig informers with body recorders to gather evidence. The transcripts of these tapes have been used in countless proceedings, ranging from narcotics trials to Richard Nixon's impeachment hearings.

Earlier, we reviewed 150,000 words in FBI transcripts, which had been stamped as "evidence" and had been circulated to prosecutors and courts. We found more than 30,000 errors, some serious enough to jeopardize the rights of the accused.

Wherever such transcripts have been used, the danger exists that the suspects have been improperly jailed unless their lawyers took the unusual pains of going over the government's transcripts word for word and comparing them with the original tapes, as we have done.

A veteran Justice Department lawyer, whose job would be jeopardized if we identified him, has confirmed that the "typical normal transcription" is a "shoddy job." He considers it "horrendous" that suspects may go to prison on such fraudulent evidence. Yet the department has been satisfied to let its tainted convictions stand.

In the Oklahoma case, Hall was indicted shortly after he stepped down as governor last January. He and Dalls financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor were charged with attempted bribery and related felonies.

Taylor allegedly offered $50,000 for Hall's help in securing a contract. The evidence against them was obtained largely from Oklahoma's Secretary of State John Rogers, who allowed his telephone to be tapped and permitted FBI agents to rig him with a body recorder and miniature transmitter.

In return for his cooperation, Rogers was granted immunity from prosecution on tax and securities charges.

The Rogers tapes were transcribed by the FBI, the U.S. Attorney's and Oklahoma state personnel. The transcripts were used, mistakes and all, to get the two defendants indicted. Then the same transcripts were given to the defense attorneys who thus relied on tainted evidence to prepare their cases.

Hall and Taylor were prosecuted by U.S. Attorney William Burkett, a Nixon appointee and political opponent of Hall. At the trial, the tapes were a sensation. The transcripts, though not admitted into court evidence were dramatically used by Burkett, nevertheless, to summarize what he said the jurors were hearing on the scratchy tapes.

He used them to examine witnesses, quoted from them to make his arguments and waved them before the jury. Thus, the errors in the transcripts became part of the fiber of the trial.

On some points, the defense attorneys questioned their accuracy, and many transcripts were redone. But even through FBI agents swore the new versions were accurate, we found them still full of mistakes.

Federal Judge Fred Daughtery allowed the error-riddled transcripts to be used at the trial, and both defendants were convicted. Hall was sentenced to three years, Taylor of 18 months. The case is now headed for the appeal courts.

We have listened carefully to the tapes and have compared them to the transcripts. We found error after error, as many as 100 per page. Unaccountable gaps, a la Rose Mary Woods, occur at strategic moments.

Although we found some omissions and distortions which, if corrected, would strengthen Burkett's case, we found more instances that would help Hall and Taylor.

Ballots in foreign languages

In 27 states ballots must be printed for this fall's elections in languages other than English. In 464 counties, where there is an appreciable number of adopted Americans who can't read English, ballots must be printed in their language as well as ours.

How about that! The U.S. Department of Justice has messaged local officials in 27 states that, under the 1965 Voting Rights Act, all voters have a right to know what they're voting for or against.

So those that can't speak our language must have special ballots in their language — Spanish, Chinese, Japanese, various Indian tongues and dialects.

I think it is obscene to allow people to particpate in running our country when they haven't even bothered to learn the language of our country.

The melting pot is supposed to "melt." Instead, it has become a "pressure" cooker. All of us Americans are mostly something else. It was presumed that the immigrants who came to our new land would bring with them some of the culture, crafts and mores of the Old World.

But let me quote what Tom Jefferson had to say on the subject:

"In the further importation of foreigners, it is for the happiness of those united in society to harmonize as much as possible in matters which they must of necessity transact together.

"If they bring with them the principles and language of the government they leave, and transmit these to their children, in proportion to their numbers they will share with us in legislation, infuse into it their spirit, warp and bias its direction and render it a heterogeneous, incoherent, distracted mass.

"Suppose 20 millions of republican Americans were thrown all of a sudden into France; what would be the condition of that Kingdom? It would be more turbulent, less happy, less strong.

"We may believe that the addition of foreigners here, demanding the rights of citizenship without conforming to our ways, would have a similarly disastrous effect."

If I may presume to paraphrase the eloquent Mr. Jefferson: When in Rome, do as the Romans do.

When you come to the United States, because it is what it is, you don't try to change it into something which it is not.

And you don't stubbornly stick to your Old World language.

That's like keeping your first wife's picture on your second wife's dressing table!

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Even though the United States' participation in the Vietnam War is now officially over, day by day in many a curious way we continue to pay out large sums of money to cover the costs of certain strategic military plans of action which we never got to use because the war ended too soon. —So, although few taxpayers are aware of it, a portion of the money they fork over to the government each year is still being used to pay the warehouse costs in Saigon for birth control pills.

But it doesn't necessarily take a war to enable government officials to find an excuse to spend our tax money. Only recently the federal General Service Administration found a most interesting way to get rid of $2,000. It authorized that amount for the painting and erection of a 24 foot long mural to brighten up a Washington D.C. construction site. Pictured was a voluptuous maiden clad only in a mini halter and a string bikini. What's more, the halter and bikini were put on with paint mixed with soap so they would wash away when it rained. — And how about the $57,800 spent by the Federal Aviation Administration on a study entitled "Anthropomethry of Airline Stewardesses? Among other interesting statistics regarding the anatomy of these young ladies was the fact that the average stewardess has a nose 2.18 inches long. —All of which is just added proof that although politicans may come and politicans may go, political tax ripoffs go on forever.

Your tax money supports radicals

Earlier this summer, in a western state, a young man approached me and asked if I would sign the Declaration of Independence.

He handed me what looked like the center spread of a newspaper. On one half was a reproduction of the Declaration of Independence backed by spaces for signatures. I tore it off, signed it and handed it back to him. The other half was something else again.

It was an ad for something called Peoples' Bicentennial Commission.

Despite its mild name and easy confusion with the official American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the PBC doesn't represent the people, isn't interested in celebrating the Bicentennial and is not a federal commission.

Instead, it is a self-appointed band of political radicals intent on twisting the nation's 200th birthday to its own purposes.

Its leader is a self-proclaimed Socialist revolutionary, Jeremy Riskin, whose understanding of American history is hazy but whose zeal is not.

He says, "It makes no sense for the New Left to allow defenders of the system the advantage of presenting themselves as true heirs and defenders of the American Revolutionary tradition.

"Instead, the revolutionary heritage must be used as a tactical weapon to isolate the existing institutions and those in power by constantly focusing public attention on their inability to translate our revolutionary dream into reality."

Riskin's idea of translating "revolutionary dream into reality" is to organize a crowd of about 20,000 demonstrators (many of them apparently fugitives from the anti-Vietnam War movement, looking for a new cause) and have them try to break up official Bicentennial events.

That's what they tried to do in April, heckling President Ford as he spoke at Concord Bridge in commemoration of "the shot heard round the world."

Never mind the fact that the American Revolution was a war of independence from foreign domination and not an ideological class war of the type Riskin supports, the PBC hasn't the slightest hesitation gulling government bureaucrats into giving it some of your tax money to support its radical rhetoric and activities.

Stating as its purpose, "to research, assemble and disseminate to workers and students historical information on the lives and roles of working people during the Revolutionary War period, with an emphasis on the ideas and events that shaped the formation of the early Republic," the PBC sought — and got — a grant of $7,210 from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Once the federal dollar faucet was turned on, it didn't stop. Last year, the NEH approved a grant of $394,000 for some of the PBC people to lecture throughout 13 western states.

Presumably, Riskin and his followers could have sold the NEH the Brooklyn Bridge if they'd wanted to, for, while submitting innocuous-sounding grant applications, Riskin was declaring to all who cared to pay attention that the PBC's real aim was to show that ". . . a genuine understanding of revolutionary ideals links Thomas Paine, Sam Adams and Benjamin Rush and the American people with Lenin, Mao, Che Guevara and the struggle of all oppressed people . . ."

In July I acquired a new imported car from a valley dealer.

The second day I owned it the odometer stopped working and oil was leaking from the motor so I took it back to the dealer and asked to have it repaired.

I was informed a spare odometer wasn't available and the oil leak would be taken care of on the 1,000-mile checkup.

On the 19th day after the purchase, the engine was scorched due to a defective cooling system, so I had the car towed back to the dealer for repair.

That was four weeks ago and the dealer still has my car.

I have no means of transportation except when I can borrow some because the dealer can't or won't give me a loan car while mine is in the garage.

I've asked about getting a new engine put in but was told the warranty only provided replacement for defective parts. I would have to wait for new pistons for the car to be fixed.

I've called my credit union, consumer affairs and other places in hopes of getting something done but so far have had no luck. — S.R., Ontario

The general manager of the car agency said he was well aware of your problem, had been working on it daily and four or five other people had worked on it also.

Parts definitely are a problem with foreign cars, he told us. "They shouldn't be but they are."

He said he has been trying to get not just pistons, but new engines for you and another customer.

He hadn't reported this to you earlier because he had no success to report.

But the day he received our inquiry, he got a call that engines for your car and the other customer's had been shipped. The remainder of your wait should be short.

Where do I go to see about getting Towne Avenue designated as a truck route all the way through to Riverside Drive in Pomona?

The designation now stops at Mission Boulevard but the trucks use Towne just the same.

Once in a while a ticket or two is given out, depending on what officer is on duty, but trucks are using Towne Avenue all the way through from the San Bernardino Freeway. — J.L., Pomona

The truck route now is south from the freeway to Phillips Boulevard, east to Reservoir Street and south to Riverside Drive.

We learned from you that you are particularly interested in a direct route because you and a couple of neighbors own commercial trucks.

One officer ticketed them on the section of Towne not designated for trucking but others did not. You wrote your views on routing to the Police Department. It was referred to the Department of Public Works.

When we talked with Richard Barrera, traffic engineer and a member of the public works staff, he already was aware of your views.

He said he would be glad to answer your questions about the present routing and the possibilities of carrying out your suggestions.

I am writing about my Social Security checks for my kids and myself.

When I moved the last of May I put in a change of address but somehow there was a mixup.

I picked up my June check at my old address. Since then no checks have arrived.

The kids and I need help. I am behind in my bills. — M.N., Pomona

People at the local Social Security office said a second change of address you filed went through the proper channels and you should receive your retroactive pay soon.

A few days later you got checks totaling $676.40.

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, Sept. 9, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Efforts expended on behalf of someone else will be rewarded in a most unusual fashion in the near future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You tend to benefit today through close associates or partners. You will be let in on something. It will prove much to your liking.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're very creative at home today. Little tasks that are usually a bore will prove to be pleasant diversions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Much attention will be centered on you today. Your company will be sought by others. You may even get a surprise invitation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something is stirring to make both you and your family feel more secure. It could be that raise you've been hoping for.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be receiving some good news. You'll be anxious to share it with a few choice friends. It will come through a unique channel.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This should be a good day for you where things of a material nature are concerned. Be alert for a chance to fill your piggy bank.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have excellent leadership qualities. They'll be very evident to your peer group today. Assume greater responsibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be fortunate today in dealing with those in authority. Favors that would not be granted to others will be given to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things will work out today if you use imaginative concepts. Don't be afraid to test bold-new ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions that have a direct effect upon your standing in the eyes of others are extremely favorable today. Your deeds will win you points.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A situation that was out of harmony will be brought into focus today. The end result will please all concerned.

Your Birthday Sept. 9

More travel than usual is likely for you this coming year. The trips won't be long ones, but they will be interesting and pleasurable. Keep a small suitcase packed.

No monopoly on loneliness

Annie Old Girl: You must have donated your brains to the Hadassah rummage sale. I refer to "Concerned Mom" who was afraid to let her seven-year-old boy go to the men's room by himself because "the woods are full of perverts."

Your suggestion to buttonhole a kindly gentleman on his way in and ask him to watch over the kid was idiotic. Please explain how a mother is supposed to pick out the "kindly gentleman" from the sweet old geezer who is as queer as a $3 bill?

More realistic advice would have been to tell the boy, "Go in alone and if anyone tries to molest you, scream your head off." If he doesn't know what "molest" means, she should tell him. Sex education should start early. — Louisville Reader

Dear Lou: You may have a point, but I doubt that any geezer, no matter how funny, would take such a chance with the kid's mother standing outside the door. Your suggestion that young boys be warned against molesters and that they yell their heads off is excellent. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to a girl who is giving me a hard time. She says I'm too possessive and overly suspicious. She doesn't act like a person who is about to be married. You be the judge.

In the last three weeks, Hilda has "disappeared" four times. When I call her apartment, her roommate says, "I don't know where she is. Maybe she's at her mother's." I call her mother and she's not there. When Hilda turns up after two or three days and I ask where she's been, she says, "Don't be such a male chauvinist pig."

I paid $255 for an engagement ring. We plan to be married in three months. But I worry about a girl who stays lost for two and three days and then refuses to account for herself.

Does marriage settle people down? What do you think? — Once Burnt, Twice Shy

Dear Burnt: I think you'd better prepare for a life of grief if you marry a girl who specializes in disappearing and refuses to account for her absence. Don't expect her to settle down merely because she has a wedding ring on her finger. The engagement ring doesn't seem to mean much.

Dear Ann Landers: I always thought your column was to read — not to write to. But here I am, looking for help.

I'm a boy 16, with lots of friends but no friendships.

No one ever calls me to go anyplace. I'm always the one who does the calling. Usually the guys I call have "other plans." I don't know if their excuses are legitimate or not.

My parents are always pushing me to go out, but I hate to go alone and I can't seem to get anyone to go with me. Maybe I'm a born loner. Do other people feel as I do, or am I some kind of freak? Please help me. — No Name

Dear N.N.: There are millions of people like you. In fact, popular teenagers sometimes get the idea they have no friends. It's part of growing up. You say "the guys" usually have other plans. There's another sex. Girls. Have you tried them? I'll bet at least a dozen who go to your school would be thrilled to get a phone call from you.

Give it a try, and let me know how you get along.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Debs keep Daddy in debt

Those of you who have not had your formal clothes out of mothballs since the Collidge Administration may need to be reminded that we are approaching the gay, giddy debutante season, highlight in the youthful lives of several thousand typical American girls whose fathers are typical American millionaires.

Renee and Stephanie and Pooky and Mimi are redding up for the Long Beach Assistance League Ball — they've all worked with the youth auxiliary, the Assisteens (is that like the Assisteen Chapel?) and are heading for the hairdresser. The Coronet Ball of the National Charity League is held on Thanksgiving, and Frannie and Kimmie and Tiny and Junky are jumping out of their pantyhose with excitement.

Any society page worth its corset ads displays today endless photographs of faceless young things in identical white gowns and long gloves, perched prettily on stairs.

The main purpose of a debut is to get the daughter's picture in the newspaper and to assure the world that Daddy is still solvent. Secondarily it is to present the chick to society — that is, to the other millionaires' sons and daughters she has known all her life.

Many people think the life of a debutante is nothing but a mad round of dances, but there are also teas, balls, luncheons, dinners and theater parties. Sometimes a girl hardly has time to change her nail polish.

Christmas vacation is especially hard on these young blossoms. Many of them attend college, and some of the more serious ones take typing and shorthand, proving that the youth of today is not all frivolity.

But it IS a whirl, my! There are Christmas parties, club parties and family parties. All their friends give soirees and dances, each trying to out - magnolia - and - golden-sconce each other. Formal balls are sometimes staged by proud Grandpapas or wealthy uncles looking for a tax writeoff.

How to keep up with the brunches at the hunt club, fittings, shopping, dates with the hairdresser and pedicurist! There is always a tea dance and a dinner at Chason's with a show or concert afterwards, followed by Piggy Van Slatterly's bash — she had the Vienna Choir Boys flown in.

New Year's Day for Debbie the Deb is a perfect shriek, of course, because they've been up all night at Cynthia (Kooky) Martin-Turk's dance — she hired the Music Center and flew in the British Broadcasting Company. And what with the masseuse, the open-house at the Danielsons' and the cocktail dance at the Beverly-Hilton (Muggsy Vanderspachen's Daddy bought it for the party), the girls hardly have time to squeeze in the Rose Bowl game.

To prove they have their serious side, too, the girls sometimes visit hospitals to chat with the more attractive children in the non-contagious ward, or drop in at the USO to see if there are any handsome sailors (or Stanford men or photographers) around.

Coming-out parties, as they are called, are a vestigial remnant of an older society, but they are heaps of fun for several hundred rich kids, and the festivities certainly keep a lot of money in circulation. Debs keep Daddy in debt.

Tick fever easier to treat

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to inquire about the vaccination for Rocky Mountain Spotted (Tick) Fever. Some doctors do not keep the serum and explain that it is too expensive to keep on hand and that the shot may have serious side effects. Other doctors give the shots and recommend them. Do you think these shots are worthwhile? Ticks are very bad in this part of the country, especially in the grass and woods.

Also tell me a little about the fever and some early signs to look for if my children get sick. What can be done if a child gets this fever?

DEAR READER — You are almost out of the woods this year. The disease usually strikes between the first of May and the last of September.

The reason the vaccine is not used so much any more is that it is now much easier to treat Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever than it used to be. The important thing is to suspect the disease early and start treatment early. Several antibiotics (tetracyclines and chloramphenicol) are very effective in treating the disease.

The name of the disease is a misnomer. It was first found in the United States in Montana, and for years people thought it was indigenous to the Rocky Mountain area, which proved to be false. It is found quite frequently along the Atlantic Seaboard. It affects about 300 people a year.

The disease itself starts two days to two weeks after being bitten by a tick. The illness may begin like measles. However, measles are less common in the months when Rocky Mountain Fever is most likely to occur. There may be associated pain in the bones, joints, and muscles, but that won't help make a diagnosis. By the second day the fever is commonly 40 to 40.5 degrees C (104 to 105 degrees F.).

In two to six days a rash develops and may progress to involve large areas of the skin. The brain may be involved with delirium and even coma. The real death-dealing complications, though, are involvement of the lungs and heart.

The fever is usually over in about two weeks, but it may take a month or two for the patient to fully recover.

The ticks transmit an organism half way between bacteria and viruses, called rickettsia. An infected tick will transmit the disease to its own offsprings. The rickettsial illness affects small mammals, including dogs.

When the tick gets on man it will innoculate him with the rickettsia. The tick cannot transmit the infection without being attached for several hours. So, if you inspect your person twice a day for ticks and remove them, you will go a long way toward protecting yourself.

Regardless of what you have read about how to burn off a tick, the only way to remove the tick is to use a pair of small forceps and grasp the tick by the head and chest. Pull gently until he releases his jaws. If you kill the tick while in place with a lighted cigarette or kerosene, the tick may expel a lot of rickettsia into the person during the death throes.

Also, you can help by keeping the family dog free of ticks with an effective collar, and you can even use clothing impregnated with tick repellents.

Oswald: "Did you ask what he was studying about?"

Jim: "I didn't have to. When North put down the dummy he said that he didn't know whether to double with his two aces or to bid four spades."

Oswald: "The double would have been a real winner. Four hearts would have been one down. Then, since four spades went down two he would have been 70 points better off, but strangely enough North does not appear to have considered the right bid."

Jim: "No, indeed. North should have passed and hoped for the best. He should have known that four spades would be doomed to defeat and while he could not be sure about four hearts, he should have been willing to try to set it undoubled."

Oswald: "Of course, he should. Those two aces were going to be worth two tricks at either hearts or spades."

Why neat ones usually thin

You never see a compulsively overscrupulous housekeeper who is considerably overweight. That's the contention of a student of the mind. Those women who constantly buzz around emptying clean ashtrays and dusting shiny tabletops, says he, are always thin.

"WHY DO giraffes have long necks?" inquires a client. Matter of natural selection over the generations, contend the science boys. Giraffes with longer necks years ago survived because they could reach more food high up. And their offspring inherited that fortunate trait.

PONY EXPRESS

Q. "How many times did the old Pony Express riders fail to get the mail through?"

A. Only once. And they covered that 2,000-mile route for 19 months. Pretty fair record, what?

DO YOU REALIZE the methane gas in this country's cow manure could supply 10 per cent of its energy needs?

AS RECENTLY as 15 years ago, numerous African Zulu fathers still hoisted white flags over the thatched roofs of houses wherein lived marriageable girls, brides for sale.

A MEMO put out by the National Travel Association of Denmark translates: "The official rate of tipping in Denmark is 12½ per cent, but 15 per cent insures better service, so most people give 17 per cent."

LABOR

It's a matter of record that one Boston research firm assigned an imaginative male employee to stay home. He was to watch his wife work around the kitchen in an effort to come up with an idea for a new labor-saving household appliance, He did not do so. On the contrary. His wife was in labor at an appropriate future date. He was reassigned.

YOU'VE HEARD that widely quoted idiom "to bring home the bacon." But do you know who popularized it? Jack Johnson, before he became the first black heavyweight champion of the world. In 1910, he told his mother, "Don't worry, I'll bring home the bacon." Newsmen picked it up. And just about everybody in the country repeated it.

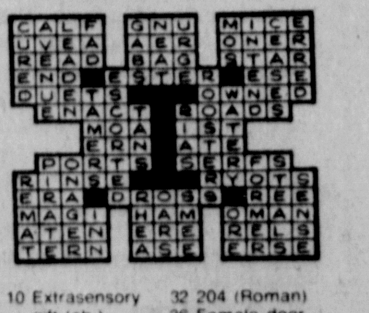
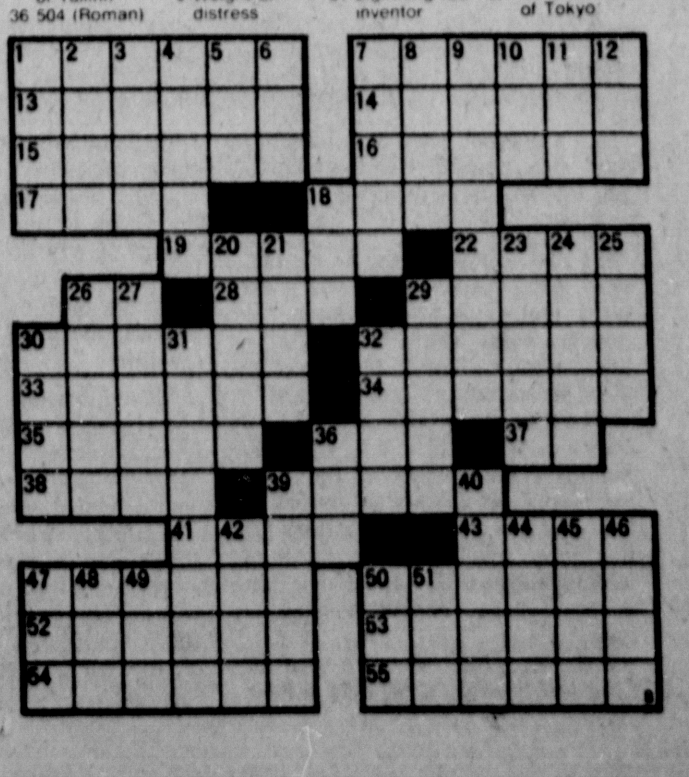
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Orantes upsets Connors

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The usually staid center court at the West Side Tennis Club took on the atmosphere of a bull ring.

Manuel Orantes, the 26-yearold left-hander from Barcelona, was the master, making defending champion Jimmy Connors see red in the ring.

"Vamos, maestro," hundreds of Spanish-speaking fans shouted. "Manuela, Manuela, Manuela.

"Orantes, Orantes, Orantes. Ole, ole, ole."

The cheers rang true.

Orantes taunted Connors by playing to his two-fisted backhand, kept him at bay on the baseline, then brought him in with drop shots and set him up for the kill.

The 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory in the U.S. Open Championships Sunday ended Connors' chances of retaining the title and reigning with his former fiancee, Chris Evert, who won the women's crown on Saturday.

Orantes' victory came less than 18 hours after his "miracle match" with Guillermo Vilas of Argentina. In that under-the-lights semifinal, the third-seeded Orantes came from far behind and beat the second-seeded Vilas 4-6, 1-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

"I was so excited," Orantes said Sunday of his comeback from death's door against Vilas. He felt that momentum carried him through Sunday's final.

During the match against Connors, which lasted less than two hours, chants kept coming from high up in the stands, which were packed with a record crowd of 15,669. They came from a group of Mexicans who had come to cheer Raul Ramirez, the No. 11 seed who went out in the round of 16. They stayed to back Orantes.

"I don't know how many there were," Orantes said. "If I had to count them by the noise they made, there were thousands."

In his first official act as champion, Orantesrushed to his wife, Virginia, and smothered her with kisses.

"She was more excited than I," he said. "She always stays calm, but after last night she was more tired than I."

After Saturday night's match, which lasted 3 hours, 45 minutes, Orantes and his wife went to dinner and did not return to the hotel until 2 a.m., only to have problems with the bath tub, which required a plumber's touch.

But both were fit by match time on Sunday: Orantes killing Connors on the court, his wife biting her nails on the sidelines.

Everyone thought Connors, who won here last year on grass, had the decisive edge. He is known as a demon on any surface and had a lot more rest.

The 23-year-old Connors advanced to the final Saturday afternoon with a 7-5, 7-5, 7-5 triumph over Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the No. 5 seed, breaking him in the 12th game of each set.

He then sat on the sidelines and cheered Chris to her 5-7, 64, 6-2 triumph over Evonne Goolagong of Australia. He was long gone, as was about threequarters of the crowd, when Orantes began his unbelievable comeback under the lights, taking the last three sets and the marathon from Vilas.

The match revived tennisweary fans nearly to the frenzy of soccer stadiums when Orantes, down two sets to one and trailing 0-5 in the fourth, evened the score by winning the last seven games of the fourth set, fighting off five match points.

At 10:35 p.m., he threw up his racket in victory after breaking Vilas in the ninth game of the last set and holding service.

"It's a shame, isn't it, that they didn't stay," Orantes said afterwards of the people who left early.

It was. Although his duel with Connors was exciting because he was fighting for the title, the battle with Vilas was by far the most thrilling of the 12 days of tennis at Forest Hills.

It also was a change of pace from the Evert-Goolagong baseline duel that gave Chris her first U.S. Open crown, her 84th straight match on clay and her 18th tournament triumph on the surface without a loss.

Miss Evert, at 20, now has won every major title except the Austrálian Open, which she says she probably will never win because she doesn't want to travel Down Under during the Christmas holidays.

Of the other tournaments that make up the Grand Slam, she has won the French twice, this year and last, and Wimbledon in 1974.

"Winning Wimbledon is great," she said, "but England is still foreign to me. It's not home. This is home to me."

Miss Evert, known as cool, consistent and confident, said she was down on herself the whole match, believing her 24year-old Australian opponent was playing a steadier game.

"But after 2-2 in the third set, I don't know what happened, but I got more confidence," she said. "I knew if I stayed in there I could win the match.

"I worked so hard to get this far that I didn't want to throw it away."

Miss Evert's victory was worth $25,000. She received another $900 as a semifinalist in the women's doubles. Not counting accessories and endorsements, she has banked a record $280,927 so far this year.

Miss Goolagong, now a threetime runner-up at Forest Hills, earned $12,000, increasing her 1975 earnings to $109,109.

Orantes, No. 2 on the Grand Prix of Tennis championship points list, earned $25,000 for his victory, increasing his year's earnings to $131,406, while Connors' $12,000 as runnerup pushed his total earnings, including challenge matches, to $587,809.

Speaking of challenge matches, Connors has one in the works for Las Vegas early next year, hoping to repeat his earlier feats over Rod Laver and John Newcombe.

When Orantes was asked if he would be available for such a duel, he looked up, smiled and replied:

"I think now he has to challenge me."

UNBELIEVABLE!

Manuel Orantes has the look of victory about him moments after he defeated heavily favored Jimmy Connors to win the U.S. Open Tennis Championship title Sunday. It was the Spaniard's first U.S. Open triumph.

Tide hosts Missouri

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Bear Bryant's 18th Alabama team begins another quest for college football's national championship tonight with players and coach alike tempering their initial optimism with some second thoughts.

"When they reported back for practice, that's all they talked about," says Bryant, whose 242 victories in 30 years at Maryland, Kentucky, Texas A&M and Alabama are third on the all-time list and who sends the second-ranked Crimson Tide against Missouri tonight before an expected crowd of 65,000 plus a national television audience (ABC, 6 p.m., PDT).

"But there hasn't been much talk of a national championship in the past few weeks because they've looked so bad in practice. You always have a lot of .400 hitters in February. Back in the spring, I thought we'd have a shot at it, but I'm not so sure now."

But this is a regular-season game and Bryant hardly ever loses one of those—22 in a row and 43 of the last 44. Bowl games, of course, are a different story and the Bear's recent record of post-season self-destruction stands at 0-7-1.

Dodgers back home vs. Giants

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Somewhat the worse for wear, the Dodgers are back home.

Third-place San Francisco is in for two games to open a 10-game Dodger homestand. A top notch pitching matchup tonight pits Andy Messersmith (15-14) against John "The Count" Montefusco (13-7) of the Giants (7:30 p.m.).

Doug Rau (13-9) and Jim Barr (11-12) wind up season competition between the two ancient rivals Tuesday. The Division Champion Reds are in Wednesday and Thursday. The Braves and Padres follow for three apiece.

Gone for the nonce are the rigors of the road. Gone for the year is the depressing emptiness of Atlanta Stadium, the stifling heat and humidity of the southern Midwest and the South and, last but not least, the pressure of the pennant race.

Sunday's 5-4 loss to the Braves before 3,439 in Atlanta eliminated the 1974 league champions and clinched the Western Division title for the Reds.

It also put the Dodgers under .500 (3-4) for the trip and made them only 3-6 for the year against the lowly Braves in Atlanta. They are barely over .500 (8-7) overall against the Braves.

It has been a very forgettable year for the Angelenos. Now they can officially concentrate on finishing ahead of the Giants and preparing to field a team that will truly challenge for the 1976 pennant.

In the trip just completed, the Dodgers' most glaring deficiencies were emphasized. Only Burt Hooton (twice) and Doug Rau were able to notch wins.

The 1975 club simply cannot punch across the runs once it gets men on base. Defensively it hans't been able to make the big play and it seemingly cannot make the double play. The fact that most of the arms in the outfield pose little threat to baserunners has complicated things even more.

The Dodgers left 11 runners on base Sunday. That gave them a total of 60 for the seven-game road trip. They outhit the Braves again, 9-7. In the four losses, they outhit the opposition, 8-7, 10-3 (in Saturday's 3-2 loss in Atlanta) and 8-7. In the other loss, it was a standoff with the Dodgers and Reds each getting nine hits. But the Reds got 13 runs to the Angelenos' three!

The Braves only made one double play Sunday. But that was one more than the Dodgers made. Atlanta now has 133 twin killings. The Dodgers, dead last again this year, have only 89. They completed just four in the seven-game tour.

Sunday's loss was particularly frustrating because the Dodgers had come back from a 3-0 deficit and finally tied the score, 4-4 in the ninth.

But Charlie Hough (1-6) dished up a one-out walk to Earl Williams in the ninth. Ron Gilbreath ran for Williams. Hough retired pinch-hitter Ed Goodson easily on a foul pop to third baseman Ken McMullen. Winning pitcher Bruce Dal Canton (2-5) singled.

But when Ralph Garr hit a grounder at Lee Lacy, it looked like extra innings. However Lacy, who had come in from left field to play second when Dave Lopes moved to short in the eighth inning, booted the ball.

Marty Perez worked the count to 3-2 and slashed a sharp single to left driving in Gilbreath with the unearned winning run. It was the second straight loss in which unearned runs turned the tide.

Sunday's only bright spot was the base running of Lopes. The speedburner stole three bases, his 64th, 65th and 66th.

DODGER DATA — Manager Walter Alston used four shortstops Sunday, Ivan DeJesus, Rick Auerback, Bill Russell and Lopes. He also used three rightfielders, Jerry Royster (playing the position for only the second time in the major leagues), Willie Crawford and John Hale.

Crawford also played left. An ontarget throw by Willie from right field in the sixth night have nipped Mike Lum at home plate and prevented an Atlanta run.

Starter Don Sutton was shaky in the first two innings. Sutton gave up two runs on four hits and two walks in that span. But he settled down and had retired 10 in a row when he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the top of the sixth inning.

The total attendance for the three games in Atlanta was 13,521 to "swell" the Braves' season attendance to 509,451 with eight home games left. If the special night for Phil Niekro hadn't been held Saturday, it's doubtful the three games would have drawn much over six thousand.

Streaking K.C. goes after A's

ANAHEIM (AP) — "Yeah," Whitey Herzog had to agree, "I'd call this momentum. If it isn't, I've never seen it."

Herzog and his Kansas City Royals arrive in Oakland tonight to commence a threegame shootout in the American League West. And the Royals arrive on the wings of an eightgame winning streak.

No. 8 arrived Sunday through the hitting of Tony Solaita and John Mayberry.

Solaita drilled three home runs and then drove in the winning run with an 11-th-inning single while Mayberry poled a pair of homers as the Royals edged the California Angels, 87, for a sweep of the four-game series.

"We tried to fold up but couldn't," Herzog said after the Royals watched a 7-3 lead vanish in the ninth when the Angels tied it up.

Kansas City will use Dennis Leonard, 12-5, against Ken Holtzman, 15-12, in the opener with Oakland tonight.

"The pressure is on Oakland," Solaita said. "They're the team trying to win four in a row. We've got a good shot if we stay healthy and don't start pressing."

Herzog might have been tempted to press the panic button Sunday. He used 20 players, eight of them pitchers, to keep the Royals' longest winning streak of the season intact.

"I told the team in the first meeting I had with them that if we were no worse than five games behind Oakland in September we'd have a chance. And that's right where we are."

Solaita, now with 15 homers, said it was his biggest day in baseball and that he was "awfully tempted" to go for another homer in the 11th inning but thought better of it.

In that situation you have to give in to the pitcher a little," he explained. "I shortened my stroke because I just wanted to make contact. I didn't hit the ball...I punched it."

Solaita's hit drove in Al Cowens from second base with the winning run. Cowens had opened the inning with a single and stole second.

Mayberry's two homers gave him 33 for the yeara nd the major league lead in that department.

George Throop, making his major league debut, saved the win for Mark Littell, 1-1. Mickey Scott was the loser.

"He was the last pitcher I had," sighed Herzog of Throop, a 6-foot-7 stringbean. "It was him or nothing."

About Solaita's game-winning hit, the Kansas City manager said, "I almost had him bunt. That shows you how smark I am."

Jerry Remy had three hits to lead California's 13-hit attack. Both Remy and Bruce Bochte had two-run doubles in the Angels' ninth inning rally.

'Bring on the East'

Reds wrap it up early

By Associated Press

Chalking up another victory en roue to the National League's West Division title was a breeze. The tough part was sitting in he locker room, waiting for the telephone to ring.

And when it finally did, the flag officially belonged to the Cincinnati Reds.

They'd clinched a tie for the crown Sunday with an 8-4 victory over San Francisco, a romp powered by George Foster's four runs batted in.

An hour or so later, the tie was broken. The phone rang and the word came though that Atlanta had beaten secondplace Los Angeles 5-4.

In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh remained 5½ games on top in the East by shutting out Montreal 6-0, St. Louis belted New York 12-4, Chicago beat Philadelphia 6-4 and Houston defeated San Diego 3-2.

"We want Pittsburgh," the Reds' Johnny Bench shouted when word of the title clinching came through . . . and the chant spread throughout the clubhouse as quickly as the champagne-and-beer shower. "We're number one! Beat the East!"

Manager Sparky Anderson was less than his usually placid self, congratulating the men who have given him his third division title in the past four years. "Nice going, everybody," he shouted...then he shouted even louder when he caught a blast of the bubbly. "Yow, that stuff is cold!

"This celebration was wanted more than the public may realize," he said later. And, reflecting on the probable league championship series against the Pirates, he added: "If we get beat in the playoffs, we get beat by a good team."

Don Gullett, 13-3, won his ninth straight game in a string that included nine weeks of inaction due to a broken thumb. "Everyone thought we would fall back when Don got hurt," said Rose, "but we opened up light on the league. We need him, but we are going to win."

Gullett said he wasn't entirely pleased with his performance but added, "I'll take it...I feel good, I'm getting my strength back and I'm faster each time. I'll be ready in time for the Pirates."

Pirates 6, Expos 0

First-inning homers by Al Oliver and Dave Parker and Jerry Reuss' four-hit pitching carried Pittsburgh past the Expos. Art Howe added a three-run double in the eighth to wipe out the slightly bitter taste of hitting into a triple play.

In the fourth, Parker doubled and Richie Zisk walked. Shortstop Tim Foli snared Howe's looper to left with an over-theshoulder catch, then wheeled and fired to second baseman Pete Mackanin to double off Parker for the second out. Mackanin whipped the ball to first baseman Jose Morales to nab Zisk, completing the triplekilling.

Cards 12, Mets 4

Ted Simmons drove in four runs with three singles and Mike Tyson added a three-run homer in the victory that kept the second-place Cardinals within striking distance of Pittsburgh and dropped the fourth-place Mets 7½ games off the pace.

Cubs 6, Phils 4

The Phils fell seven games back as Chicago scored six runs in the sixth inning, five unearned on four Philadelphia errors. Three of the runs scored when Manny Trillo's RBI single ticked off shortstop Larry Bowa's glove. Bowa kicked the ball into left-center field and left fielder Greg Luzinski also misplayed the ball.

Astros 3, Padres 2

Danny Frisella uncorked a bases-loaded wild pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Astros their victory over the Padres.

Watson is at a loss for words

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tom Watson, an intelligent and usually highly articulate young man, seemed almost at a loss for words.

"It's a great feeling to have," he said, then paused. "It's very hard to put into words, to describe just what it means.

"I can tell you this. It means a very great deal, it gives you a very good feeling inside, to know that you've won when you're facing players the caliber of Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Lou Graham."

Of those major title-holders, only Nicklaus was a threat to Watson in Sunday's final round of the World Series of Golf and his bid fizzled and failed in a series of frustrations that had the usually self-contanined Nicklaus, scowling, muttering and, at least once, angrily tossing his club.

Watson, one of the game's brightest young stars, held him off with a solid, last-round 71 and won by two strokes in the last World Series to be played under it's exclusive, four-man format.

"I think the change will be good," the red-haired, 25-year-old Watson said. "It's great to have just the four winners of the major titles, but I think it will be even better to have the others in the tournament, the foreign players, the amateur champions, the point leaders, the double winners."

The tournament which, for the last 14 years, brought together only the holders of the major titles, will expand its format to include some 28-30 players next season. Watson, as the defending World Series of Golf champion, is the first qualifier.

He won this one by a relatively comfortable two strokes with a 140 total, matching par on the tough, 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course.

Nicklaus, the Masters and PGA title-holder and a heavy pretournament favorite, birdied the last two holes for a 70 and was second at 142.

Weiskopf, the Canadian national champion, and Graham, the U.S. Open king, never really got in the chase for the $50,000 first prize. Weiskopf had a closing 70 and a 145 total. Graham was 71-147. Nicklaus, who now has won this title four times and been second in six others, collected $15,000. Weiskopf won $7,500 and Graham got $5,000.

Watson, now a three-time winner this season, opened the final round with a three-stroke lead and maintained the margin most of the mild, sunny day.

He led by two when they reached the 13th tee and the start of a string of four holes that, Nicklaus said, "were the whole tournament."

Nicklaus drove into the rough on the 13th and bogeyed. That made the margin three again. On the next two holes Jack had 15-foot birdie putts and missed them both. On each hole Watson had to get it up and down from a bunker. And he did it, sinking putts of 12 and 5 feet.

"I made the clutch putts, the two putts that won it," he said.

Nicklaus agreed.

"I was looking at a two stroke swing on both holes and it didn't happen. Tom scrambled when he had to and that's the way you win golf tournaments."

Nicklaus then bogeyed the 16th, the 625-yard "Monster" hole. He put his third over the green in deep rough, came out weakly and, when Watson made par, Nicklaus trailed by four strokes with two holes to play.

He birdied both of them, the last with a putt of some 80-90 feet, but it didn't matter and he knew it. "By that time I couldn't have cared less. The tournament was decided on the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th holes."

Fair names Dick Riley

Dick Riley, a fmailiar figure at California race tracks and a veteran race-caller, has been named to serve as announcer for the 14-day racing season that opens Friday, at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Appointment of Riley to the post was announced by Phil D. Shepherd, Secretary-Manager of the Fair Association, who reported that "we're pleased to have a man of Riley's caliber in this important position, and we're sure that his accurate and colorful reporting of the races will be welcomed by our fans."

Riley, a native of Los Angeles and a longtime jockeys' agent, will continue to provide stretch calls of the Pomona races for radio.

UPENDED — Philadelphia's Larry Bowa appears to be doing a handstand as he jumps clear of a pitch during Sunday's Phils-Cubs contest. Host Phillies dropped game by a 6-4 score.

American League roundup

Catfish wins 20th

By Associated Press

Catfish Hunter, chivalrous and humble, said he owes it all to his supporting cast. It's hard to believe that Hunter, either the fisherman or the pitcher, has ever cast a longer line or told a taller tale.

Hunter, the most consistent pitcher in baseball in the 1970s, Sunday joined a couple of immortals from yesteryear by winning his 20th game for the fifth straight year. Only Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove had drawn five a kind in the American League before.

"It feels great, but I owe it to the teams behind me," said Hunter, who turned in the A's green and gold for the Yankee pinstripes and got a lot of green and gold for doing it. "To Oakland for the first four seasons, and to the Yankees this year. A pitcher is only as good as his team."

If that were really true, there would be as many 20-game winners on the Oakland A's as there are fights.

Indeed, Hunter had four 20game seasons with the A's, world champions the past three years, but then he did it again this year with the Yankees, who are merely a .500 ballclub.

The Yankees, who beat Baltimore 2-0 Sunday behind Hunter's six-hitter, are thinking about next year while his former teammates are looking toward another World Series. However, there is a small matter to clear up first, the American League West title.

The Kansas City Royals, five games behind the A's, charge into Oakland tonight riding an eight-game winning streak. On Sunday, the Royals beat the California Angels 8-7 in 11 innings.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland beat Texas 4-1 and 7-3; Cleveland took a pair from Detroit, 7-2 and 9-0; Boston beat Milwaukee 6-3, then lost 7-3, and Minnesota pounded Chicago 9-1.

Hunter, 20-13, the 1974 Cy Young Award Winner, struck out five Orioles and didn't allow a runner past second base in outdueling Jim Palmer.

A's 4-7, Rangers 1-3

"Our bullpen has kept us in the race all year," Oakland Manager Alvin Dark said following a doubleheader sweep of Texas.

Dick Bosman, with shutout relief help from Jim Todd over the final 3 2-3 innings, won the first game and Sonny Siebert, with relief help from Paul Lindblad, Todd and Rollie Fingers, won the second game.

Fingers got his 20th save of the season in the second game and Todd his 11th in the first.

Twins 9, White Sox 1

Steve Brye returned to the Minnesota lineup with a boom. Brye, making his first plate appearances in two months after being on the disabled list, pinch hit an inside-the-park home run, then in his next at bat, he slugged a conventional overthe-wall shot in Minnesota's romp over Chicago.

Red Sox 6-3, Brewers 3-7

George Scott slugged a threerun homer to lead Milwaukee over Boston in the first game after the Red Sox whipped the Brewers in the opener on Carlton Fisk's tie-breaking double.

The split left Boston seven games ahead of second-place Baltimore in the American League East.

Indians 7-9, Tigers 2-0

Oscar Gamble and George Hendrick were the hitting stars in Cleveland's slugfest over Detroit. Gamble cracked a triple and a homer and drove in three runs as Fritz Peterson won his eighth straight game with a six-hitter. Hendrick drove in three runs with his 21st homer and a single in the opener.

Mears wins at Riverside

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Roger Mears of Costa Mesa, Calif., driving the last lap and a half with only second gear available, defeated Bobby Ferro to win the single seat dune buggy race Sunday at the World Championship of off-road racing.

Mears roared passed the pitts on the 11th lap and yelled to his father, Bill Mears, that his transmission was out. But he kept trying to find a gear and found second and finished ahead of Ferro, who also had mechanical problems. His winning speed was 52.03 miles per hour.

The victory earned more than $8,000 prize money for Mears, who passed passed Ferro in the fifth lap after the Sherman Oaks, Calif., racer, a former Baja 500 and 1000 champion, had started in the pole position.

"I almost pulled into the pitts with the gear problem but then I saw the white flag for the last lap and I started talking nice to the car and trying to make it," Mears said.

Thirteen events were held during the day before a crowd of 41,500 at Riverside International Raceway.

Mitch Mayes of Palmdale, Calif., won the race for motorcycles over 250 cubic centimeters when he passed Rex Staten of Fontana, Calif., on the last lap.

Mayes, riding a Husqvarna, fell off his bike on the eighth lap and got back on and went after Staten.

In the last lap Staten came to a stop and had to restart his bike. He was riding with a wrist he broke in a race a month ago.

Mayes winning time was 55.67 m.p.h.

In the race for pickup trucks, pole sitter Walker Evans of Riverside, Calif., drove right through Dan Gilbert of Cypress, Calif., when Gilbert tried to cut in front of Evans in the first turn and take the lead.

Gilbert spun out and had to wait for traffic to pass before he took off after Evans. He finished second as Evans won the race in 46.7 m.p.h.

NFL roundup

Snead, Hayes give 49ers some spark

By Associated Press

Norm Snead and Bob Hayes, two players who were shunted aside by other National Football League clubs, are providing new spark for the San Francisco 49ers.

Snead, 36, and Hayes, 32, connected on touchdown passes of 18 and 31 yards in the first half and the 49ers went on to whip the Denver Broncos 44-10 in NFL preseason play Sunday.

"That young fellow Snead knows what's going on out there," said Hayes jokingly.

The 49ers picked up Snead from the New York Giants midway through the 1974 season, then obtained Hayes from Dallas over the summer. Both of their old clubs felt the players were past their prime.

"In Dallas, they were saying I was finished," said Hayes. "I hope I proved to the fans here that I'm not."

In other games Sunday, Cleveland beat the New York Giants 24-20, New England defeated San Diego 31-24 and the New York Jets edged Washington 35-31.

The weekend of exhibition play opened Friday night, when Oakland stretched its record to 5-0 by beating Dallas 31-20.

On Saturday, Kansas City whipped Green Bay 31-3, Buffalo edged Atlanta 16-14, Los Angeles overpowered Philadelphia 35-0, Pittsburgh topped New Orleans 24-13, St. Louis downed Minnesota 13-6, Miami beat Chicago 21-10 and Cincinnati defeated Detroit 22-14.

The schedule concludes tonight when Baltimore plays at Houston.

"I don't think there are any more critics of my quarterback choice," said San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan, referring to his decision last week to go with Snead, who is entering his 15th pro campaign, as the 49ers' No. 1 quarterback ahead of Steve Spurrier.

Snead threw beautifully against Denver, completing 12 of 16 passes for 139 yards before leaving early in the second half. Snead took advantage of three Denver turnovers in the second quarter to roll up 23 points and break the game open.

Cleveland reserve quarterback Brian Sipe completed 15 of 18 passes for 143 yards, including a seven-yard touchdown pass to Gary Tarris in the third period that put the Browns ahead for good.

Cleveland's Walt McKinnis rushed for 98 yards on 19 carries and scored once, on a oneyard plunge.

It was New York's first loss of the exhibition season, and Coach Bill Arnsparger explained it this way: "We didn't play well—we stunk throughout the game."

Leon McQuay, picked up on waivers recently from the New York Giants, scored three touchdowns in the second half as New England overcame a 17-7 deficit. McQuay ran back the second-half kickoff 101 yards, then scored on runs from scrimmage of five and 56 yards.

It was a costly win for New England: quarterback Jim Plunkett suffered a shoulder separation when he was tackled in the second quarter. He'll be out three to four weeks.

Joe Namath, making his first appearance in three weeks, led the Jets to a 21-14 halftime lead, then the defense took over for two fourth quarter scores to turn back Washington's rally.

After the Redskins had gone ahead 24-21, safety Delles Howell ran back an interception 37 yards for a touchdown and linebacker Godwin Turk blocked a punt to set up Bob Gresham's nine-yard run.

Namath completed 12 of 28 passes for 219 yards, while Randy Johnson fired the Washington comeback by hitting 11 of 21 for 169 yards.

Mike Livingston may have finally put an end to Kansas City's long search for a No. 1 quarterback. He hit on 12 of 17 passes for 157 yards, did not give up an interception and guided the Chiefs to three firstperiod touchdowns that made the win over the Packers easy.

St. Louis' defense limited Minnesota to a pair of field goals.

Walton leads Wings' win

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The San Antonio Wings followed quarterback Johnnie Walton and his three touchdown passes into first place in the World Football League Western Division with a 30-8 victory over the Southern California Sun.

The Sun loss was the second this season to San Antonio, with Sunday's game set up at the last minute after the California team's scheduled weekend opponent, the Chicago Wind, lost its franchise last week.

Walton's scoring tosses Sunday night included a 17-yard throw to Willie Frazier who snared another eight-yard touchdown pass.

The Wings' record now stands at 5-2 and gives them a half-game lead over the Sun in the Western Division.

San Antonio took an 8-0 lead in the second quarter on a 63-yard pass from Walton to Donnie Joe Morris and Billie Sadler's action point.

The Wings increased their lead to 16-0 on their first possession in the third quarter after a 53-yard drive topped by Walton's 17-yard touchdown pass to Frazier.

Southern California came back in its next possession to cover 75 yards in 15 plays with Greg Hurd scoring from one yard out. The Sun picked up the two action points when Mike Ernst passed to Bob Farrell.

San Antonio iced the victory in the fourth quarter with a Walton-to-Frazier pass and an extra point that gave the Wings a 23-8 lead.

With 1:48 remaining, the Wings added another score following Hugo Hollas' interception of a Daryl Lamonica pass. Dickie James got the touchdown on a five-yard run.

Larry Csonka makes his presence felt, even when he doesn't get into the game.

With Csonka sidelined because of a groin injury, his understudy, Willie Spencer, stepped right in and rushed for 142 yards to lead the Memphis Grizzlies to a 37-17 victory over the Hawaiians.

The triumph gave Memphis a one-half game lead over Birmingham in the World Football League's Eastern Division.

Spencer, a 230-pounder, was named the game's outstanding player. He carried 15 times before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with a bruised rib.

"The holes were open and I was running well," said Spencer, who credit's Csonka's tutoring with much of his success. "It was a great day—except for the injury."

Memphis Coach John McVay said, "I thought Willie had his best game since he's been with us."

The other members of the Miami Three, the trio of defectors from the National Football League's Miami Dolphins, made more tangible contributions to Memphis' success.

Jim Kiick rushed for two touchdowns and 106 yards, while Paul Warfield caught a 14-yard scoring pass, one of two thrown by Danny White. The other was a 29-yarder to Gary Shirk.

College football roundup

New Division I teams win

By Associated Press

Shucks, what's all this about Division I being so tough?

Five newcomers made their debut in the world of major college football Saturday, and while the opposition wassn't on the Oklahoma-Alabama level, the fledgling "big-timers" came away with an impressive 3-1-1 record.

Central Michigan, last year's national College Division champion, trounced Western Michigan 34-0 in a Mid-American Conference game, Ball State trimmed Eastern Michigan 24-4, also in the MAC, and Arkansas State swamped Northwestern Louisiana 42-0. Meanwhile, Northeast Louisiana battled to a 3-3 tie with Pacific while Fullerton State was ripped by Fresno State 49-7 in a Pacific Coast Athletic Association contest.

Only three members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were in action—second-ranked Alabama faces Missouri tonight in a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 6 p.m. PDT)—and all posted victories, although sixthranked Penn State had to rally in the fourth period to edge intrastate rival Temple 26-25. North Carolina State, rated 13th, whipped East Carolina 26-3 and No. 17 Maryland buried Villanova 41-0.

The opening weekend of the 1975 campaign was marred by tragedy when tight end Chris Angeloff of Akron collapsed and died during the Zips' 20-8 victory over Marshall.

Elsewhere, Baylor got past Mississippi 20-10, Pitt downed Georgia 19-9, Mississippi State held off Memphis State 17-7, Houston beat Lamar 20-3, San Diego State drubbed Texas-El Paso 31-10, North Carolina crushed William & Mary 33-7 and Southern Methodist shaded Wake Forest 14-7.

In Missouri Valley Conference games, New Mexico State beat Drake 14-10 and Wichita State surprised West Texas State 14-10.

Central Michigan's Walt Hodges had his 12th consecutive 100-yard game, rushing for 147 yards against Western Michigan, including a 29-yard scoring gallop.

"It's really good to be 1-0 since this was a conference game and we have another one next Saturday against Ohio U.," said Coach Roy Kramer.

Earl Taylor rushed for 134 yards and two touchdowns to lead Ball State over Eastern Michigan while senior David Hines, who played defensive back the past two years, made his collegiate debut at quarterback and ran for four touchdowns to lead Arkansas State to victory.

Penn State, a two-touchdown favorite, took an 18-13 lead over Temple on the first of Duane Taylor's short scoring runs but trailed 23-18 in the final period. However, Woody Petchel's 66yard punt return set up a threeyard scoringburst by Taylor and John Andress' two-point conversion pass provided the margin of victory.

"I thought Temple dominated the game," said Penn State Coach Joe Paterno. "They played better defense than I expected. They executed better than we did early. They hustled, hit hard and came off the ball well.

"We always seem to have to have a game like this under our belts."

North Carolina State stopped an early East Carolina threat and then mowed down the Pirates as Johnny Evans scored twice and Dave Buckey once, all on one-yard runs.

Maryland sophomore Mark Manges passed for 280 yards and a school-record four touchdowns as the Terrapins spoiled Dick Bedesem's debut as Villanova's head coach. Manges hit Vince Kinney for 46 and 41 yards, Tim Wilson for 25 and John Schultz for 38.

Baylor posted its first opening-game triumph since 1966 when Cleveland Franklin and Pat McNeil scored second-period touchdowns and the Bears held on to defeat Ole Miss despite the loss of quarterback Mark Jackson, who suffered a broken collarbone.

Tony Dorsett, held to 17 yards in the first half, exploded for runs of 27 and 36 yards to set up second-half scores as Pitt overtook Georgia.

Sophomore Bruce Threadgill led Mississippi State over Memphis State, running for one score and passing for another. Houston broke open a tight game with Lamar in the fourth quarter on a pair of short touchdown runs by John Housmak, who krusshed for 114 yards.

Craig Penrose passed for 281 yards and led San Diego State past Texas-El Paso, while North Carolina's James Betterson returned the opening kickoff 92 yards and scored twice against W&M. Wayne Morris and David Bostick scored firsthalf touchdowns as Southern Methodist held off stubborn Wake Forest.

Bigelow gets second again

By Associated Press

At 35, Tom Bigelow, pint-sized as drivers go at 5-foot-9 and 165 pounds, finally has gained some measure of recognition by again doing something he feels has cost him recognition in the past—finishing second.

The personable Whitewater, Wis., racer won the biggest race of his career Saturday, the prestigious Hoosier 100, for the type of roadsters run in the Indianapolis 500 15 years ago.

Despite that victory, and two other triumphs in the five-race series, Bigelow was runnerup for the third straight year in the U.S. Auto Club division that has had the likes of A.J. Foyt, Al Unser and Mario Andretti as champions in the past.

Bigelow, who has also finished second in the U.S. Auto Club sprint, and midget divisions in recent years, trailed steady Jimmy Caruthers this time.

Meanwhile, Niki Lauda had a first in Formula I racing. The Austrian wheeled his Ferrari to a third-place finish—behind Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland and Brazil's Emerson Fittipaldi—in Sunday's Italian Grand Prix at Monza and gained enough points to clinch the prestigious world driving championship. He dethroned last year's champ, Fittipaldi.

Caruthers finished third, behind Bigelow and Foyt, a six-time winner in his 19 appearances in the 100-mile, $50,000 race at the Indiana State Fairgrounds mile track.

"Winning this race is very important to me," said Bigelow, who earned about $10,000. "I'm still not sure how I can win three races and still finish second in the championship again."

Bigelow, winner of more than 35 USAC races, said he would like more than anything now to make some improvement in his showings on the Indianapolis car circuit.

Regazzoni, wheeling a Ferrari, led from start to finish in the Italian Grand Prix and finished 16.6 seconds ahead of Fittipaldi, in a McLaren, with the 26-year-old Lauda only another 23.2 seconds.

In other weekend racing, Ramo Stott finally overtook four-time USAC stockcar champ Butch Hartman in the driving title chase with a second-place finish, behind winner Larry Moore, in a 250-mile race at Milwaukee.

To capture his fifth straight title, Hartman must now win the season finale Sept. 21 at Trenton, N.J., with Stott finishing no higher than fourth.

The 40-year-old Foyt, meanwhile, made another of his increasing rarer dirt track appearances in Sunday's 23rd annual Hut Hundred USAC midget race at Terre Haute, Ind.

Foyt, who last drove a midget nearly a year ago, was the fastest qualifier, and led the race until his car started to sputter. Pancho Carter came on to win the 50-mile event.

Monsoon-like weather at Richmond, Va., forced rescheduling of Sunday's Capitol City 500 Grand National stock car race, under the auspices of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, to Oct. 12. The 29 starting positions remain frozen, with Benny Parsons in the pole position.

Orr planning to stay Bruin?

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — "It's all news to me," said Boston Bruins' General Manager Harry Sinden after the president of the Minnesota Fighting Saints said National Hockey League star Bobby Orr has decided to remain with the Bruins.

However, there are unconfirmed reports that the Bruins and Orr will make a formal announcement of the contract later this week.

"I would say it's 99 per cent sure he'll (Orr) stay in Boston," said Wayne Belisle, president of the World Hockey Association Saints. "I'm disappointed mostly because I think we were so close."

Belisle said Minnesota offered Orr a $4 million contract for five years.

He said Orr's attorney, Alan Eagleson, told him that Boston made an offer for 10 years.

Hawaii leads series

HONOLULU (AP) — Sonny Jackson's one-out two-run homer in the bottom of the 10th inning Sunday night gave Hawaii a 5-3 win over the Salt Lake City Gulls and put the Islanders ahead three games to two in the best-of-seven series for the Pacific Coast League championship.

It was Jackson's first homer since 1971 and came after Salt Lake had tied up the game at 3-3 in the eighth inning on a solo home run by Dan Briggs.

Did you know there was once a major football game in which the score—and even the winner—were changed 48 hours after the game was over. . .It happened in 1940. . .Cornell beat Dartmouth 7-3. . .But on the Monday after that Saturday game, officials of both schools looked at movies of the game and realized Cornell had scored its touchdown on an illegal down. . .Even though Cornell had an unbeaten season going, they said they would give up the touchdown, and thereby give up the victory . . . The result was declared reversed and it was officially changed in record books from Cornell 7, Dartmouth 3 to Dartmouth 3, Cornell 0.

Growing Russ problem

How do you keep them down on the farm after they've seen Moscow?

MOSCOW (AP) — When Marina and Nikolai end their long day of harvesting in the wheat fields of the Ukraine, they still face several hours of work in their little home.

Wood must be chopped for the stove, water brought from the well for washing and cleaning, feed prepared and given to the cow and chickens, plus a multitude of other tasks that daily confront rural residents in the Soviet Union.

Marina and Nikolai, both machine operators on a collective farm, are not happy with this way of life. They long to move to Kiev where they are sure life will be easier and better — higher salaries, less strenuous working conditions, more stores, increased leisure time and better ways to spend it.

How do you keep them down on the farm after they've seen Kiev, or Leningrad, or Moscow? That question has been plaguing Soviet authorities for years, as hundreds of thousands of rural residents each year abandon their sleepy villages and farms for the excitement of the big cities.

There, the standard of living is said by Soviet experts to be twice as high as what the farmers left behind.

In the last 50 years, the rural proportion of the Soviet population has dramatically tumbled from 84 to 40 per cent, although it is still much higher than in other developed countries.

Between 1922 and 1974, the number of city dwellers rose from 22 million to 151 million, while rural residents dropped from 114 million to 101 million.

Such a rural migration is common in any industrialized country, but the overwhelming majority of the emigrants are skilled young workers, the lifeblood of agriculture. As a result, about half the Soviet farm workers today are older women, according to Western estimates.

Soviet farms now are able to meet only 60 per cent of their demand for skilled labor. Unless there is a dramatic turnaround, the shortage may assume crisis proportions by 1980, when farms will need about 8 million machine operators, or twice as may as there are now.

Zubtsov district near Moscow is a typical farming area. According to Sergei Ilyin, chairman of Ilyich's Path collective farm, the district has more than 18,000 people, 10 per cent of whom are between the ages of 15 and 29.

"There has been no population increase in the district for several years, and the death rate is higher than the birth rate," Ilyin said in the magazine Yunost.

"The youngest, best educated and most energetic segment of the population is steadily increasing. In two years, 145 young men and women were trained as tractor drivers but only five stayed in the country."

In order to stem this flood, steps will have to be taken to correct the shortcomings of rural life: long working hours, difficult labor conditions, boredom and lack of schools, stores, hospitals, other services, homes with conveniences.

According to a survey of more than 2,000 farm workers in Siberia, rural women spend twice as much time on housework as do their city sisters. More than 43 per cent of the workers questioned in the survey complained they almost never had any free time.

The sociologist-authors of the survey, published in Pravda, said rural workers spend no less than 50-to-55 hours a week in the fields during the busiest seasons. Most city workers, by contrast, work 41 hours a week.

Few farms have day nurseries and kindergartens, so more than 70 per cent of farm mothers under 25 do not work in a country where more than 80 per cent of the women are employed outside the home.

Rural stores are often bare of many essential food products and manufactured goods, so the farm family has to make long journeys to the nearest town to buy what it needs.

When he can grab some hours of free time, the average rural resident finds little to occupy himself. There is a glaring scarcity of movie and stage theaters, libraries, restaurants, cafes and other facilities in many rural areas.

"The system of cultural services in the countryside continues to lag sharply behind that in the city," Pravda says.

In their search for a good education, farm children are severely handicapped compared to their city counterparts. One-room schoolhouses and shortages of teachers, textbooks and equipment are common.

In addition, children in some areas are forced to interrupt their schoolwork for two or three months while they help out with the autumn harvest.

In certain regions, the dropout rate before seventh grade has reached 50 per cent. In the 1970 census, only 31.8 per cent of rural residents had had any secondary education and only 1.4 per cent had higher education.

Because of their educational disadvantages, rural children usually lose out in the highly competitive race for higher education. In 1971, farm children made up only 10.7 per cent of the college and university student population.

Farm work has little prestige, and therefore, every year, "the most capable, talented young people leave," laments rural writer Georgi Radov. "It's an alarming symptom when the countryside has to orient itself to potentially mediocre people."

The young people who opt for a job on the farm often find that "they're not entrusted with complicated, important and hence high-paying work," adds M. Doroshok, a rural Communist party official writing in Pravda.

"They are assigned worn out machinery," he says. "Advancement is inordinately slow, taking 5 to 10 years."

Alarmed by the current state of agricultural affairs, Kremlin leaders last year announced a $35 billion agricultural redevelopment program, which among other things, calls for the construction of more schools, clubs, theaters, hospitals and shops.

Whether this program will indeed be put into operation and help stem the flow of discontented young farmers, only time will tell.

Paper urges tranquility in bus row

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Herald American replaced its traditional front page Friday with the pictures of 32 people it says advocate the safety of children when schools open Monday under a new integration plan.

Inside, the newspaper filled up 2½ more pages with 100 pictures. Those urging tranquility ranged from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to Carl Yastrzemski, first baseman for the Boston Red Sox.

Set in large type on Page 1 was a statement that read in part:

"A resort to violence is an abomination in a civilized society. Physical abuse of Boston's school children, in the name of any cause whatsoever, is abhorrent and totally unacceptable to all responsible persons.

"Pictured on these pages of the Herald American are recognized and respected leaders of our community who concur that — despite all personal views on the justice of school busing — no physical violence shall disrupt the opening of schools or harm the children."

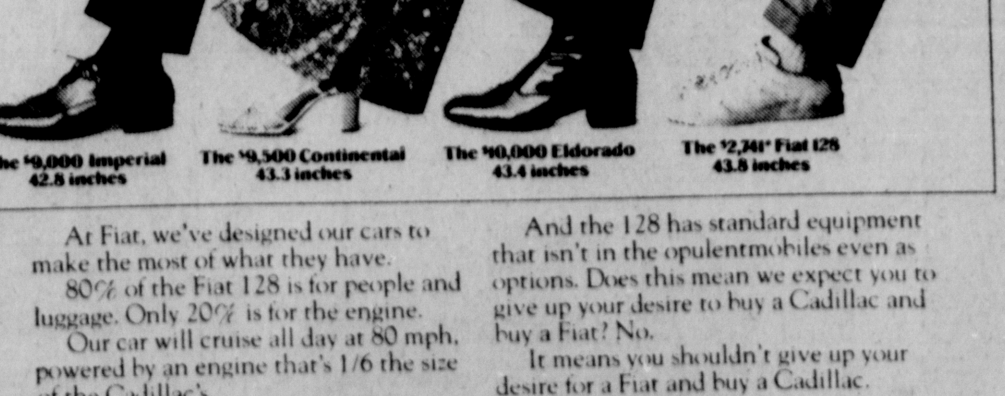
If YOU purchase a FIAT from Frank White Imports
In The Month of September 1975 — Frank White will pay
ALL MAINTENANCE ON YOUR CAR . . .
Drive FREE for 12 Months or 12,000 Miles!!!!!

The Fiat 128.
More legroom for passengers in the front seat than America's most luxurious cars.



The $9,000 Imperial 42.8 inches
The $9,500 Continental 43.3 inches
The $10,000 Eldorado 43.4 inches
The $2,741* Fiat 128 43.8 inches

At Fiat, we've designed our cars to make the most of what they have.

80% of the Fiat 128 is for people and luggage. Only 20% is for the engine.

Our car will cruise all day at 80 mph, powered by an engine that's 1/6 the size of the Cadillac's.

And the 128 has standard equipment that isn't in the opulentmobiles even as options. Does this mean we expect you to give up your desire to buy a Cadillac and buy a Fiat? No.

*1975 Manufacturer's suggested retail price POE. Inland transportation, dealer preparation and local taxes additional. Overseas delivery and leasing arranged through your dealer.
